TYDINGS TURNS ON ROOSEVELT IN COURT BATTLE

Maryland Democrat Assails Scheme.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Conferring with house leaders on his proposal to pack the Supreme court with six New Dealers, President Roosevelt today approved a plan to delay action in that body and concentrate on the senate, where the fate of the legislation is doubtful.

Sen. Millard Tydings.

Mr. Roosevelt was assured by Speaker William B. Bankhead, Majority Leader Sam Rayburn and Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, that the bill could be put through the house without difficulty.

In the senate, however, the uncertainty of the administration's ultimate chances of success was increased when another uncommitted senator, Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], declared himself in opposition to the President's proposal.

"Settles Nothing Permanently."

"Since the proposal was submitted to congress to enlarge the Supreme court I have given the subject my most careful consideration," Senator Tydings said. "I do not feel the proposed enlargement is proper. In reality, such enlargement really settles nothing permanently.

"If wider legislative powers are desired for congress, then the orderly way to secure such wider powers is through the method of constitutional amendment."

Opponents of the President's scheme now claim at least 40 certain votes in the senate and they are counting upon at least half of some two dozen who have not committed themselves. Even with 40 senators, opposition leaders believe, the proposition could be killed by a filibuster.

Retirement Act Gets an O. K.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] filed a report from the judiciary committee today recommending favorable action on the house bill permitting voluntary retirement of Supreme court justices at the age of 70. Debate on this measure, which will transcend the question of voluntary retirement and embrace the President's entire judiciary reorganization scheme, may begin in the senate tomorrow.

The strategy of the administration is to pass the voluntary retirement bill immediately, in the hope that some of the present justices, being assured of full pay for life, will take advantage of it and make room for new appointments. Some senators will support it in the hope that it will offer a way out of the raging controversy over packing the court, while others will oppose it in the belief that it is coercive.

While hearings will not begin until March 9 on the President's bill permitting the appointment of a new member of the Supreme court for each justice over 70 who refuses to retire, the administration is appealing to labor and farm organizations for support.

Wallace Plans Tour.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today announced plans for an extended farm tour, on which he will discuss the legislation demanded by agricultural groups and tell them that it is impossible without a Supreme court which will place an "enlightened" construction upon the constitution.

The organized agricultural interests have not responded favorably to the President's proposal, and although union labor, including the A. F. of L. and John L. Lewis' organization, "is putting on the pressure from back home," senators' mail still is overwhelmingly against packing the court.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.], who still refuses to commit himself on the President's program, said today that his letters were averaging about 1,500 daily. He said the entire time of his office force was required to open the letters, "that about 75 to 90 per cent" of them were opposed to the plan and that "many call me vulgar names."

HEADLESS BODY FOUND AT LAKE IN CLEVELAND

Hunt Fiend Skilled with Knife.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A sex crazed, surgically skilled maniac was sought by police tonight as responsible for Cleveland's latest torso murder—that of a young woman soon to become a mother. Her decapitated and otherwise mutilated body was found on the lake front here today.

The grewsome discovery was that of the eighth bizarre torso murder in Cleveland in two and a half years, all of them still unsolved. As in the other seven crimes, no clews were found in the present case except that the body had been dismembered with the same apparent skill as had the other victims.

The torso of the latest victim, a woman about 25 years old, was discovered lying in the water on the shore of Lake Erie on the city's east side. Police Lieut. William Sargent said apparently it had been lying in the water for a day or two.

The head, arms and legs had been cleanly severed from the body and the trunk sliced off just below the ribs. The woman had weighed about 120 pounds, it was estimated.

None of Crimes Solved.

Hundreds of suspects have been questioned in the strange and horrible crimes since they began in the fall of 1934, but without a definite clew being obtained, baffled police declared.

After the seventh torso had been found and none of the murders had been solved Dr. A. J. Pearse, former coroner, called a meeting of police officials, crime experts, psychiatrists, and chemists to discuss the mysterious cases.

They sought some agreement on the sort of killer the police department was seeking, but after three hours of conjecture and debate Detective Sergeant James Hogan, chief of the homicide squad, reported:

"We're right back where we were the day the first body was found."

The first body was that of one of the three women who have fallen victims of the elusive fiend and his scalpel. It was found on Sept. 5, 1934, in the same neighborhood where today's body was discovered. The headless and limbless body of a woman around 35 years old was washed up on the lake shore.

Part of a shoulder blade, the ribs, and spine were found on the beach at North Perry, thirty miles away. They and the torso were interred in a potter's field after all attempts at identification had failed.

Five Bodies in Creek Valley.

A year later two of the five bodies subsequently found in the desolate Kingsbury run section on the southeast side of the city were discovered. The nude and headless bodies, both of men, lay in a thicket of brush. The heads were found buried in sand near by. One was identified by fingerprints as Edward Andrassy, 28, but the other never was identified.

In January, 1936, residents of a district not far from Kingsbury run were aroused by a barking dog that would not be stilled. Police investigated and in a nearby vacant lot found two bushel baskets containing the torso and left arm of a woman.

In another vacant lot not far away police later found all of the missing parts except the head. The woman was identified, however, from her fingerprints. She was Mrs. Florence Polilla, 41, who had once been arrested in a vice raid.

Boys Find Man's Head.

Last June two boys playing hooky from school found the head of a young man rolled in an old coat in a gully off Kingsbury run. The next day a body was found about 300 feet away. He never was identified.

A month and a half later, on July 22, the headless body of another man was discovered in similar desolate territory in a ravine between Big Creek and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks on the west side. The head lay near the body. Identification never was made.

The body of the seventh victim, a man, was found last Sept. 10 in a culvert under East 37th street. His body was sliced in two. His head never was found and he remained unidentified.

Kingsbury Run, where the mad killer confined most of his earlier activities, is a desolate section marked by the slow crawl of the oil filled waters of the little creek.

Court Upholds Stork Derby; Fight on Again

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on page 3.)

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—The famous "stork Derby" clause in the strange will of Charles Vance Millar is valid, and the battle of prolific mothers for a $500,000 fortune is on again.

Charles Vance Millar.

The ruling of validity was handed down today by the Ontario Court of Appeals, which thus eliminated the effort of relatives of Millar to upset his will on grounds that it was "scandalous" and "contrary to public policy." The relatives, Alexander Butcher and Arabella West of Port Burwell, Ont., had appealed from a previous ruling by Justice W. E. Middleton of the Supreme court that they were not entitled to share in the fortune.

Bars Illegitimate Children.

The Court of Appeals also shattered the hopes of one of the mothers in the baby race by upholding the decision of Justice Middleton that illegitimate children were not eligible.

One of the seventeen women who entered the strange marathon to see who could produce the most children in a ten year period between Oct. 31, 1926, and Oct. 31, 1936, was Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke, who admitted that five of her nine offspring were born after she left her husband.

Her lawyers, however, contended that the children were legitimate because she still was married.

Five Women Tied.

Mrs. Clarke is one of five women who are tied for first place with nine babies apiece in the ten year marathon. The others are Mrs. Arthur Timleck, Mrs. Alfred Smith, Mrs. John Nagle, and Mrs. Isobel McLean. A sixth mother, Mrs. Lily Kenny, claims to have had eleven children, but her claim is contested.

The effect of today's ruling will be to return the case to the Supreme court for Justice Sutherland to decide who is to receive the money.

STUMBLING BLOCK NO. 1 FOR SINFUL SKINFUL: METHODIST EPISCOPAL

One way is to see if he can walk a straight line. Another is to see if he can turn at a right angle on his stroll. Still another is to see if he can stand, blindfolded, without wabbling.

But the best way to tell whether a fellow has had one too many drinks is the simplest, University of Chicago scientists were told last night by Dr. Clarence W. Muehlberger, criminologist of the coroner's office and the Northwestern university scientific crime detection laboratories. It's this. See if he can say:

"Methodist Episcopal."

If he has had too many he'll get his tongue twisted on the "s's."

Police, after practicing on the two words last night, decided that it might be better to let inebriates give them a real test.

Young Autoists Are Architects of Own Fate

Visiting in Thornton township the other evening, Frank Bugajski and Walter Raczak, had a few drinks, then had a few more. In due course they found themselves rolling merrily along in Raczak's car, though only slightly in the direction of Whiting, where Frank is a laborer and Walter works in a butcher shop.

Near Thornton there was a crash. They discovered they had collided with an automobile driven by Richard Schoon of Lansing, Ill. All got out to survey the damage, which, to Schoon's machine, was considerable.

"I'm going to call the cops," announced Schoon.

"Let's see you try it," said Bugajski and Raczak, who are both 21.

A Good Samaritan Arrives.

Just then Clyde Greenawald, who lives in near-by Glenwood, drove up.

"Any trouble?" he asked.

"Yes; call the police!" shouted Schoon.

"O, no you don't," said the Whiting pair. "Get out of that car."

Vanishes in Confusion.

In the confusion Schoon vanished.

"Why keep me here? The damage is done," asked Greenawald. He was permitted to leave. Unable to repair the wheel, the Whiting boys abandoned their car. Lake county authorities traced it to Raczak, arrested him and Bugajski and notified the Chicago state's attorney's office, since the accident had happened in Cook county. Yesterday detectives returned the two to Chicago.

"Now I suppose we'll go to jail for drunk driving, eh?" inquired Bugajski to Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford.

"Drunk driving?" exclaimed Crawford. "We want you for kidnaping."

He added consolingly that since nobody had been held for ransom, it was unlikely they could be prosecuted under the federal Lindbergh law. But the dazed prisoners didn't hear him. Kidnaping!

Inspector Kills Boy Fleeing in Busy Street

A boy 16 years old was shot and killed last night as he fled from a United States postoffice inspector who wanted to question him about a mailbox robbery. The boy fell fatally wounded in an alley behind the Tivoli theater, 6329 Cottage Grove avenue, after a two block chase along crowded 63d street and Maryland avenue.

Owen Fagan.

The victim was Andrew Johnston, who lived at 1506 East 62d street with his mother, Mrs. Mabel McQueeney. The boy's father is dead and his mother has been separated from her present husband, James McQueeney, for several months. Mrs. McQueeney said her son served a year at the St. Charles Training school for petty larceny. He was paroled last September. Recently, she said, he has been a delivery boy for a loop department store.

Set Trap for Suspect.

The shooting was the result of a trap set for the youth by Postoffice Inspectors Owen Fagan and L. N. Harvey. Early last Sunday morning a Woodlawn police squad arrested an associate of the slain youth, who gave his name as Earl Bennefield, 19 years old, 5519 Kenwood avenue. In his pocket police found a check from the county treasurer's office made payable to Miss Frances Hayenga, 5642 Drexel avenue.

Miss Hayenga reported she had not received the check, which was mailed on Jan. 31, so police concluded it had been stolen from her mail box. They notified postoffice inspectors, who questioned young Bennefield.

Youth Starts Running.

"I got it from a boy named Buster," said Bennefield. "I'm going to meet him Tuesday night at 63d street and Drexel avenue."

The two postoffice inspectors went to the appointed place, and Bennefield pointed out his pal. As Fagan started questioning the youth, the latter saw Bennefield and started running west in 63d street.

Fagan drew his pistol and started in pursuit. As the boy turned south in Maryland avenue the inspector fired two shots, which missed. Pedestrians dodged for cover. The chase continued west into an L shaped alley, and as the boy turned south in the alley behind the Tivoli theater the inspector shot again.

The bullet, fired at a distance of 100 feet, struck young Johnston behind the right ear. He was dead when taken to Woodlawn hospital.

After the killing, John R. McWhorter, chief postal inspector in the Chicago district, took charge of the investigation. He declined to discuss the case, or to make any explanation of why Fagan believed it necessary to shoot the fleeing suspect.

NATIVES FOUND CARRYING ARMS ARE SHOT DOWN

2,000 Arrested; More than 100 Killed.

Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, the wounded viceroy of Italy's reborn Roman empire, followed to the grim letter Premier Mussolini's order to wipe out opposition to Italian rule. Many quaking Ethiopians, found with weapons about their persons or in their dingy grass huts, marched out to the edge of Addis Ababa—to swift death.

Thus were uncompromising former subjects of Haile Selassie, once proud lion of Judah, "liquidated" following a sudden burst of deadly hostility last Friday. Then Marshal Graziani and other members of his viceregal suite were wounded by hand grenades from a band of natives, approaching as if to receive gifts.

Estimate More Than 100 Shot.

Exactly how many Ethiopians were shot was hidden in the vagueness of an official communique, which said merely that all those found to possess weapons had been summarily executed. Unofficially it was estimated the dead already numbered more than a hundred.

Of the 2,000 suspects rounded up by police and royal carabinieri since the Friday bombing, "some hundreds" were said cryptically to have proved their innocence and won their freedom. The others, it was stated, were under "examination."

It was the wounding of the hard bitten Graziani, hero of the southern phase of Ethiopian conquest a year ago, that spurred Mussolini's orders to make reprisals "more demonstrative than is required by ordinary justice. Death now takes the place of gifts for those former subjects of the negus who resist Italian rule."

A Black Shirt Cleanup.

This morning the Ethiopians still under arrest could hear the volleys of the firing squads, working with hot rifles at the edge of Addis Ababa. They represented the gleanings of a typical Black Shirt strong arm cleanup of the "suspected" districts of this capital, where 90,000 natives still exist.

Inasmuch as they were not released with the aforementioned "some hundreds," it was presumed the evidence against them is considered serious; that the rifle fire they heard is a signal of their own doom.

Air General Aurelio Liotta lost one eye in Friday's hand grenade attack and had to have his leg amputated, but was said to be in satisfactory condition. Two Rome specialists, Drs. Barbera and Sabatucci, arrived here by airplane to care for him.

Graziani Recovering.

Viceroy Graziani and the Coptic Bishop Cyril were stated to be recovering satisfactorily from their wounds. Graziani was hurt particularly in the arm, and grenade fragments also struck him in several parts of the body. He suffered from loss of blood.

Another notable wounded was David E. Fossa, a member of the chamber of deputies in Rome and commissioner for internal migration, who was here arranging for emigration of workers from Italy to Ethiopia.

BREEDS ROW WITH BRITAIN

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 23.—The newly proclaimed friendship of Great Britain and Italy suffered a blow today. The two nations have been bickering during the last few days and some observers indicated that a dispute, reminiscent of the stormy days of the Italo-Ethiopian war, is about to start.

News from London that former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia had been invited to the coronation of King George VI. of England on May 12 is chiefly responsible for the sudden diplomatic chill. There is no official reaction yet, as the wording of the invitation, which is extremely important from a diplomatic point of view, is not known here. Nevertheless, one official spokesman said that the treatment of London dispatches

Takes Dig at British Official.

The London correspondent of the semi-official newspaper Giornale d'Italia, for instance, referred with heavy sarcasm to the "honeyed Oxford accent" of the "innocuous" Viscount Cranborne, disciple of the "aristocratic school of Eden," in making the announcement of the invitation to the house of commons. The whole article has a distinct tone of rancor. Cranborne is the British undersecretary of state for foreign affairs and Capt. Anthony Eden is the foreign minister.

It was suggested in some quarters that Fascist indignation over what is considered here as something very like a deliberate insult may cause King Victor Emmanuel III. of Italy, who last summer assumed the title of emperor of Ethiopia, to snub the coronation of King George VI.

How far Italian indignation will be allowed to run depends on Premier Mussolini, that is, on his personal reaction. In the past he has sometimes reacted violently to what seemed mere pinpricks when he felt the pin was administered with definitly malevolent intent.

Action Is Criticized.

Il Duce's press, in any event, does not seem to consider an excuse based on protocol as valid. The newspaper, La Stampa, for instance, asked:

"Does the British government want its king cheered by delegates of dead governments that smell like dead bodies? That does not bring good luck."

La Stampa then referred to an accord on pasturage rights in Somaliland and Ethiopia signed by Great Britain and Italy which, it said, amounts to de jure recognition of the Italian African empire. Coming on the heels of this, an invitation to "Ras Taffari" [Haile Selassie], said La Stampa, is pushing the well known British sense of humor too far.

If this were the only cause of irritation between England and Italy the whole business might blow over, but it comes on the heels of a lively and, at the moment, bitter press argument over rearmament. This argument has been going on for three days, and there seems to be a definite desire not to let it die out.

New Journalistic Duel.

Then a new journalistic duel got under way when Giornale d'Italia trained its guns on the Manchester [England] Guardian, which apparently had handled the story of the Italian raid on Ethiopians in Addis Ababa in a manner to indicate that the Italians were being rough. Giornale d'Italia said that it cannot imagine where the Manchester Guardian got that idea, unless it had been reading British colonial history lately.

An official communique announcing the release of a few hundred Ethiopians out of 2,000 arrested for hurling hand grenades at Viceroy Rodolfo Graziani and the immediate shooting of all others found with arms looks like it might furnish nourishment to the left wing papers in Britain and elsewhere which feel inclined to follow the Manchester Guardian's lead. Apparently this is sensed here, because in official quarters there was no tendency to encourage a foreign correspondent to speculate upon the meager facts furnished in the communique from Addis Ababa—in fact, the tendency was just the contrary.

NOETSCH, Austria, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Edward, the duke of Windsor, found relief from the boredom of exile today—deep in the Karawanken mountains which all but smother this obscure south Austrian village.

On a visit to his friends, the Count and Countess Paul Muenster, Edward poked about old Muenster castle, which, some say, he would like to buy for Mrs. Wallis Simpson, and played golf by the shimmering Woerthersee. He expects to be back in Vienna in time to meet his brother and sister-in-law, the duke and duchess of Kent, tomorrow.

The villagers, all 120 of them, saw the abdicated king in high spirits when he drove up to the castle on Mount Dobratsch. The former king's Austrian friends have been urging Noetsch as an ideal home for him and the woman for whom he gave up his throne.

Prepare for Jap and Nazi War Threat, Red Army Told

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Red army of 1,300,000 men and the soviet people were warned tonight to prepare for the "war threat" of Japan and Germany as the army's 19th anniversary was celebrated throughout Russia. This warning was voiced in thousands of speeches made to the army and in the anniversary orders of War Commissar Klementi E. Voroshilov, who urged the military forces to remember the enemies of peace "are viciously sharpening their swords."

AMERICANS MUST PAY 'BIG MONEY' FOR PEEK AT KING

Poor Seats for Coronation Parade Cost $63.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.—With an increasing number of inquiries coming in from all parts of the United States for seats from which to view the royal procession at the coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England on May 12, American visitors are expected to be heavy contributors to the coronation spectacle and the shows which will precede and follow it for several days.

No one today would venture an estimate as to just how many Americans would come to England, but it was figured each one would have an average of $600 to spend. Everything is being arranged to see that this entire sum is spent before the traveler sails for the United States again.

Must Sit for Several Hours.

To begin with, a coronation visitor can count on spending at least 12 per cent of this average sum to get a place to sit along the processional route. He will have to sit there at least seven hours, for the Westminster abbey ceremonies will last about five hours, if everything goes without a hitch.

Any one who has not got a seat, or a place reserved in a stand or a window, to see the procession will have to figure on being in his place along the route for at least thirty hours. He will have about 1,500,000 competitors who will camp out for a whole day ahead of time in order to be certain of getting a glimpse of the pageantry.

Even then it may be only a fleeting glimpse, and a view from a window or a reviewing stand may not make much difference, either.

"Poor" Seats Cost $63.

Some places are frankly advertised as "poor" at the price of 12 guineas [about $63]. For this sum of money, plus hours of waiting, one will see the royal coach containing the new king and queen and their gorgeous escort arrive and disappear in a few minutes.

The coronation inflow of money from the dominions and the United States will swell the profits of persons who already are rich and also give an unexpected chance to make a windfall to those not so rich but who own handsome houses along the route.

All manner of profiteering is going on. Rent for places in which to live and seats along the route are expensive. An accommodation committee has been created to try to stop profiteering on the renting of rooms. The News-Chronicle, a London newspaper, also has started a daily feature called "Coronation Vultures." Readers are asked to write in any flagrant cases. Here is an example:

"A friend of mine who is a widow had five places at her windows along the route. A man came along and offered her 2 pounds 10 shillings [about $12.50] per place. She accepted, thinking the price reasonable. Later she found that the block of five seats at her windows had been resold for 50 guineas [about $262.50]."

Offers Ghost with House.

The offerings of accommodations make a curious study. A climax was probably reached in an advertisment for a dwelling which, aside from its coronation advantages, also specified that it had "an authentic ghost which passes through the parlor at midnight."

Reports continued to circulate about American millionaires paying as high as $15,000 for houses for two or three weeks in fashionable Mayfair.

Prices there are so steep that James W. Gerard, President Roosevelt's special ambassador to the coronation, gave up the idea of living in a residence. He will stay in a hotel.

A reviewing stand for 3,500 persons is being erected at Hyde Park corner in the grounds of Apsley house, the old home of the duke of Wellington. All seats here were disposed of at prices ranging from 8 to 15, 20 and 25 guineas. [A guinea is worth about $5.25.]

American visitors will find that prices of other things besides food, lodging and travel are higher than at home. Every artful device is calculated to disgorge the pockets.

BERLIN BOYCOTTS LEAGUE'S TALK ON RAW MATERIALS

Return of Colonies Is Sought First.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—"Germany will not participate in a superfluous conference on raw materials," the German press commented tonight on the German government's refusal to accept the invitation of the league of nations to attend discussions March 8 at Geneva. The league committee's aim is to consider making raw materials accessible to all nations.

Making it clear that Germany sees the only solution of the raw materials problem in the return of her former colonies, the newspaper Berliner Nachtausgabe wrote:

"Nobody except England, which hoped temporarily to evade Germany's demand for colonies, could have expected Germany to attend the conference, and we can predict with certainty that the forthcoming conference, like its numerous predecessors, will not get beyond the oratorical discussions."

Plan Needs More than 4 Years.

Meanwhile Germany is concentrating all her energies on enforcement of the German four year plan for self-sufficiency. Organizations of the Nazi party which are advancing the plan were informed that four years will not be sufficient to make Germany entirely independent of imports of vital raw materials and that the first four year plan would be followed by a second four year cycle. The party was warned that great sacrifices will be demanded from the nation to finance all these plans.

Germany also is looking toward Ethiopia for a supply of the raw materials she lacks. On the strength of the Italo-German agreement for the joint exploitation of Ethiopia, four new industrial groups have been formed in Germany which will send shortly committees to Ethiopia to investigate the possibilities of the country following the first scientific expedition which was started last week.

Germany also is expanding her trade with Manchukuo, Japanese sponsored state in Asia.

New Loan Is Floated.

A representative of the Manchukuan foreign minister is due in Berlin next week to negotiate for a deal. Many smaller powers are eager to arrange barter deals with Germany, but the difficulty is that Germany, owing to a shortage of raw materials, offers to deliver a great part of her finished goods in twelve or twenty-four months, while demanding immediate delivery of soy beans, cotton, grain, and the other raw materials she wishes to buy.

To help meet the tremendous financial demands which Germany's self-sufficiency plan and rearmament are making on the nation's reserves the reichsbank is issuing a new $200,000,000 loan at 4½ per cent. A total of $40,000,000 already has been subscribed by banks, while the balance is offered to the public at the rate of 98¾. The new loan is the fifth in the last eighteen months, aggreating altogether 1 billion dollars.

HITLER CALLED REVELATION OF GOD IN GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—With religious circles preparing for the election of a general synod of the German Protestant church on April 11, the reich's government controled radio stations tonight broadcast a "German prayer." It ended with the sentence: "We believe in our fuehrer as God's revelation for our nation." [Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler on Feb. 15 ordered the election of a general synod which will give a new constitution to the Protestant church.]

The broadcast was organized in Berlin by the "cultural circle" of the storm troopers' high command under the guidance of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda. The gathering was a service in honor of Horst Wessel, Nazi martyr, who was killed by communists. The service provided a great credo of faith in Hitler. The main performers were the band and chorus of Hitler's bodyguard regiment.

"You walk among the people as their savior," the chorus chanted to the fuehrer. A speaker addressed Hitler as follows: "The pain of your body endured for your people could not weaken the great action slumbering in you—your life is for the nation for which you suffered—we believe the fuehrer's mission is Germany's fate—we believe national socialism breaks open the gates of eternity."

The prayer concluded with loud calls admonishing Hitler: "Fuehrer, we implore you to march ahead."

VALENCIA, WAR CAPITAL OF SPAIN, IS PERILED ANEW

Rebel Army 34 Mi. Away; Planes Bomb City.

BY MANUEL LYRA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 23.—The refugee government of Spain, in its seat in exile at Valencia, is menaced by a new Fascist insurgent thrust, dispatches from the civil war zone today said.

An insurgent force from Teruel, capital of the southernmost province of Aragon [the other provinces are Saragossa and Huesca] is attacking the town of Viver, only 20 miles from the Mediterranean sea and only 34 miles northwest of Valencia.

The Popular Front government, which fled from Madrid to Valencia Nov. 7, seeing the danger, sent a squadron of planes to bomb the insurgent concentrations near Mora de Rubielos, north of Viver.

Fascist contact with the sea at Sagunto east of Viver would cut off the railway and coastal highway between Valencia and Barcelona.

Two Air Raids on Valencia.

As additional pressure on Valencia, Fascist air raiders twice bombed the city today between dawn and 7:30 a. m. Sirens and anti-aircraft guns rent the air and citizens took to cover. The invading planes dropped incendiary bombs on the port section. Damage was said to be slight.

Later insurgent air squadrons raided southern Catalonia, bombing the cities of Tortosa and Flix at the mouth of the Ebro river about halfway between Valencia and Barcelona. A Barcelona statement said the raiders dropped ten bombs on a hospital at Flix. No estimates of casualties or damage were available.

In addition, Fascists are pressing their drive eastward from Saragossa and Huesca against Catalonia. Rebel planes several days ago destroyed a bridge at Culera, impairing rail connections with France, and rebel warships have bombarded Barcelona, attempting to maintain a blockade of Spain's largest city and most important port.

A second menace to Valencia is still 220 miles away. Fascist forces which took Malaga and moved eastward are still held up in the Adra river region south of Granada and about 50 miles west of Almeria.

Loyalists Capture Hill.

The battle in the Jarama river sector, 15 miles southeast of Madrid, continued, but with few important gains. Loyalists after a ten hour battle captured Mount Pinzarron, a height commanding a large area of territory near the vital Madrid-Valencia highway.

From Pinzarron one can see the towns of Loeches, Arganda, Maranosa and Vallecas and Cerro de los Angeles [Hill of the Angels], the last of which the rebels hold.

Fascist artillery and aircraft continually bombarded government positions at Morata de Tajuna.

Government sources also reported their troops had won an important engagement at Abanades, on the Gaudalajara front, approximately 30 miles northeast of Brihuega. A returned government official said the insurgents lost 1,000 men when militiamen surprised a concentration which was preparing to attack Torre de Sabinanigo, Abanades and Sacecorbo along the right bank of the upper Tajuna river.

Set Rebel Barracks Afire.

BILBAO, Spain, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Dynamite-hurling Asturian miners, backed by a government artillery barrage that crumpled Fascist insurgent defenses, charged toward the smoke blanketed center of Oviedo today driving before them desperate insurgent defenders of the "Alcazar of the Asturias."

A Bilbao radio announcement at 10 p. m. tonight asserted the whole quarter near the insurgents Pelayo barracks was afire. The announcement added that government airplanes rained heavy bombs on the city.

Reports frim Gijon, Biscayan seaport twenty miles from besieged Oviedo, said government artillery shattered insurgent defenses at the Oviedo stadium, an arms factory and the college of Santo Dominique. Insurgent batteries, installed on the flanks of Mount Naranco, shelled the government positions between the Mercadin sector and a reservoir.

Armored trains and tanks, supplementing militiamen and miners, slowly were driving the defense forces toward the center of the city, employing hand grenades as well as the miners' dynamite bombs. A soap factory in the Buena Vista district, heavily fortified by the insurgents, was captured by militiamen, said the Gijon dispatches.

The fiercest fight raged for possession of the Oviedo market building and surrounding district where the insurgents held strongly fortified parapets.

At the same time a government offensive was launched against an outlying position at El Villar from which insurgent reinforcements were attempting to reach the Oviedo garrison. The El Villar insurgents were routed after a five hour battle in which the militia used an armored train. Oviedo's telephone and telegraph connections were said to have been severed.

Compete for $500,000 in Stork Derby

Mr. and Mrs. John Nagle and their ten children, nine of whom are said to qualify the mother for Canada's famous Stork Derby, started at the death of Charles Vance Millar, whose will left $500,000 to the woman producing the most children between 1926 and 1936. An Ontario court yesterday denied the claims of Millar's relatives who had attempted to break the will. (Story on page 1.)

John Nagle is proud of his ten children and their mother, who now takes up the half million dollar court fight with other entrants in the Derby.

Mrs. Arthur Timleck with six of her children. She says birth control is all right, but says no more.

Buxom Mrs. Lily Kenny claims to have had eleven children during the period, but the other women declare all were not properly registered.

Mrs. Pauline Clarke, another entrant, with one of her nine offspring. She admits five were born after she and her husband separated, but attorneys contend that does not disqualify her.

MOSCOW ASSIGNS FOUR GPU MEN TO GUARD U. S. ENVOY

Fears He May Be Target of Assassins.

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Every minute since the American diplomatic mission was established here more than three years ago an American guard has stood vigil over a bulky safe in the code room of the United States embassy.

At dusk each day Harold Lepley, the night code guard, leaves his apartment to relieve the embassy's day office staf in the code room and take over the safekeeping of the code books. Their loss might prove embarrassing and dangerous to United States interests.

GPU "Shadows" U. S. Envoy.

Each morning Lepley turns his responsibility back to the day workers. When he is sick or off duty embassy officials—even to the highest—work in rotation to watch the codes.

Nor does the watching of diplomatic secrets end there. Twice each month one of the American officials or employés departs for the "outside"—Warsaw, Poland, or Riga, Latvia—with a dozen or more heavy mail pouches for Washington. In those cities they are turned over to American ship captains sailing for the United States or to other couriers.

The embassy is watched, too, by the Russians, for its own protection. Day and night, regardless of weather, a policeman walks up and down in front of the building. Four members of the GPU, the secret police, follow Ambassador Joseph E. Davies wherever he goes.

All Embassies Guarded.

All embassies have been guarded since a zealous revolutionary slipped into the German embassy in 1918 and killed the newly arrived ambassador.

The American embassy, the heart of the American community, lies in the very center of Moscow and on a site overlooking the Kremlin, but is scarcely touched by the teeming life of four million persons that flows around it.

The fifty Americans living in the embassy comprise two-thirds of Moscow's American colony.

Because so many of the things the Americans want cannot be obtained in Moscow's stores the mission runs its own grocery and drug store. It has its own doctors, electricians, carpenters, tailor, motion picture theater, school, church, and even "country club," although the latter is but a small log cabin fifteen miles from downtown Moscow.

Commissary a Coöperative.

The commissary is a coöperative venture underwritten by capital assessments ranging from $100 for clerks to $1,000 for Ambassador Davies. It does an annual business of about $25,000 worth of American groceries and drugs.

When an American movie gets to Moscow it usually is a year old. The Americans see one about once in two weeks at their theater in Spasso house, the ambassador's residence.

The "country club" has facilities only for tennis, skating, skiing, and walking—depending on the weather.

One reason for the virtual aloofness of the Americans is that Russians who mingle freely with foreigners are watched closely by the authorities and sooner or later they find it wise to give up their foreign friends.

U. S. CONSULATE AT MALAGA, CLOSED FIVE MONTHS, TO BE OPENED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The state department today ordered the consulate at Malaga, Spain, reopened after being closed five months because of the struggle between Fascist insurgents and loyalist government forces for control of the city.

Malaga recently was taken by Fascist forces. Shortly afterward American Consul Robert D. Longyear, stationed at Marseilles, France, was ordered there to determine whether conditions would warant reopening of the consulate.

The state department received an affirmative recommendation from him and he was returned to the city to resume his duties.

U. S. SUES TO OUST WOMAN COLONIST AND 7 CHILDREN

PALMER, Alaska, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Alaska Rehabilitation corporation filed suit today in United States District court in Anchorage to oust Mrs. C. E. Ruddell, and her seven children from the federal farm colony in the Matanuska Valley.

Mrs. Ruddell's husband is in Washington, D. C., to protest to government officials that the corporation charged excessive prices for feed and farm animals.

Ross L. Shelly, general manager of the colony, charged that Ruddell owed the corporation $14,000.

The family came here from St. Louis county, Minn., when the colony was organized two years ago.

HORNER'S WORDS BUDGE NEITHER SIDE IN STRIKE

Owners Refuse to Meet C. I. O. Agents.

With neither side yielding an inch, Gov. Horner was striving in Springfield last night to break the deadlock over the sitdown strike in the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation plant at North Chicago.

All day he had been holding conferences with representatives of the strikers and with company officials. But he had been unable to persuade the company officials to meet with the strikers' representatives. The company officials were firm in their position that they would not deal with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Little Hope of Peace.

And Meyer Adelman, C. I. O. organizer and spokesman for the strikers, refused to permit the strikers to send men from their own ranks to represent them. The governor, after his last conference with company officials, ending at 1:30 a. m. today, admitted gloomily that little progress had been made. He said:

"I have made certain suggestions to each group which I have asked them to consider. I expect to hear from them tomorrow [Wednesday]."

Later Robert J. Aitchison, president of the company, issued a statement declaring the conference had brought no change in the company's position.

"The governor wants us to settle the strike immediately if we can," the statement said. "He gave careful attention to our recital of facts on employé relations, operating conditions, and information in our possession concerning the attitude of our employé.

Clear Up Misunderstanding.

"Most of all we cleared up the misunderstanding that we are in or are related to the steel business. Our business is in rare metals, no part of which goes to the steel, iron, or tin industries. The governor tried to develop a formula for ending the strike peacefully. We ask for enforcement of the court writ."

Aitchison departed for Chicago at 2:40 a. m. on an Illinois Central train. Adelman and his C. I. O. associates remained in Springfield, perhaps for another conference with the governor today.

There were reports that Adelman, the 300 pound chef who became one of Lewis' lieutenants because he sympathized with Lewis' views, might go to Washington to seek federal aid if the governor's efforts failed.

The speech making Adelman, who has a throb in his voice when he addresses the strikers, had little to say last night. It was learned, however, that until he joined Lewis his principal labor activities had been with the Cooks and Pastry Cooks' union.

Messages Encourage Owners.

With the strike looked upon as a national test of the right of factory owners to retain possession of their property, company officials reported that hundreds of encouraging messages were coming in from chambers of commerce, other factory owners, and lawyers. Most of them urged the company to stand firm in its demand for return of its plant by due process of law.

Some of the chambers of commerce invited the company to move to other cities. Customers said they would wait for their orders that the company might be free to fight its battle.

Max Swiren, company attorney, said the sitters are now ex-employés, who have severed their connection with the company by seizing its plant. He and other company spokesman said that no more than 10 per cent and perhaps no more than 6 per cent of the company's 318 employés had joined the C. I. O. union willingly.

Company Charges Coercion.

Of the sixty-three sitters believed still to be in the plant the company estimated that half had been coerced into joining the union and taking part in the strike.

Albin Nelson, yard foreman, inspected one of the two buildings occupied by the strikers and reported that they were discouraged. He said three of the men he talked with admitted that their morale was shattered by seven days of sitting and that they could easily be dislodged.

Mrs. Charles Smith of 135 South Lewis avenue, Waukegan, went to the plant last night and made a tearful but vain plea for her husband to leave. She said he had been a WPA worker for two years before getting his job at the plant, the best, she said, he had ever had. She said he was forced to join the union three days after he went to work.

That's CANDY! It's so good it'd make you smile . . . . while it melted in your mouth . . . . even if you were listening to a lecture on p.h.i.l.o.s.o.p.h.y. ## CONFESS STEALING 30 AUTOS

Some Are Wrecked

Seven youths who confessed stealing thirty automobiles and then wrecking most of them in wild joy rides were held yesterday by the Cragin police. A bloodstained window sill in a garage behind 2652 North Linder avenue, from which a car was stolen on Saturday, led to the roundup of the gang.

Inquiries in the neighborhood led to the arrest of Walter Milewski, 19 years old of 5540 Wrightwood avenue, who had cuts on his right hand. He admitted riding in the stolen car before it was smashed and abandoned at Linder avenue and Drummond place, and he named Adam Nizolek, 23 years old of 5439 Wrightwood avenue.

Seized in his home, Nizolek implicated five other youths, who were arrested. They are: John Molda, 18 years old, 5448 Drummond place; his brother, Joseph, 19; Edward Andrezjk, 18, of 2504 North Lotus avenue; William Nafraniez, 17, of 5244 Montana street, and Stanley Janeczko, 25 of 2137 Latrobe avenue.

AUTO UNION HEAD BIDS LAWMAKERS ENACT REFORMS

Places 'Human Rights' Above Profits.

Lansing Mich., Feb. 23.—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, today told Michigan lawmakers of the union's achievements in elevating wages and establishing the principle of group bargaining in a large part of the automotive industry.

Homer Martin.

Martin, who participated in the original General Motors strike conference called by Gov. Frank Murphy, was invited to address a joint session of house and senate.

Wage increases in the automobile industry since settlement of the General Motors strike, Martin asserted, total more than $50,000,000 annually. He said the settlement inaugurates "the beginning of a new era of proper relations between capital and labor in the United States" and that it was a victory for democracy, Americanism, and fair play."

Attacks Mad Competition.

Martin attacked the speed-up system which he called an inevitable result of extreme competition.

"Workers are required to work ever faster and faster on the production lines," he said, "until the speed in many instances has become unendurable. No matter how progressive or fair minded the corporation would like to be, it cannot slow down its production lines without being severely penalized in the mad, whirlwind competitiion with other corporations."

"Must Bring Forth Reforms."

Automobile manufacturers were charged with "every possible effort" to block the workers attempting to organize. "Human rights," Martin said, "must be considered of more importance to our state and nation than excess profit rights. Your faith in democracy and courage in this conviction inevitably must bring forth those legislative reforms necessary to the progress of democratic government and well-being of the common people."

ASSAILS TACTICS OF MEDIATORS IN J. I. CASE STRIKE

Judge Tells Miss Perkins They Blocked Peace.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge C. M. Davison of the 13th Wisconsin district today directed to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins a sharp criticism of the character of mediators and conciliators sent by the department of labor to aid in labor disputes

Judge Davison charged that in the J. I. Case company strike of the United Automobile Workers' union the mediators not only prolonged the trouble but were prejudiced against the employers and counseled violence and armed resistance.

The Beaver Dam judge was brought into the Racine situation to hear applications for injunctions and thereafter made many efforts to settle the difficulties. The trouble finally ended after four months and could have been settled in one month without the interference of the government mediators, Judge Davison told Miss Perkins. He gave William B. Rubin, Milwaukee attorney, full credit for bringing about the settlement.

Tells of Frustration.

"The Case plant recognized the union, agreed to collective bargaining, seniority rights, and a raise in wages," Judge Davison wrote. "The union got more than they ever expected. If you had kept your conciliators away we could have settled this strike long ago.

"Every one of them encouraged the strikers to violence and armed resistance. Your commissioner, Harvey Bell, the one you sent out first, got into a fight within five minutes after he got into the first meeting. Every one of your other conciliators did, too. And the last one, N. S. Clark of Milwaukee, was the worst of all.

"We had the Case people already to begin negotiations without possession of the plant. We had everything adjusted. Then your man Clark got up and made a most insulting speech against the Case people. The result was the meeting broke up in a row.

"Worse than that, when I was pressing for settlement, Gov. La Follette appointed Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of the law school. He went down four or five times, but never came to any of our meetings and ran around like a rat in the night, always in the union hall.

"Now the whole trouble with these strikes is this. If you would send out conciliators who had brains instead of beef and who would take a position fair to both sides, these strikes would be settled. When you send a conciliator who advocates violence and seizure of plants and sitdown strikes, you are going to have all kinds of trouble.

"If you would appoint W. B. Rubin of Milwaukee conciliator and use him extensively, he could go into any strike and settle it without violence and with fairness to both sides."

Youth Killed in Federal Agent's Trap

This diagram tells the story of the fatal wounding of Andrew Johnston, age 16, behind the Tivoli theater last night as he fled from a postal inspector, Owen Fagan, who wanted to question him about a mailbox robbery. The Johnston boy was implicated in the robbery by Earl Bennefield, whose presence apparently caused Johnston to flee.

LINDYS MISSING 36 HOURS AFTER INDIA TAKEOFF

BOMBAY, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, unreported since early Monday on a flight from Jodhpur, 36 hours later still were "lost" tonight somewhere over India's vast distances. Fears for their safety, however, had not become serious. It was believed airport officials probably had coöperated to help keep their arrivals and departures secret.

An airplane crash anywhere in northern India, authorities pointed out, surely would have become known by this time.

UNION RIVALRY, POLITICS SEEN IN REDWOOD CASE

Burning of Rosoff Ship Adds New Element.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia tonight promised a special detail of detectives to work on the investigation into the murder of Norman Redwood, official of a tunnel workers' union, but the mayor declined to let them cross the Hudson river to Teaneck, N. J., where the slaying occurred last Friday night.

As the investigation went into its fifth day the background of politics and labor racketeering behind the murder of the "sand hog" leader began to grow more clear.

Mayor Hague Backs Quiz.

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Democratic boss of this state, who is opposed politically by a union that is a rival of Redwood's, has ordered full steam ahead on the inquiry.

On the other hand, Samuel Rosoff, builder of New York's biggest subways, who had trouble with Redwood, is close to the city administration.

Mayor La Guardia acted on the request of Prosecutor John J. Breslin of Bergen county, N. J., in which Teaneck is located. The mayor said he would not let the New York detectives go to New Jersey because Breslin had said the murder was framed in New York.

"Mr. Breslin asked for expert police assistance," said La Guardia. "He said he believed the crime was conceived in New York City. If that is true, of course, we have an obligation and a duty to see what can be discovered here."

Hunt Killers in New York.

Acting on La Guardia's orders Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine assigned Deputy Inspector Richard Oliver to take charge of a special detail of four homicide squad detectives to search for the killers.

Mayor La Guardia made it clear that New York would continue to pay the detectives and he did not want to use any of Mr. Breslin's money. Breslin obtained a special fund of $25,000 with which to hunt the killers by a vote of Bergen county freeholders [supervisors] yesterday.

About 350 tunnel workers and friends attended the Redwood funeral during the day. On the verge of hysteria the slain man's widow declared that she knew who had killed her husband. Breslin discounted several stories she told, saying she was incoherent. Mrs. Redwood has demanded permission to carry a revolver. Joseph V. Moreschi, president of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' union, with whom Redwood's group was affiliated, is in New York looking into the case.

Gun Adds to Mystery.

Mystery deepened over the .38 caliber pistol found near the scene of the slaying that was once the property of the former police chief, Carroll Potter of Demorest, N. J. After tracing the weapon to him, Breslin announced today the gun had been stolen, with Potter's car, several years ago in New York. Potter died Aug. 4, 1935.

Potter had purchased the pistol originally at a police supply house in Manhattan, within a block of the police headquarters. At his death Potter left three guns, neither of them the murder weapon. Breslin was considering the possibility of calling in department of justice experts to help trace the gun further.

Quiz Two About Pistol.

Late tonight a man and woman were questioned in the presence of Peter J. Siccardi, chief of the Bergen county, N. J., police, who had led in the tracing of the murder pistol. He would not tell the names of either person. All Breslin's aids would say was that the couple were "picked up in New Jersey."

Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, who is investigating New York rackets and at the moment is trying the New York café extortion case, said he had a file of information on the union fight between Redwood and Fay and would be glad to turn it over to the New Jersey authorities.

Rosoff, who has obtained millions from contracts to build subways for New York City, learned today that he had lost $350,000 when a mysterious fire destroyed the steamship Benjamin B. Odell of the Hudson River night line which he owns. The fire that burned the boat to the water line at Marlboro, N. Y., where it had been moored for the winter, was incendiary, according to the state police who investigated.

The conflagration, starting in the early morning hours, immediately was linked up with the murder investigation and the bitter political and union rivalry that lay behind it. Rosoff, however, with many troubles on his shoulders, took the loss with a grin.

Rosoff appeared before Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy on a hearing on whether he should be compelled to go to Hackensack on a material witness warant. The hearing was adjourned until Friday and the subway contractor was still a free man tonight. Breslin has attempted unsuccessfully to bring Rosoff to New Jersey on the grounds that he had threatened Redwood on several occasions when Redwood called strikes on subway and tunneling projects.

Rosoff was happy to be spared the fate of his trucking supervisor, Max Friedman, who went to Hackensack voluntarily on Saturday afternoon and was immediately put in a jail cell. Friedman is still there.

Calls It Labor Fight.

"I will spend every dollar I've got and maybe more to clear myself," asserted Rosoff as he left the Supreme court. "I don't worry about what the people think, but I feel bad that a fine man with a fine family should be bumped off. This is a fight between unions about who has a right to work on my job and who hasn't."

The rival "sand hog" union to the one Redwood controled is run by Joseph F. Fay, who is its business manager in the metropolitan area, where most of the Rosoff subway and tunnel contracts are being executed.

Charge Threat to Rosoff.

One of the stories told by Austin Muldoon and James Lynch, union associates of Redwood, was that Rosoff in a violent argument with the "sand hog" leader had pointed out a window to a car in which there were four men and declared that they were ready "to take care of you." The New York police picked up four Rosoff employés during the day.

According to Rosoff's own version of this threat story, he had told Redwood that he would get the "police alien squad" after him for union violence.

Rosoff had named these men to the police originally as his "tough squad" in a spirit of comic helpfulness. They all were released tonight.

Aftermath of New York Union Slaying

These four men were questioned by New York police following reports that Samuel Rosoff, subway builder, had pointed them out to labor leaders as the men "who will take care of anybody who calls a strike on a Rosoff job." # TRACE DEPOSITS OF A DEFENDANT IN RACKET TRIAL

Unable to Explain His Finances.

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Introducing the records of one bank deposit after another, Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey produced today his most damaging testimony to date in a long cross-examination of Irving Epstein, first of the eight alleged restaurant racketeers on trial before Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook to take the stand.

Epstein, secretary of local 302 of the Cafeteria Workers' union, became flushed and confused. He sought to explain his deposits for a time in various ways, but finally resorted more and more frequently to a stock answer: "I can't recall."

Seabury Inquiry Recalled.

In many ways the examination was reminiscent of the Seabury inquiry as Mr. Dewey asked the witness if he kept a tin box and he replied hotly that such things were "only for politicians."

Through December, 1931, and then through January, February, March, April, and May of 1932, the deposits continued every day or so—sometimes twice a day. They were always in cash and amounted to from $50 to perhaps $400 a week.

"And all this was on $60 a week?" Mr. Dewey continued, the witness having mentioned that figure as the amount of his weekly salary.

Says He Fears Death.

Epstein was in fear of death at the hands of gansters in the scattered Dutch Schultz mob, even as he sat today in the witness chair in Supreme court, he testified.

Threats of death, of having his ears cut off, his head "knocked off," so terrified him that he fled the city three times, he declared.

Epstein ended his direct examination with a description of a visit to the Red Front restaurant on Canal street when, in 1934, he attempted to set up a picket line because the proprietor had resisted local 302 efforts to organize employés.

Threats by Three Men.

Three men accosted him, he said, and one, showing a pistol, told him: "If you set up a picket line I'll let you have it right here."

"Were you more afraid of having your ears cut off than of an indictment?" Epstein was asked.

"I wasn't so much afraid of having my ears cut off as I was afraid of being killed," he replied.

"Just what were you afraid of?" persisted the special prosecutor.

"I was afraid of the same thing that I am now afraid of," said Epstein.

Court Divides Twins After Robberies

COURT FEELS FOR DIVINITY STUDENT HELD AS ROBBER

Winfred Goddard, 20 years old, 7255 Greenleaf avenue, was found guilty of two charges of grand larceny by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday and was sentenced immediately to one to ten years in prison. His twin brother, Wilfred, a divinity student, was also found guilty, but his case was continued until March 8 for investigation.

The twins were arrested last Jan. 25 and confessed that they had looted the homes of several of their neighbors in Edison Park. At that time Wilfred pleaded that he had joined Winfred in the crimes to get money for books that would reform the brother. Yesterday the two attempted to shift the blame to a 13 year old boy accomplice who is now in the juvenile home.

"It appears that Winfred is the real culprit," Judge Prystalski said yesterday. "I feel that I may help to rehabilitate his more pious twin."

KOHINOOR OF FURS

By CALEB

SEVEN days ago there was beehive activity on the display floors at the Fromm Brothers' silver fox farm at remote Hamburg, Wisconsin. Twenty-one thousand pelts were on display for examination and the ensuing week's auction.

Two hundred buyers were milling around, some of them having been there all week examining pelts. The day before selling started, I arrived. Within thirty-five minutes I heard whispered asides about "2989." Henry Fromm chatted with me, and soon he said, "Have you seen 2989?" Until then, I had not.

I was told that within twenty-four hours after the examination of pelts had started, the supreme skin of the year had been spotted. It was "Lot 2989"—one pelt. Throughout the week new buyers had arrived daily, and immediately—like diamond merchants eager to behold the Kohinoor—they heard the whispered reports and sought out 2989.

With Mr. Fromm I examined it under revealing north light at midday. It was a large pelt with a lustrous warm thickness, complemented by smooth and frosty silver, cool and soft as moonlight. Surely such an animal as bore this skin has rarely walked the face of the earth. What a tribute to any woman that this skin should adorn her!

Although some two hundred buyers were excited and stimulated by the very presence of this pelt, not more than three or four of them could consider its purchase and all buyers speculated on where it would go.

•

THE third day of the sale Lot 2989 was reached. An air of expectancy was hanging over the crowd. And at last the prize of the season—perhaps of many, many seasons—was reached. There was a breathless silence.

Many excellent skins had recently sold at from $150 to $250.

The opening bid on 2989 was $300! Like fire—wind-driven up a dry mountainside—the bids raced upward. Only four potential buyers were bidding, then only three, then two! The price was $1,400—$1,800—$2,000! A year ago the prize pelt brought $555, the highest price since 1928. 2989 was being recognized for its unique worth.

There was scarcely a pause between the bid of $2,000 and $2,100! The voice of the auctioneer rang out, "Are you through? Are you all through at $2,100?" and his gavel dropped!

The store you would expect to own this prized skin had bought it. It is now on display in our fur salon.

JURY SCANDAL WITNESS TAKES 5 YEAR SENTENCE

Wrecks State's Case Against Ex-Bailif.

Persisting in his refusal to testify against an alleged accomplice on the ground that he had been intimidated, Alonzo Begley, a former deputy sherif, was given the maximum sentence of one to five years in prison yesterday for conspiring to defraud the county of $4,600 through forged jury vouchers.

Begley, who is 52 years old and who lives at 5498 University avenue, pleaded guilty on Jan. 26. Because of his refusal to testify Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court, on the state's motion, nol prossed a similar charge against Hugh Falvey, 40 years old, 2300 Lincoln Park West, former chief bailif in the Circuit court jury room.

Begley and Falvey were indicted last May 26 after an investigation of a jury pay scandal that was discovered a month before. Begley told investigators that, on the order of Falvey, his superior, he cashed 90 forged vouchers and turned the proceeds, $4,600, over to Falvey, who paid him $400.

State Aims at Falvey.

When Begley pleaded guilty it was expected he would receive a light sentence in return for testifying against Falvey whom the state considered the principal conspirator. Conspiracy may be punished as a mere misdemeanor with a fine or a jail sentence, or as a felony with an indeterminate prison term. Under the sentence imposed yesterday, Begley will be eligible for parole in eleven months.

At the time he pleaded guilty, Begley explained that in October, 1935, Falvey informed him that "for the good of the organization we're going to substitute some deserving men for jurors who want to be excused." These "deserving men," Falvey pointed out, according to Begley, were political workers whose names would be proposed by Democratic precinct captains.

How System Worked.

Begley said that he and Falvey cashed in on this arrangement in this manner: When a juror was called for civil court service and for some reason was excused the same day without performing any actual service, Begley and Falvey would have him sign a blank service card, which would later be filled out to show that the juror had served a full term. Then a pay voucher would be filled out, forged with the name of the payee, and cashed.

At Begley's hearing Falvey pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. When Falvey's case came up on Feb. 5 Begley refused to testify for the state on the ground that he had received anonymous telephone threats.

Falvey and his attorney, Harold Levy, stood silent yesterday as Begley's lawyer, James M. Burke, explained that his client had "developed a fear complex."

State's Case Wrecked.

"Without Begley's testimony," Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coughlan told Judge Prystalski, "the state can't establish a prima facie case against Falvey and will have to ask for a nol pros."

The order was entered and Falvey and his lawyer left court. Coughlan shook his head when the judge asked if he had any recommendation in Begley's case. Burke urged leniency.

"He was a public officer who betrayed his trust," the judge said. Sentence was passed and a stay of mittimus until March 8 was granted.

PREFERS AN AUTO TO BABY; AILING WIFE ASTOUNDED

Father to Be Arraigned Today for Abandonment.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Frederick Schue Jr., 25 years old, the father who chose to keep his car when he couldn't afford to keep both his automobile and his baby, will be arraigned on a child abandonment charge today in the Felony court. Schue was arrested on Monday after the infant, 7 months old, left in a doorway of the Home for Working Women with Children on Feb. 12, was identified as his son, Kenneth Wayne.

Some time ago the Children's Home and Aid society placed Kenneth in a private home, but when Schue failed to pay the February board bill of $18, his baby was returned to him.

"He didn't know what he was doing in leaving our baby in that door," the child's mother exclaimed last night. She is Mrs. Frances Schue, 24 years old, a patient in the critically ill class at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

Suggests Street Car for Papa.

"I am stunned," she said. "I know he was pressed for money, but he could have taken the street car to work as every one else does. He was paying $18 a month for the baby and $18 a month on a second-hand car he bought last Thanksgiving. I'm afraid he's so young he has no sense of responsibility."

Asked what Schue's salary was as a clerk at the Globe Rendering company, 40th and Laurel streets, where Englewood police arrested him, she said: "I don't know. He never told me what he made."

With Mrs. Schue was her aunt, Mrs. Mary McDonough, a widow, of 5414 Eddy street. Mrs. McDonald said she could not understand the young father's treatment of his child, especially since she had a standing offer from Kenneth's birth to take care of him. Today, she asserted, she will pay what is due to the family that kept him.

Grandparents Keep Older Boy.

On a table near Mrs. Schue was a picture of her older boy, Richard, 4 years old, who, she said, is being brought up by the father's parents at 4150 Monroe street, where Frederick Jr. also lives. Richard is said to have spent some time with an aunt in Warsaw, Ind.

She glanced at a newspaper photograph of Kenneth.

"Isn't he darling?" she asked, her pale, childlike face lighting up. "You know, I've never seen him. Not even at the time he was born. He arrived here in the sanitarium."

POISONS FROM CONSTIPATION? BUNK! SAY DOCTORS

Modern doctors now say that the old idea of poisons getting into your blood from constipation is BUNK. They claim that constipation swells up the bowels, causing pressure on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure is what causes the frequent bilious spells, dizziness, headaches, upset stomach, dull tired out feeling, sleepless nights, coated tongue, bad taste, and loss of appetite.

Don't suffer hours or even days longer than necessary. You must GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES TO GET RELIEF. Flush the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone the bowels return to normal size and nerve pressure stops. Almost at once you feel marvelously refreshed, blues vanish, and life looks bright again.

That is why so many doctors are now insisting on gentle but QUICK action. That is why YOU should insist on Adlerika. This efficient intestinal evacuant contains SEVEN carminative and cathartic ingredients. It acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. It relieves stomach GAS at once and often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years.

FREE Trial size of Adlerika will be mailed FREE to any adult. Send name and address to ADLERIKA, DEPT. 186, ST. PAUL, MINN.

Efforts to Rush Measure Balked in Legislature.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Two rebuffs, one crowding on the heels of the other, were administered Gov. Henry Horner today shortly after he had asked the legislature to pass at once a bill applying the 3 per cent sales tax to all utility services, including the sale of industrial power.

In a special message accompanying the bill, which was introduced by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, house Democratic floor leader, the governor declared that the utility companies "are now approaching another era of great prosperity" and should be required to assume a "fair share of the social burdens which they can so well afford to assume."

The bill ran into difficulties from the moment of its introduction. First, Adamowski failed in his effort to have it advanced to second reading without reference to a committee. This balking was decided by a roll call in which the bill fell 16 short of the 77 votes required to move it.

Sent to Revenue Committee.

Then, instead of referring it to the committee on public utilities, of which Frank Ryan [D., Chicago] is chairman, Speaker Louie E. Lewis sent the measure to the revenue committee, where it could be shepherded by a stanch Horner Democrat, Thomas A. Bolger of McHenry.

But here again the governor's adherents were stopped. Bolger called the committee into session an hour or so after the house action only to have it decide, after a flurry of motions and roll calls, to postpone action at least until tomorrow.

Adamowski, incensed over this failure to act, announced after the meeting that he would move in the house tomorrow to take the bill from the committee and place it on the calendar.

Opposition to immediate consideration in the committee was led by Representative Charles H. Weber [D., Chicago]. Weber and those voting with him maintained that the bill, not having been printed, was not on their desks so that they could study it.

"But every one knows what it provides," objected F. W. Lewis [D., Robinson], the governor's floor leader. "This is the same bill which was introduced in the 1935 session."

"The new members don't know anything about it," Weber replied, "and such hasty action is not fair to them."

Weber moved first to adjourn the committee but was voted down 12 to 11. Then he moved to postpone consideration and won, 13 to 12.

Meets with Utility Chiefs.

Gov. Horner met today with the following utility heads: Britton I. Budd, president of the Public Service Company of Illinois; Ben Alschuler, vice president and general counsel of the Western United Gas and Electric company; L. A. Magraw, president of the Central Illinois Public Service company; and A. D. Mackie, vice president of the Central Illinois Light company.

After the conference Budd said that figures would be given the governor on how the proposed 3 per cent tax would affect the earnings of all utility companies in the state.

Budd had little to say when asked whether a counter proposal had been made to the governor for a 2 instead of a 3 per cent tax. "That's pretty close to it," he admitted, but would not elaborate

Employer Tried with His Driver in Truck Death

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—In what was said to be the first time in this state, an employer went on trial today in the Queens county court on a charge of being equally guilty with an employé in a motor vehicle fatality in which it was alleged the vehicle was defective.

The employer, Isador Rausch, a roofing contractor, and the employé, Louis Washington, were indicted jointly for manslaughter in the second degree. The indictment charged that Washington was the driver of a truck, owned by Rausch, which killed Mrs. Catherine Brown in Jamaica.

AMERICA'S FIRST ATLANTIC AIR TERMINAL

BOTWOOD, Newfoundland, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—America's first trans-Atlantic air terminal, one of the largest airports in the world, is rising out of the wilderness of Newfoundland not far from the spot where the first flight across the Atlantic was started eighteen years ago.

Nine miles from Botwood, and north-northwest of St. John's, at a site known as Hattie's camp, British empire groups are constructing their first air base on this side of the ocean as a way station of arrival and departure for air liners which soon will fly across the North Atlantic to link Canada, Ireland, and England.

A short distance from the field, on Gander lake, the first clearing has been made for the installation of a great flying boat base to be operated in conjunction with the land airport for trans-Atlantic flying. The Newfoundland airport, it was pointed out, is to be the main American operating base for the trans-Atlantic service of Imperial airways. At the Newfoundland base will be the large storage and work hangars, shop facilities and the main radio and meteorological stations of the transocean line.

OLSON, SOUGHT IN WIFE'S DEATH, ENDS HIS LIFE

Found Dead in Room of Omaha Hotel.

Carl E. Olson, 45 years old, whose wife, Marie, 38, was found dead late Monday in a south side hotel room, ended his life last night in his room at a downtown hotel of Omaha, Neb., according to a dispatch. A coroner's physician said he had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Leaves Note He's Sorry.

Olson registered at the hotel about 2 a. m. yesterday. A note found in his room said: "Dear Folks—I am sorry for all this. I married the girl I loved and I really loved her, but she has been cheating on me and it hurts me."

At the coroner's inquest here yesterday into the death of Mrs. Olson her stepbrother, Ralph Ketcham, 27 years old, 11216 Vincennes avenue, charged she was slain by her husband. When Mrs. Olson's body was found in her apartment in the Boulevard Manor hotel, 1430 Hyde Park boulevard, a bottle of chloroform, purchase of which has been traced to Olson, was found on a bedside table.

Accused of Causing Trouble.

The inquest was continued to March 2 after the reading of a letter received from Olson on Monday morning by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Ketcham, of the Vincennes avenue address. In the letter Olson accused a Robert J. Crispin of causing trouble in the Olson home.

Olson and his wife managed the South Lake hotel, 4711 Kenwood avenue, until Feb. 14, when Olson was discharged for drinking, according to the police report.

OSA JOHNSON ON WAY HOME WITH HUSBAND'S BODY

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Osa Johnson was lifted gently today aboard the train that will carry her and the body of her famed husband, Martin Johnson, back to the Kansas town from which they began their world-wide explorations years ago.

Johnson died of injuries suffered Jan. 12 in an airplane crash near here. Four others were fatally injured.

Mrs. Johnson, who suffered a fractured leg in the accident, was taken to the station from her hospital in an ambulance. Accompanying her were her mother, Mrs. Belle Leighty, and brother, V. R. Leighty, both of Chanute, Kas., the town where Mr. Johnson's funeral will be held next Saturday.

Mrs. Johnson said she would resume her lecture work after the funeral. She also wants to go back to the African jungles where she and her husband spent years in camera hunting for big game.

OCEAN AIRMAIL BASE TO BE BUILT ON LONG ISLAND

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—An international seaplane base will be established at North Beach airport, on the northwest tip of Long Island, for the transAtlantic air service planned by Pan-American Airways and Imperial Airways, official British air system. Details will be made public within a week.

The base will involve an expenditure of several million dollars. The federal government, it was learned, has earmarked $3,500,000 for the large scale construction work necessary to convert North Beach into one of the world's major air bases.

In addition, the city will have to raise $1,500,000 to exercise its purchase option on the field, which it rented in 1934 for a five year period.

The federal government plans to grant an airmail subsidy of $750,000 to the air lines operating between New York and London, according to an initial appropriation bill reported to the house of representatives last week.

PILOTS, AIR LINE HEADS DISCUSS SAFETY RULES

New operating and safety regulations for the country's twenty-seven air transport lines were discussed here yesterday as representatives of each operator, of some 700 air line pilots and air commerce bureau chiefs gathered at the Blackstone hotel.

The operators and the pilots were invited today to examine the new proposed regulations which have been rewritten by Prof. Fred Fagg of the Northwestern university law school, and to present objections or suggestions for changes in the new revised regulations at further meetings today and tomorrow.

"These meetings have nothing to do with our investigations of the recent series of air line accidents," said Maj. R. W. Schroeder, chief of the air commerce bureau's air line inspection service, who presided yesterday. "What we are doing is bringing up to date the rules under which the transport lines are flying today. The last time this revision was made was in 1934, and there have been twelve amendments to the original rules that have been dangling at loose ends since they were adopted."

URGE PASSAGE OF CAR DRIVERS' LICENSING BILL

Speakers Tell House Group It Will Cut Accidents.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Enactment of a drivers' license bill was urged upon the roads and bridges committee of the Illinois house today by a number of speakers, who declared that it would tend directly to reduce the number of automobile fatalities and injuries by keeping the careless driver off the roads.

Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, said that licensing of drivers is needed throughout the state. In at least twenty-one counties, he said, the auto death rate is proportionately higher per population than in Cook.

Lieberman Would Administer Law.

The provisions of the bill were explained to the committee by Representative Edward P. O'Grady [D., Chicago], who introduced a pending bill and Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, who would administer the law. Bills previously introduced would have placed administration of the law with the secretary of state. The present bill places administration with himself, Lieberman said, as the enforcement division—the state highway police—is in his department. The bill also would shift the licensing of chauffeurs to Lieberman from Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

The fee, Lieberman said, would be $1 for three years. If the bill is adopted only those applicants would be examined who file their applications after Oct. 1.

Revocation would be mandatory for not more than a year on a conviction for manslaughter, driving while intoxicated, a felony in which an auto was used, leaving the scene of an accident, and for conviction three times for speeding. The department would be given authority to suspend a license for not more than six months for less serious infractions of trafic laws.

Women Support Measure.

Representatives of women's state wide organizations said that any bill adopted should provide for centralized administration, examination of applicants, and suspension and revocation of licenses to drive.

State license fees for all pleasure cars in Illinois would be cut to a flat $5 by passage of a bill introduced in the senate late today by Harold G. Ward.

Senator Ward, a Chicago Democrat, who speaks for Mayor Kelly on legislative matters, said that he expected the mayor to support the bill. In that event it probably would pass the senate and have friendly consideration in the house.

DRIVER BOOKED AFTER CAR RUNS DOWN POLICEMAN

George Gamber, 57 years old, 4444 North Monticello avenue, whose automobile struck and killed Park Policeman Bernard Klinke at Sheridan road and Cornelia avenue Monday, was booked on a charge of manslaughter yesterday. The action was taken after a coroner's inquest into the policeman's death was continued until March 10.

Policeman Klinke, who was 40 years old and lived at 2805 North Kedzie avenue, was run down by Gamber's car while directing trafic during the evening rush hour. He was struck on his way to help Mrs. Lee Schliff and her daughter Gladys of 609 Stratford place to cross Sheridan road.

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Minnie Gross, 40 years old, 4321 Le Moyne street, who was fatally injured in a collision on Monday, was continued yesterday until March 12.

John Arrighi, 27 years old, 3801 North avenue, business agent for the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers union No. 278, died last evening in Swedish Covenant hospital of injuries incurred early in the day when his automobile collided with another car at Pulaski road and Foster avenue. Oscar D. Forsman, 58 years old, 5722 Christiana avenue, driver of the second car, was not injured.

Knute Seaberg, 56 years old, 6428 North Richmond street, died last night in Swedish Covenant hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when his automobile skidded and crashed into a post in front of 2912 Devon avenue.

From Jan. 1 until 4 p. m. yesterday 151 persons had been killed by motor vehicles in Cook county, the coroner's office reported. The Chicago toll for the same period was 121 deaths and 3,015 injuries.

Drunken Taxi Driver Gets 30 Days in Jail

Charles Matthews, 25 years old, of 1454 Clybourn avenue, a Yellow cab driver, was given thirty days in jail yesterday in the Safety court of Judge Charles S. Dougherty for driving while intoxicated on Friday, when his cab crashed into a parked car at 844 Madison street. Five other drivers were given shorter jail terms in the Safety court.

HIS HEART FIRST UNDER KNIFE; NOW ASSURES OTHERS

Tells Patient: 'Anything Doctor Does Is O. K.'

Chardon, O., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Joseph Krchmar, who two years ago turned his heart over to Dr. Claude S. Beck, Cleveland heart specialist, sent his best wishes today to another patient, Matthew B. Moore, a Vallejo, Cal., evangelist.

Krchmar, a former coal miner, felt very confident about Moore. Dr. Beck in San Francisco held Moore's heart for two hours yesterday while he removed an inflamed and partly calcified pericardial sac.

Thinks of Work Again.

Krchmar, now 51 and looking strong and healthy, is so much improved since his operation that he has given some thought to the possibility that he might work again in the mines.

"But I guess I'll never do that," he mused. "I sometimes think I will try it again, but my left arm is too weak."

In the operation on Krchmar, Dr. Beck opened the pericardium and then attached the pectoral muscle to the heart wall to furnish a new supply of blood.

Krchmar had been suffering attacks which left him speechless and unable to move. He had a little difficulty making up his mind about the operation. Dr. Beck told him, he said, that it never had been tried on a human being before.

Attack Spurs Him On.

Krchmar finally thought he was ready and went to the hospital. Then he changed his mind and asked permission to spend one more week with his wife and three children. The day after he reached home he had another attack and went back to the hospital. Ten days later the operation was performed.

Krchmar was on the operating table two hours. Five weeks later he left the hospital. His left arm was weakened by the transplanting of the muscle and tires easily.

The pains which attacked Krchmar, sometimes two and three times a week, are gone. He sleeps well. His eyes are bright. He wants some light job.

"I've got to do some work," Krchmar said. "I'm used to it."

GETS 1 TO 14 YRS. FOR KILLING OF KIN 36 YRS. AGO

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A prison sentence of one to fourteen years was imposed today on Charles Kohr, a mild mannered little man of 65, who walked into a Chicago police station last Nov. 28 and confessed he killed his younger brother 36 years ago. He pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter.

Charles Kohr.

The gray haired clerk, determined to "clear his conscience," told Chicago police he fatally wounded his brother, Henry, then 15, with a stick during a quarrel in 1901 over Henry working in a saloon in Belleville. Charles hadn't wanted his brother to do that sort of work.

ADOPT SCHOOL BUDGET TO SPEED TEACHERS' PAY

One Step Nearer Sale of Tax Warants.

The board of education, acting yesterday to speed up the payment of back salaries to 18,000 teachers and other school board employés, adopted its 1937 budget of $70,852,632. The total amount in the budget is $500,000 less than the 1936 appropriations and nearly $4,000,000 less than the tentative budget drafted earlier this year.

At the same time the board announced the total 1937 tax levy will be $62,908,757, reflecting a saving in tax bills, so far as the schools are concerned, of $5,468,511, compared with last year. This decrease is largely in the educational fund, for which the pegged levy was reduced this year to $45,000,000.

Late yesterday the city council finance committee recommended approval of the 1937 tax levy. An ordinance perfecting the levy is expected to be passed today by the council. This will bring one step nearer arrangements for paying teachers and other employés $6,000,000 due them for two payless pay days and one scheduled pay day, March 5.

10 Day Wait Necessary.

After approval by the council, the tax levy must be published for ten days before it becomes effective. Tax anticipation warrants may then be sold to provide revenue for paying the school employés.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, conferred yesterday with City Controler Robert B. Upham, authorizing him to arrange for the immediate sale of $10,000,000 in educational fund tax warants, and another $10,000,000 within a few weeks.

"If this transaction goes through on schedule," Mr. McCahey declared, "we may be able to have pay checks ready for the employés on the next regular pay day, March 5. But in case of any delay the employés will be paid on the following Monday."

Slashes in 3 Items.

Three principal items accounted for the decrease from the tentative budget figures, Mr. McCahey said. These were $3,000,000 for contingent liabilities, $1,220,000 for additional high school teachers, and $462,000 for additional elementary school teachers. This total of $4,682,000, and readjustment of other items, gives the difference of $3,802,1555 in the final appropriation.

"The provisions for educational activities in the main remain the same as those of 1936," Mr. McCahey declared, "except five additional items. These are fifty new high school divisions [a "division" is one teacher or two clerks], fifty new elementary school divisions, four new junior college divisions, twenty-four additional kindergarten divisions, and an increase of eleven librarians in the high schools and six in the evening schools."

While the $14,256,571 building fund appropriation represents a reduction of $1,386,337 compared with 1936, Mr. McCahey explained an extensive 1937 building program has been provided for. This is made possible largely by a $2,351,454 federal grant.

HOUSE FOR 16, SENATE FOR 14 AS AGE TO WED FOR TENNESSEEANS

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Tennessee house of representatives passed a bill, 91 to 0, today to prohibit child marriages such as the recent union in remote Hancock county of a 9 year old girl and a 22 year old mountaineer.

The bill, fixing 16 as the minimum age for marriage, now goes to the senate, which previously had adopted another proposal setting 14 as the minimum.

The movement for tighter marriage laws followed the marriage last month of Eunice Winstead, 9, to Charlie Johns near Sneedville.

HELD TO JURY AS BURGLAR.

Daniel Moore, who has served time in the Michigan state penitentiary for burglary, was held to the grand jury in $5,000 bonds yesterday when he was arraigned in the Felony court on a similar charge.

INTERMITTENT PAIN AGAIN DISTURBS POPE; AUDIENCES LIMITED

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Intermittent pain disturbed Pope Pius tonight, although his condition was reported fundamentally unchanged. The tight bindings on his legs added to his discomfort, it was understood. stood.

During the day the pope limited his audiences to two cardinals and several bishops.

Dr. Amanti Milani, the pope's physician, was reluctant to loosen the leg bandages for fear wounds brought on by the pontiff's condition might reopen.

When Harry I. Weisbrod lighted a cigaret yesterday he also lighted a fire that did $5,000 damage to his apartment at 425 Belmont avenue. Weisbrod, an attorney, escaped unharmed and called firemen. He was unable to account for the speed with which the blaze swept through the apartment until he recalled that a man had just cleaned the furniture with benzine.

KRUTCKOFFS JR. CANCEL DIVORCE SUIT; RECONCILED

Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, Ill., sitting in the Superior court, yesterday dismissed the divorce bill of Charles H. Krutckoff Jr., and the cross suit for separate maintenance brought by his wife, Mrs. Ella Johnson Krutckoff, when attorneys announced they are reconciled. Krutckoff, head of three coal companies and son of the former chairman of the old Cook county board of assessors, alleged cruelty in his bill filed Nov. 13. His wife accused him of making endearing telephone calls to a tavern dice girl. Krutckoff had been paying $50 a week alimony to his wife, who lives in Long Beach, Ind. Mr. Krutckoff resides at the Illinois Athletic club.

HERE'S HOW TO HELP END A COLD QUICKER

The 3 Minute VapoRub Massage
Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.
It takes so little time—it does so much—this 3-Minute VapoRub Massage!
Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:
1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.
2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages.
Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets
This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

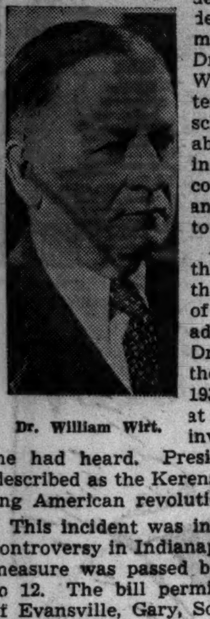
SUPT. WIRT'S JOB IMPERILED BY INDIANA BILL

GarySchool Head Still Has 2 Years on Contract.

Although the Indiana state senate yesterday passed a bill after bitter debate which was described as a means of ousting Dr. William A. Wirt as superintendent of Gary schools, he probably is protected in that post by a contract that has another two years to run.



Dr. William Wirt.

Renowned as the originator of the Gary system of public school administration, Dr. Wirt angered the New Deal in 1934 by testifying at a congressional investigation that he had heard President Roosevelt described as the Kerensky of the coming American revolution.

This incident was injected into the controversy in Indianapolis before the measure was passed by a vote of 36 to 12. The bill permits the mayors of Evansville, Gary, South Bend and Fort Wayne to appoint the members of their school boards, a power which, in Gary, has rested heretofore in the pro-Wirt common council.

Strong Support in House.

The bill, which seems assured of strong support in the lower house of the Indiana legislature, was introduced originally by Senator William D. Hardy of Evansville to regularize the appointments of that city's school trustees.

Opponents of Wirt at once seized on it as a means of removing him, according to Senator Harvey J. Post of Hammond, which, like Gary, is in Lake county. He and Senator Frederick K. Eichhorn of Gary supported the measure. Eichhorn, however, said in yesterday's debate that there is no need to fear that Dr. Wirt will be affected by the passage of the bill.

The fight against the measure was led by the other Lake county senator, Raymond C. Sonl of Dyer, who was just as positive that it was aimed against the Gary educator.

Foes Work on Statistics.

Mayor L. B. Clayton of Gary and Mrs. Mary Grace Wells, Calumet township [Gary] trustee and distributor of federal largess in the area, both Democrats, were in Indianapolis urging passage of the bill. Although the mayor said that he had no intention of removing Dr. Wirt, legislators were given statistics that tended to reflect on the financial status of the Gary school administration. Much was made of the fact that the $800,000 statutory limit on school indebtedness had been exceeded.

"Gary's school finances are in better shape than those of any other municipal agency," said H. B. Snyder, president of the Lake County Taxpayers' association. "The excess over the debt limitation is due entirely to a bond issue that was floated before assessed property valuations were sharply reduced."

Less alarmed partisans of Dr. Wirt pointed out last night that even if some way were found of terminating his contract, Mayor Clayton could not expect to gain control of the school board until the terms of its present members expired, a matter of about two years.

Louise Carlson and Marcella Harnish, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the women's reformatory at Dwight by Judge Michael L. McKinley.

Denying the probation plea of two girl robbers yesterday, Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court sentenced them to serve one to twenty years each in the women's reformatory in Dwight. The girls are Marcella Harnish, 18 years old, and Louise Carlson, 17, both of 307 Loomis street, sweethearts of Otto Lundquist, 23 years old, and Angelo De Leo, 21, who last Thursday were sentenced to one year to life each for two of the numerous robberies they committed.

On Feb. 8 Miss Harnish, while awaiting arraignment, attempted to leap from a fifth floor window of the Criminal courts building. When the men were sentenced she made a tearful plea for probation. Yesterday Prosecutor Frank Donohue told the court that she held a pistol during one of the robberies.

"That's true," the girl said. "I did wrong and I must take my punishment."

CHINESE NARCOTICS SUSPECT HELD.

You Sun, alias Archie Moy, 35 years old, 2236 Wentworth avenue, seized in a raid by federal agents in Chicago's Chinatown, was held to the grand jury in $1,000 bonds by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotics act.

TROOPER ALTERS STORY ON THIRD DEGREE AT TRIAL

Somerset, Pa., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The jury trying 25 year old Stacy Gunderman on charges of beating to death elderly Frank C. Monaghan in a "third degree" today had that trooper's declaration he lied in telling superior officers that Monaghan was not abused.

The husky trooper, who asserted he struck Monaghan in self defense, and threw him with jui-jitsu, explained the reports he gave to Corporal Joseph Conwell with:

"I wish to make some kind of statement. I knew there was a warant out for my arrest. I didn't know what to do."

Earlier Gunderman had testified Monaghan attacked him in the Fayette county Bertillion room.

Private Harold W. Stansfield, state police jiu-jitsu instructor, testified he had seen ribs broken "three or four times" during demonstrations of the throwing hold which Gunderman said he used.

'UNCLE' NELSON ABLE TO AMBLE EVEN IF DEAD

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Feb. 23.—When Uncle Nelson Maury ambled by the courthouse today he wondered why people stared.

County officials in turn wondered how Uncle Nelson was able to amble. For in the county records was the statement that Nelson Maury was dead. Moreover there was a receipted bill from an undertaker showing payment for Nelson's burial.

Investigation disclosed there had been a death at Maury's house, but Nelson was not the decedent. The dead man was a visitor, and his estate did not provide for burial. So he was buried as Nelson Maury.

And "Nelson Maury" is on the tombstone.

TOKIO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Men outnumbered women almost two to one in the city's 2,681 suicides last year, according to official statistics made public today. The number was an increase of 266 over 1935. Some 700 attempted suicides for 1936 were also reported.

PEGGY GARCIA'S PAST BOBS UP TO PLAGUE PRESENT

Prosecutor Takes Hand in Checking Testimony.

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Blonde Peggy Garcia, who is suing Dave Rubinoff for $500,000, charging breach of promise, may find herself in extremely hot water as a consequence of her action against the violinist, it was learned today.

Assistant District Attorney Eugene Finnegan admitted he had a long conference yesterday with Michael La Rocca, to whom Peggy was married last year, and that evidence he obtained would be handed to Supreme Court Justice Salvatore Cotillo.

Finnegan did not explain his interest in the case. It was indicated, however, he was concerned over Miss Garcia's testimony denying that she was married years ago to Taylor Vance Guinn in Virginia. Miss Garcia's explanation of this denial was that the early marriage was not legal and never was consummated.

Rubinoff's counsel contends Miss Garcia deliberately tried to conceal the fact that she was married at the time the violinist was alleged to have seduced her with a promise of marriage.

Trial of the suit was to have been resumed today, but Justice Cotillo granted a further adjournment until tomorrow at the request of Miss Garcia's attorney.

PAROLED SAFE BLOWER GIVEN LIFE IN PRISON

St. Clair McInerney, 25 years old, of 227 Hill street, a paroled convict who was caught three weeks ago while attempting to blow a safe in the Swedish club of Chicago, 1258 North La Salle street, was sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual criminal yesterday by Judge John J. Lupe in the Criminal court.

In 1932 McInerney was granted probation after he and three others had confessed four robberies. John A. Swanson, then state's attorney, attacked the right of Judge James J. Kelly to grant probation to any one convicted of four crimes, and the probation was voided. McInerney then served three and a half years and was paroled Jan. 22, 1936.

McInerney, Thomas Lanning, and Edward Bell were caught by police in the act of opening the safe which contained $7,000. Lanning and Bell were sentenced to one to ten years.

THE UNITED STATES IN THE WAR SCARE.

Great Britain's armament bill will be 7 billion 500 million dollars. The period will be five years, another five year plan. Germany's bill has been estimated at 5 billion, Russia's at 4. Civilians in the Japanese parliament tell the military government that the people are oppressed by military taxes almost beyond endurance and, although their sacrifices would be unstinted in time of need, they can barely carry the burden of expenditures. The reply is that they must harden themselves to the task. France annually increases its military expenditures and Italy has the greatest peacetime army of its history.

An estimate of aircraft building this year puts it at a billion dollars, with four out of five as military planes. The United States has increased its military costs, chiefly naval, and at the same time is seeking a manner of isolating itself from war if it comes. Each European nation alarms the other. Each hastens to beat the plowshare into a spear. The competition is running with accelerated strides to what pessimistic people think must surely be another world catastrophe unless the nations, having frightened themselves out of their senses, frighten themselves back into them again.

For the United States there is already trouble of two kinds if Mr. Morgenthau's worries over one of them are genuine and not deceptive. The treasury and the federal reserve board view with alarm the foreign investment here, part, although not a large part, being money driven from home by uncertainties, or attracted to American securities. Most of the 8 billion which is supposed to perplex the treasury is in long term investment and was here before the war. More recent additions occupy the Washington thought. It wasn't put here as a wartime reserve, but it is here, and it may do something to our proposed neutrality laws.

The other part of the trouble in Washington is in these neutrality proposals. The senate foreign relations committee has reached a tentative agreement which tries to reconcile conflicting opinions. Purchases of raw materials by nations at war would be on the cash and carry basis. The purchaser would put down his money and take away his goods but the President would have discretion to permit or prohibit the use of American shipping in such trade. Munitions of war are to be excluded, but what are munitions of war? Actually any material indispensable to the conduct of war is war material and that means the bulk of peacetime trade.

Specific definition of war material might contain as much detail and as much logrolling as a tarif bill if there were high profits beyond the horizon for almost anything America could produce. You cannot imagine an embargo on wheat or on cotton or pork, beef or other food products if they could be shipped out at war prices. If there were no embargo on raw materials to be worked up abroad American fabricators, including every one in the industries from top to bottom, would be demanding release for products. If pig iron could go, why not steel?

Cash down would be a condition the foreign buyer would not long be able to meet unless the nations could mobilize resources convertible into American dollars. Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Eccles, trying to handle the problem of foreign investments, are confronted with such resources. If an emergency demanded liquidation and the use of any considerable part of them in purchases here on a cash basis the threatened market disturbance might undo any neutrality program, even force the repeal of the Johnson law, and put the United States in the same dilemma it was in when Mr. Wilson found he could not stop loans unless he were willing to make all sorts of trouble at home.

THEY CAN BUILD THEIR OWN PRISONS.

One of the excuses offered for the loose parole system which is flooding Illinois with criminals is that the alternative policy of keeping them safe behind bars would soon crowd prisons to the point where millions of dollars would be required to enlarge them.

The excuse does not hold water. The cost to the state of the depredations of the men let out to resume their criminal pursuits is far greater than the cost of additional prisons. And the latter cost is being exaggerated by defenders of the existing parole system.

New prisons should cost little more than the price of the land which they would occupy and the materials necessary to build them. The convicts themselves could and should provide the greater part of the labor supply.

Such a building program, if more prisons are really needed, would achieve a double end. It would wipe out a false face behind which a politically controled parole system releases criminals on the public. It would help at the same time to relieve the idleness which makes prison administration so difficult, and which is a leading factor in making the convict who has served any considerable sentence a dangerous parole risk.

THE ALL-TIME ACE.

Lindbergh continues to hold first place among the airmen. There are many good flyers, but in skill and accomplishment he stands alone. When, having set out for Paris, he reached Le Bourget field in Paris many thought that he was as lucky as he was competent. They have learned that luck plays a minor part in his feats. Lindbergh can be relied upon to reach his goal.

Today he is in India to discuss with government officials India's place in a world-wide air mail service. The Pan-American company spans the Pacific and in November will join with Imperial Airways in maintaining a service between England and the United States. Imperial Airways maintains a service from England to India and after October will carry all first class mail between the two countries.

The open waters, the greatest hazard to round-the-world commercial service, will soon be crossed regularly by mail planes. All that remains to be done is to connect the eastern end of the British line in India with the western end of the American line in Hongkong or Manila. Presumably it is to arrange for that final link that Lindbergh has made his present journey.

If he succeeds, he will have added one more achievement to his extraordinary career as a pioneer in commercial aviation. He was one of the first American mail pilots. He pioneered the nonstop flights to Europe and to Mexico. He did much of the exploration work for Pan-American in the Caribbean and then made extended flights over the North and South Atlantic crossings. He flew northward to China and now he has flown from England to India to survey the final link in the round-the-world service.

His has been an astonishing career because in him are combined the daring of a stunt flyer, the judgment of the best of navigators, and the instinct of a great explorer. There is only one Lindbergh.

BICYCLES AT NIGHT.

The bicycle rider these days deserves sympathy. He is not allowed to use the sidewalk because of the danger to pedestrians. When he rides in the street he is constantly menaced by automobiles. Most of the cyclists in the city and suburbs are children, and their inexperience and irresponsibility heighten the risk.

Competent motorists operate on the principle that a boy on a bicycle is going to do the unexpected. They approach him with caution and give him a wide berth. If more motorists followed this plan many serious accidents would be avoided.

Even the careful motorist may run down a cyclist at night, however, if the rider has not taken the precaution to provide himself with a rear light, or at least a reflector. Wise parents forbid their children to ride bicycles at night, and in addition are careful to see that their youngsters' bikes are properly equipped with a tail light. It might be a good idea to require that bicycles be licensed and subjected to inspection to assure that the lights are in working order. The nuisance to the bicycle owners would be considerable, but such a regulation, if enforced, should lead to the saving of lives.

POLITICAL PAY ROLL COLLECTIONS.

Indiana Democratic politicians are trying to put a bill through the legislature to give legal standing to the acts of the Hoosier Democratic club known as the two per cent, whose officials levied on the pay of Democratic state pay rollers for political purposes. The bill has passed the senate. If it goes through the house Indiana will give statutory consent to the collection of what used to be known as the slush fund.

The slush fund was an implement of the doctrin that to the victors belong the spoils. The full theory was that if you have a job from the spoils it is worth your while to pay to keep it. A political appointee owed his place to the success of the party. He was assessed a part of his earnings for having it. The job belonged to the party or to the faction of the party on top, not to the state, and the employé's share in the spoils required him to keep his superiors in power. It has never been well argued that state service was improved by the employment of such job holders. But they filled the war chest.

Here in Illinois the Democratic state organization, having a brisk fight on its hands with the Cook county organization, tried to regularize the raising of Gov. Horner's fund by organizing the Iroquois Illinois League, Inc., to which payments should be made. One object was to have a central authority which would keep the county politicians from pasturing on the state pay roll for their own benefit. They would get only second search if the Iroquois organization was the official collector. The practice, which in older days caused uproarious scandals, is being raised to an uneasy respectability. Gov. Horner's collection agency was incorporated. Indiana is going a little further trying to give the practice a standing in the law.

THE TOUGH MIND.

[Birmingham Age-Herald.]

The quiet and more or less systematic protest which this paper has voiced for the last two years against the frivolous and deceitful use of labels, against particularly the labeling of all kinds of loose proposals as "liberalism" simply because they are well intended and against the assumption of the historic and high rôle of the "liberal" by all sorts of self-seekers, egocentrics, sentimentalists, and mountebanks, seems lately to be only a small part of a rapidly developing and articulate recognition of counterfeits.

If this growing tendency in itself ever takes on the superficiality and hypocrisy against which it protests, it will be time for those now behind it themselves to grow especially wary.

But just now there is nothing more apparent than that one of the great dangers of the times comes from the tendency of people, in time of trouble, to surrender their fate to those who can make the most convincing promises to them.

The human mind, in such periods of terror, uncertainty, and difficulty, tends to an unusual readiness to yield its skeptical toughness and grow pliant. But never more than in complex times is the tough and skeptical mind more essential as the first servant of men.

"And let us not be confused by the words 'liberal' and 'conservative,' or misled into thinking that the expressed will of the majority is the essence of democracy," Dorothy Thompson writes. "By that definition Hitler, Stalin, and Mussolini are all great democratic leaders. The essence of democracy is the protection of minorities."

Of course, we all would like to be regarded as liberal in the sense that we are fair minded and are willing to sacrifice for the general good. But we cannot be so merely by claiming to be.

Through rhythms throbbing out from mighty drums
Beating deep within the bowels of earth.

The echoes fade of my protesting cry;
Again the doctor's voice grows sharply clear.
I watch tall branches pierce the midnight sky;
Implacable, the swing of pain sweeps near.

I rush through air borne far on darkened wing.
What is this place where time and space are gone?
What is this burden I must surely bring
Fighting my way to earth before the dawn?

Down years of life I hear a new cry ring,

MEDITATION IN EXILE.

I am homesick for Chicago. It was a mistake to get me talking about Boul Mich' last night . . . San Francisco is a beautiful city, of course. The way it fronts on ruffled salt water on every side, the way it rambles over hills, are beautiful; but, damn it, this city has no Front Yard. I wonder if there is any place in the world that has—except Chicago.

There where the buildings leave off—where they make their proud, frozen, spear-topped stand against the Avenue. On one side, ramparts of granite and cliffs of glass—on the other side, nothing; openness: a gasp of space: green park, blue lake; gulls wheeling. The front yard of the city. From my first sight of it to the last, for ten long years, I thought of it as the front yard of the world.

That was my home. Not the airless flats and little crazy attics where I lived, not the four flights up with the soiled carpet, nor the done-over studios up and down the twisting streets of the near north side. I lived and slept in those; but Michigan avenue was my home—the breathless mile of it, beginning where it broke loose from the buildings at the south end and marched one-sidedly along Grant park and the lake, its hands flung to the sky; continuing through the geyser of buildings to the north, crossing the tiny dead river, and darting in a long crystal-colored sweep up to the next park, where it stopped and was lost. I am stupid about distances—common sense tells me that this is nearer four miles than one. But I think of it as the Golden Mile, the unbroken span of beauty and pity and terror.

HELPFUL DRUGS IN MUSCLE WEAKNESS.

EVERY now and then physicians will encounter patients who complain of recurring attacks of great weakness. The condition—known as myasthenia gravis—comes on slowly and is progressive although from time to time there are periods of remission.

Sometimes the first symptom noted by the victim is trouble in swallowing. In others, although there is no feeling of illness, a marked drooping of one or both eyelids occur—so much so, in fact, that the patient will of necessity be compelled to raise the head in order to visualize objects that are directly in front of him. Not infrequently the face appears expressionless. If the muscles of the pharynx [the voice box] are affected, hoarseness will be observed. Now and then the head can scarcely be held upright and on the slightest exertion the arms and legs become so weak that walking and other movements are impossible.

Of course, there are various gradations of the malady and it may be hard to recognize mild attacks. Nevertheless, whenever particular sets of muscles refuse to act their behavior deserves investigation.

Just what is responsible is not clearly understood. There seems to be something lacking in the excitation of the levers of the body, which brings about rapid exhaustion. In normal individuals fatigue is relieved as work progresses. In myasthenia gravis muscle fibers—after a few minutes of activity—relax as completely as though they had been worn out by hours or even days of hard labor.

But the prime question is one of response. What can be done? Nature's way of telling us to rest is by refusal of function, hence quiet and complete cessation of movements are important. It may be desirable to confine these patients to bed and feed them artificially so that no labor—not even swallowing—is undertaken.

A few years ago the observation was made that ephedrin [a drug derived from a Japanese plant] would produce a marked improvement. Later, physostigmin [obtained from the Calabar bean] was employed. Still later a similar preparation called prostigmin was found to neutralize the symptoms promptly, although the effect is not of long duration. This drug can be taken by mouth and apparently has a more favorable influence than any of those previously considered. Within thirty minutes muscles too tired to move will respond and within an hour they will function as well as ever.

After two hours, however, the power of the drug begins to decline and if the condition is to be counteracted a second dose must be taken. The amount needed depends on the severity of the disease, and even moderately aggravated cases will do well on five to six doses each day.

R. S. Mitchell, reporting on the administration of this drug in nine cases, noted that when the treatment is properly planned, with adequate rest periods, most of these patients have been able to return to a satisfactory routine of daily life.

Occasionally nausea, perspiration, or muscular aches and pains are complained of. Fortunately, however, these symptoms continue only a few minutes and the patients themselves will persist in the use of the product because of the remarkable improvement obtained. Mitchell notes that if atropine or belladonna is given with the prostigmin the unfavorable symptoms disappear almost entirely. Furthermore, potassium chloride has been found useful, as this compound seems to act as an assistant to the drug.

Mild cases will often do well under small doses of strychnine. A case reported is that of a young woman of 21 who after speaking about five minutes would use up her strength. Her speech would become indistinct and muttery. She had difficulty in swallowing and fluids would sometimes be regurgitated through the nose. When markedly affected she would be unable to protrude the tongue. This situation cleared up satisfactorily under the use of this drug and one small dose daily seemed to be sufficient. Careful medical supervision is advised.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

A. M. writes:

1. How soon after kissing a person suspected of tuberculosis would symptoms of this disease appear?

2. How would they manifest themselves?

3. What can one do about discovering whether or not he is infected?

REPLY.

1. After a very close contact over a long period of time with a person who has had tuberculosis you might contract the disease yourself. Much would depend upon your own physical condition.

2. If you should lose weight, run a temperature, lose your appetite, have a persistent cough, you should consult your physician.

3. Have X-ray plates made of the chest and submit to a thorough physical examination.

IMPORTANT SYMPTOMS.

F. A. R. writes: A short time ago I was examined for life insurance. I was turned down because of pus and blood cells in the urine. What brought on this condition? Can it be cured?

REPLY.

Pus and blood in the urine are important symptoms. They may come from any site along the urinary tract, including the kidneys. Have a careful investigation and follow the directions of your physician. Infection has reached the area somehow, possibly from bad tonsils or teeth. Cure is the rule if the case is well managed by a skilled physician.

PROMOTING GROWTH.

Mrs. M. writes: My daughter, 15½ years old, is barely 5 feet tall. Is there anything that can be done to promote growth?

REPLY.

A girl that age has nearly finished growing. Heredity has much influence on height, but sometimes growth may be stimulated by gymnastics. Drugs are of no value, and gland therapy is still in the experimental stage.

BLOOD FROM NOSE.

F. K. writes: My nose bleeds every time I blow it. What causes this?

REPLY.

Small ulcers, and picking or scratching the mucous membrane of the nose. In chronic nasal catarrh [inflammation] slight bleeding is quite common.

20 Years Ago Today

FEBRUARY 24, 1917.

LONDON.—Prime Minister Lloyd George announced in the house of commons the program decided upon by the war council and the cabinet to meet the conditions brought about by the German submarine campaign. He admitted the food shortage was the worst England ever had known. Among the items in the program are prohibition of import of all luxuries, government fixing of prices for producers of foodstuffs, and a gigantic reduction in the production of beer and liquor.

CHICAGO.—Chief of Police Schuettler will send a special detail today to learn the total amount of food held in each of the 21 big cold storage warehouses in Chicago. That information will make it possible to determine to what extent speculators are responsible for the soaring prices of foods.

WASHINGTON.—With a break with Austria impending and open rebellion against President Wilson brewing in congress, the international situation took on a graver aspect.

CHICAGO.—Bishop Thomas Nicholson of the Chicago area, Methodist Episcopal church, will be married to Miss Evelyn C. Riley of the faculty of Cornell college, Iowa, June 19.

WASHINGTON.—Without committing himself or the administration to the proposal, Secretary of War Baker transmitted to the senate committee on military affairs the army general staf plan and bill for universal military training in peace and service in war.

TERMS OF WILL.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise [1] if in a will it be necessary to name each and every member of one's immediate family and bequeath to each a sum, even if it be only one dollar?

2. I was recently informed that a will may be contested by a member of a family not named in the will. A. W. K.

1. The law does not require it, but if natural objects of your bounty are not mentioned in your will this could be considered with other facts as bearing on the question whether you lacked mental capacity. Hence it is often advisable to mention the fact that one is deliberately omitting certain persons as beneficiaries.

2. This would still be true even if a $1 gift was made. In either case successful attack would require proof of undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JOINT PROPERTY.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife and I hold our real estate in joint tenancy. We have also made separate wills to each other covering "all real and personal estate."

1. Is such a will necessary?

2. Is it necessary to inventory the real estate in probating the will?

3. If so, would notices have to be sent to relatives of each? J. H. W.

1. We would consider it a reasonable precaution to cover possible assets that may not be held in joint tenancy.

2. No, but it would be a reasonable convenience in view of the fact that the one-half which passes by survivor is subject to inheritance tax.

3. We do not understand the question.

LYNCH LAW.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—In a southern state, recently, there happened a major crime. A Negro was captured, accused, and a mob decided he was guilty and so should suffer the extreme penalty. They reasoned thus: If we let the law handle this, he is presumed to be innocent until a jury finds him guilty. That won't do because we have already decided he is guilty and besides that, the process will take too long. We want quick action; we don't want to wait for what is called due process of law. And another thing, suppose some organization should step in and defend him and find evidence that would create a doubt in the minds of the jury and they might think he is innocent, turn him loose, and not execute him. Therefore, we must act now; any delay may prove we are wrong. And so they lynched him.

The arguments in support of the intended packing of the Supreme court are identical with the arguments used by the lynchers. The regular procedure of a constitutional amendment "will take too long." Organized opposition may defeat it. The people may not want it.

And so this New Deal mob is assembling to do a lynching, that we may be governed by a man and not by laws.

E. J. S.

TURNCOATS.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Somehow or other, I get an awful kick out of the speeches of Senators Ashurst and Robinson delivered in the senate on Feb. 19, explaining their previous stands on the matter of packing the Supreme court and their present attitudes, especially that of Ashurst in which he tells how, previously, he was in error, confessing his vileness and ignorance, but how now he sees the light of joyous day.

We heard you the first time, senator. The senator's speech is not dissimilar to the confessions of certain late Russian leaders who have recently seen the light of an endless day, with this exception, Ashurst doesn't name his Trotzky.

I am anxiously awaiting the "God have mercy on me" speeches of other statesmen as they take on the rôle of the prodigal son, after having dared to stray from the fold. These boys may be able to kid themselves and possibly the President, but they are not kidding the folks back home one bit.

B. W.

HEROISM.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—I have just driven over the bridge at Madison street and I have again looked at the cakes of ice, where Tuesday, Feb. 2, I saw a brave young man risk his life to save a poor heartsick mother. He gave no thought to his safety and fought the ice and death, keeping a mother alive.

I saw a few lines in your paper the next day and now I wonder will he, Melbourn Davis, receive the hero medal he so much merits. I think we devote too much space in telling the public about the cowards who kill a man with a car, then run and hide. How much better it would be if we each did our good deed daily, and, by telling the public of such deeds, we inspire a virtue our young men need!

Let's keep the killers out of the headlines, and give the brave the preference.

M. Wile.

UNFAIR TO SCHMELING.

Kokomo, Ind., Feb. 18.—I wish to express my opinion on the Braddock and Louis fight which is to take place, according to the newspapers, in June. I think that it is the most unfair example of sportsmanship ever shown in ring history. Regardless of creed, color or nationality, this boy Schmeling has fought his way to the top; he has made his comeback, had won his fight with Louis, and had taken a lot of punishment, and the winner of this fight was to fight the champion [Braddock]. Now we are to have another heavyweight championship bout to take place in June. Instead of Schmeling fighting Braddock, who is really entitled to it, and the real contender, they match Louis. If Louis should win from Braddock then Schmeling will have to fight Louis again to try and win the championship. I have asked more than 100 people their opinion on this bout between Braddock and Louis and they were 100 per cent against it.

Fred G. Spoden.

MAKEUP.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—It was my pleasure last night to attend a very beautiful operetta at one of our downtown theaters. Among the ecstasies came one perturbing observation. A number of the young ladies on the stage had their eyelids colored with red and blue. Not being used to such decoration on my everyday acquaintances, I was startled. If you have not seen what I refer to, you can probably understand my reaction nevertheless if you imagine how you would feel if you should see, for instance, a baboon where you were expecting none.

Now, I do not wish to be critical, especially since the young ladies were very pretty, but I am wondering if one of your departments devoted to the education of your readers might not explain the philosophy of such practice. No doubt understanding would bring appreciation of it by those who do not now understand it.

Adolf Holstein.

A WHOPPER OF ANCIENT LINEAGE.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—I wonder why "G. B." of Oak Park, whose "whopper" is printed in today's issue of The Tribune, can get $2 for a story that is centuries old, and I, a widow needing a job, cannot get one? Is it because I am plump and 40? I know it is not lack of ability.

But to get back to the "whopper." While a proof reader on a Phoenix, Ariz., newspaper ten years ago I read the same story in course of my work. It was a Chinese tale of a mandarin and his three dogs, who persisted in sleeping on his silken couch. I probably have the clipping packed away with others, which at present I cannot unpack. Perhaps some of your readers, especially Chinese students, can confirm my assertion.

Proof Reader.

SOME SAY YES; OTHERS NO.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Why all the fuss about Benjamin Fishbain trying to get something for nothing? Was that not the thought behind some 28,000,000 votes that were cast for our would-be dictator?

Kenneth Carlson.

a Miracle called 2989

"HAVE YOU SEEN TWENTY-NINE EIGHTY-NINE?" they asked each other, up in the North Woods of Wisconsin where Fromm Brothers hold their famous sale. Word sped that this number marked a fox pelt like nothing ever seen before. A skin so large, so thick and bright with silver that experienced buyers grew lyrical as a debutante at sight of it . . . Last week, in the tense silence of Fromm's auction, Marshall Field & Company bought the miracle pelt called 2989—and made fur history. For the $2,100 paid was the highest price that a full silver has ever been known to bring . . . Cheers greeted the sale. Bidding adjourned. Excited speeches were made by buyers not easily excited . . . and now this proud pelt is on display in our Fur Salon.

WE DON'T KNOW WHO IS GOING TO WEAR 2989, but we know some things about her. We know she is quick to beauty. She'll see at once that this glorious fur with its thick soft mane, its deeply marked black cross, its brave bright silver, is a king among foxes. She'll know that the quiet joy of its possession will be hyacinths to her soul. . . . She may be blonde against its blue black, or dark in harmony with it, but she'll carry her head like a princess. She'll wear its noble length across the shoulders of her tailleur or warm against her decolletage, and if the occasion is simple it will be beautifully so, and if it's an event it will be intensified. . . . This is she who must have 2989.

STATE BAR VOTES NO!—11 TO 2—ON COURT PACKING

Senator Minton Defends Roosevelt Plan.

Members of the Illinois State Bar association, in a poll concluded yesterday, voted 2,062 to 367 against the proposal of President Roosevelt to pack the United States Supreme court with New Dealers—an 11 to 2 ratio.

"This referendum," said President Cairo A. Trimble of the state association, "shows that the lawyers of Illinois, regardless of politics, are faithful to their oaths to defend the constitution and the law. The President's proposal is that he be permitted to appoint new judges who agree with him that the court should be subservient to the President and congress. This is the last trench in which the defenders of our constitutional liberties stand."

Senator Minton Backs Scheme.

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, an ardent supporter of the national administration, supported Roosevelt's plan in a speech yesterday before a group of railroad brotherhood members in the Morrison hotel.

"Five men on the court exercise more power than 435 congressmen, 96 senators and the President," said Senator Minton regarding the present Supreme court. "This awful power should not rest in the hands of any five men.

"It is suggested that the bill [President Roosevelt's bill now in congress] would encourage dictatorship. But if the bill is passed the President can nominate, but the senate must confirm. That is check number one on dictatorship.

"The President and the senate must answer to the people. That is check number two. After a judge is appointed he is there for life. That is check number three. Check number four is the honor and integrity of President Roosevelt, in which you and I have confidence."

Resolution Indorses Proposal.

The unionists, members of 16 nonoperating railroad brotherhoods, by unanimous standing vote approved a resolution heartily endorsing the President's proposal regarding the Supreme court.

The Friends of the Supreme Court, an organization started by Attorney Stephen A. Day, is said to have grown rapidly. It has sent telegrams to Senators Lewis and Dieterich, as the representatives of Illinois in the senate, asking them to appear at the mass meeting arranged for March 4 in the Hotel Sherman which is in the nature of a great protest meeting. The senators were invited to appear and make known their position on the pending legislation.

Revenue Dinner on Same Day.

Or that date the two senators, along with Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin, are scheduled to have the spotlight at a Democratic "Victory winner," at $25 per plate, to be held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

It is undestood that the dinner is to cost $5 and the rest of the charge is to be a donation so the Democratic party can make a payment on its debts. United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe is to be toastmaster.

MILWAUKEE BAR ASSAILS EFFORT TO PACK COURT

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Members of the Milwaukee Bar association today voted decisively against President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the Supreme court. The Racine County Bar association at the same time opened a campaign of opposition with a statement signed by nearly 100 per cent of the practicing lawyers, declaring "it is apparent that efforts are being made to destroy the independence of the court and that the President's proposal fundamentally is unsound."

In the poll of the Milwaukee County Bar, reported tonight, 282 members voted against the President's proposal, 39 voted for it and there were nine defective ballots out of a total of 330.

Boy Tells How He Killed Father

[Acme Photo.]

Elwood, Ind., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Prosecutor Cecil Whitehead today delved deeper into what he called the mystery of the fatal shooting of Ray Small, 39 years old, whose son Claude, 11, is being held. The boy told police that he aimed a rifle at his father's head after a scolding. He said he pulled the trigger to frighten him, but that the father moved just as the gun went off. Following the shooting the boy walked fifteen miles to the home of relatives.

Digs Up Skeletons of 20 Decapitated Persons

Hampton, Ark., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Farmer J. E. Hall told officers today he had plowed up decapitated skeletons of 19 adults and a child on his farm 10 miles south of here. After discovery of the skeletons, Hall said he started digging and located 20 skulls he believed belonged to the bodies. Sherif S. S. Parker started for the scene to investigate, but was injured slightly when his automobile overturned from a tire blowout. He said he would return for a full inquiry tomorrow.

LEADING COLORED LAWYERS DEFEND SUPREME COURT

Only 1 in 6 Favors Plan to Pack It, Poll Shows.

Colored lawyers throughout the nation are awake to the danger to their race inherent in President Roosevelt's scheme to pack the United States Supreme court with judges of his own choosing.

Last Saturday THE TRIBUNE published an editorial which called attention to this menace. With the south in the saddle in national affairs, it is a logical presumption that several of the new judges would be southerners, whose racial prejudice might color their opinions affecting the rights of colored persons.

To obtain the opinions of members of the race on this question, the Chicago Defender has asked the opinions of 47 colored lawyers, representing every part of the country. Of these 47 lawyers, 33 are opposed to the President's plan, eight are in favor, four were skeptical, and two were noncommittal.

Stand for Democratic Rule.

While several of the lawyers pointed out the harm which the plan might entail for their race, the majority based their opinions on the constitutional question. They saw in the President's proposal a grave challenge to American democracy in the usurpation of power by the executive branch.

Following are a few of the opinions:

Webster L. Porter, Knoxville, Tenn.—"Viewing the proposed plan from the angle of the possible effect it will have on the minority racial group in the United States, I consider it one of the most dangerous ideas ever conceived by an administration. Our Supreme court has always been eminently fair and just in considering questions involving the rights of Negroes."

Irwin T. Dorch, Boston, Mass.—"The proposal of President Roosevelt to increase membership of the Supreme court is purely political."

Isaac H. Nutter, Atlantic City, N. J.—"To inject politics into the opinions of the Supreme court approaches dangerous dictatorship."

Edward H. Morris, Benton Harbor, Mich.—"Such a step is a move in the direction of a dictatorship in view of what has so lately taken place."

R. D. Evans, Waco, Tex.—"I indorse the President's recommendations. I think this Supreme court needs company in the light of their last white primary case from Texas."

Richard E. Westbrook, Chicago.—"I do not believe any calamity will result from the changes proposed by the President."

SISTER AIMEE HAS ENOUGH CASH FOR AN ORCHID OR TWO

So She Concedes in Quiz on Her Finances.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Sister Aimee Semple McPherson, replying to questions about her finances, reflectively probed her dentition with a neat silver toothpick today and said she usually has enough money to buy an orchid or two.

Taking of a deposition from the evangelist for trial of the $1,080,000 slander suit brought against her by Rheba Crawford, former Angelus temple associate pastor and one time "angel of Broadway," was comparatively calm in contrast to stormy proceedings of the past.

Arthur Rose, attorney for Miss Crawford, questioned Mrs. McPherson closely about her personal income.

"What do you do when you want to buy an orchid or a gardenia?" he asked.

"Well," said Mrs. McPherson, "Ella, my maid, attends to that. We always have enough loose change around for an orchid or two." The evangelist testified she received $180 a week for work at Angelus temple and $5,000 a week on lecture tours.

She declared, when asked about the ousting of her estranged daughter, Roberta, from her temple office, that Jacob Moidel told Roberta to get out. Moidel, who is now Roberta's reputed fiancé, heard about the testimony and came to the hearing in the afternoon.

"I just wanted to see that she told the truth for once in her life," Moidel declared.

SHERIF TO OUST SIT STRIKERS AT DECATUR PLANT

Sherif Emery Thornell of Macon county announced last night he would drive thirty-three sit-down strikers from the Century Wallpaper plant at Decatur, in compliance with a court order. The strike began Monday night, and company officials immediately obtained the order.

Two of Joliet's six wallpaper plants remained idle in the meantime because of strikes. There were 350 men on strike at the Star-Peerless plant, which has been closed for a month by the dispute, and 250 sitters still hold the Joliet Wallpaper plant, Star-Peerless company representatives met with a strikers' committee yestereday in the Chicago office of Carl R. Latham, company attorney, but no settlement was reached.

Shawneetown to Move Out of Flood Path

Select Hill Site

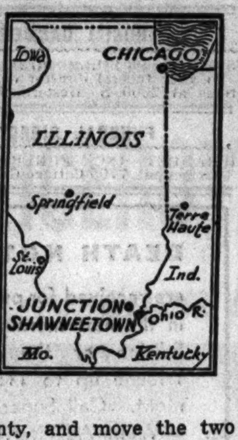
Shawneetown, Ill., Feb. 23.—Special.]—Shawneetown, the oldest city in Illinois, is the first town in the Ohio river valley to decide to abandon its present site in order to avoid repeated ravages by flood waters.



A proposal to unite Shawneetown and Junction, seven miles apart in Gallatin county, and move the two communities to a hill several miles inland from the Ohio river, was favored unanimously today at a meeting of business men from both towns.

The proposed site of the merged towns would be near the Shawneetown Community High school on a hill which was the only stretch of land that remained above water in the vicinity during the recent record flood.

It was announced that business men will discuss the possibility of moving the towns with Lieut. Gov. John Steele and a committee from the Illinois general assembly. They will meet at the high school Thursday.

Mayor William Brinkley of Shawneetown said he approves the merger and moving as the practical solution to a problem involving the future of both communities and a possible prevention of future flood losses. Shawneetown has been swept by serious floods ten times in its history. Twenty-seven lives were lost here in 1898.

ICE JAM PERILS OREGON BRIDGE; RIVER SWOLLEN

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Fears were felt today for the safety of a new concrete bridge on route 77 over Rock River at Oregon as a result of a huge ice jam at the bridge.

O. F. Goeke of Dixon, district state highway engineer, said the bridge is under severe strain and it may be necessary to dynamite the ice.

Route 2, a few miles south of Oregon, was reported covered by water 10 feet deep. It has been necessary to obtain electric power for the community from Peoria as a result of a shutdown caused at the Illinois Northern Utility plant due to 5 feet of water in the boiler room.

At Freeport the Pecatonica river continued to rise slowly, flooding homes and factories in the lowlands. Several plants built dirt dikes and pumped water from basements in an effort to continue operation.

The situation at Freeport was not expected to grow more serious unless ice jams in upper reaches of the river in Wisconsin should release a surge of water.

TALKS ON CHILD DELINQUENCY.

Clifford Shaw, head of the department of research sociology of the institute for juvenile research, yesterday told a meeting of the North Central Kiwanis club at the Drake hotel, that the community, not the child is responsible for juvenile delinquency.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Farm Gets Fine Ewes.

February 23, 1937.

A BAND of Canadian ewes arrived at the Tribune's Wheaton farm the first of the week for use in readjusting the breeding flock and feeding schedule upset by unusual weather conditions last year. Because of the drouth last summer and the consequent shortage of crops on the farm, 99 head of mature ewes were sold last fall. Then came the heavy fall rains and the open winter, so that the sheep grazed until recently and ate comparatively little hay.

Several weeks ago the manager was faced with the problem of finding some way of marketing such roughage as corn fodder "on the hoof." He tried to buy feeder lambs but found them scarce and was unable to get any at a satisfactory price.

Guards Other Animals.

Then he turned to consider the fattening of beef steers. But with a herd of pure bred Guernseys on the farm—accredited under the state-federal tuberculosis testing plan—the manager did not wish to take a chance of bringing disease onto the place.

This left him with no outlet for the surplus feed, except to sell it for cash. Then luck came his way. Word reached the farm that C. J. Brodie of Stouffville, Ontario, Canada, was retiring and selling his entire flock of famous Southdown sheep which produced the fat lambs that won the grand championship carload prizes awarded at the International Live Stock exposition for three years in succession—1934, 1935, 1936.

Duty to Be Refunded.

Sixty-seven pure bred ewes from the Brodie flock were bought by the Wheaton farm. They reached the farm Sunday. The ewes cost an average of $22.35 delivered to the farm. This does not include the customs duty which is later to be refunded to the Tribune farm, because the sheep are to be used for breeding purposes.

The ewes are all bred to lamb during March and April. They are registered with the Canadian National Record association at Ottawa. The records will be transferred as soon as possible to the American Southdown Breeders' association, State College, Pa.

Ages from 2 to 7.

The ewes are of various ages, ranging from 2 to 7 years old. Most of them are young—twenty-seven 4 year olds and sixteen 5 year olds.

Mr. Brodie, recently made "knight of the golden fleece," an informal recognition conferred among sheepmen, developed his flock over a period of many years, using rams from North America's most famous Southdown flock, owned by J. D. Patterson, Richmond Hill, Ontario, Canada. England's finest Southdown blood is in the Patterson flock, mated to Great Britain rams imported from Lady Ludlow's Nuton Hoo flock and the king's flock at Sandringham.

ADMIRAL MAYO OF WORLD WAR FAME IS DEAD

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Atlantic Fleet Chief.

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral Henry Thomas Mayo, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet during the world war, died today at the home of his son, Capt. C. G. Mayo of the navy. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Admiral Mayo was 80 years old. Since his retirement in 1920 he had lived at Burlington, Vt., his birthplace. He will be buried there after private funeral services here either Thursday or Friday.

Strong Navy Advocate.

Always a rigid supporter of the highest standards for the navy, the admiral favored a strong fleet for this country. Commenting on talk of a universal peace when "the lion and the lamb lie down together," Admiral Mayo asserted he wanted the United States to be the lion.

A momentous event in his career was his order that a salute to the United States flag he fired at Tampico, Mexico, in 1914, an act which led to this country's occupation of Vera Cruz.

Graduated in 1876.

Admiral Mayo was born Dec. 8, 1856, in Vermont, the same state from which Admiral Dewey came. He was graduated from the Naval academy in 1876.

The admiral served as a lieutenant on the Bennington and the Independence durin the Spanish American war. Known as a "sea dog," he spent most of his service actually on the water, but at one time was commandant of the Mare Island navy yard.

Surviving him are the widow, Caroline Wing Mayo, of Burlington, Vt., whom he married in 1881, and two sons, Capt. Mayo of the navy and Maj. George Mayo of the United States army.

E. A. COLSON DIES; HAILE SELASSIE FINANCIAL AID TO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Everett Andrew Colson, 50 years old, former financial adviser to Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, died tonight in George Washington hospital. Colson, who assisted the emperor during the Italo-Ethiopian war, had returned to this country after becoming ill in Europe.

A New Englander, Colson had been adviser to the governments of Philippines, China, and Haiti before going to Ethiopia.

Born in Warren, Me., he was educated in Massachusetts and was graduated in law from Georgetown university here. In 1904 the United States government sent him to the Philippines to do civil service work. In 1909 he went to Canton, China, in the American counselor service. He went to Haiti as a financial adviser in 1920.

Selassie called Colson to Addis Ababa in a similar capacity in 1930, but he later became a confidential adviser of the Ethiopian "king of kings."

Colson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Anna Johnston Colson, and a son, Edward, a student in Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

JUVENILE HOME PROBLEM EASED BY NEW SYSTEM

Crowding Is Relieved; Inmates Graded.

The number of children in the county's Juvenile Detention home has been reduced approximately 30 per cent since the first of the month, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dr. Alfred G. Barry, superintendent of the home. There were 336 children in the institution on Feb. 1, he said, and only 246 yesterday.

This relief from overcrowded conditions was attributed to the new intake staf, to the coöperation of police, court and health officials, and the newspaper publicity given to the home in recent weeks.

27 Are Denied Admission.

During the first 10 days of the operation of the intake staf, Feb. 11 to 20 inclusive, 97 children were brought to the home, according to Arthur J. Audy, staf supervisor, but of these 27 were denied admission.

During the corresponding 10 day period in 1936 112 children entered the home, and in 1935 there were 155, according to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, county commissioner who instituted the new system.

Children Sent Elsewhere.

Of the 27 children denied admittance by the new six man, intake staf, eight were sent to other institutions, seven were placed in the custody of their parents, three were turnd over directly to Juvenile court workers, three were placed in foster homes, and six were cared for in other ways.

ARREST FORMER CHICAGO MAN ON THEFT CHARGE

Gormley is held on a charge of "grand theft" on complaint by Mrs. Gilbert Davenport that he took $62 in a wallet from the pocket of her husband after he had invited Gormley into the Davenport home for drinks.

Gormley was a chauffeur for John F. Powers, one-time wealthy Chicagoan, who became owner of the Los Angeles baseball club. He was driving for Powers when the latter's 20 year old niece, Helen Kelly, became acquainted with him. In January, 1920, Gormley induced his former wife, Mrs. Ramona Pinckney Gormley, to go to Nevada, where he served her with a divorce summons, obtained a decree, and three days later married Miss Kelly.

Following the elopement with the girl, who was the daughter of the late Michael Kelly of Chicago, the bride entered into litigation with Mrs. Nellie Kelly Powers to obtain a $480,000 inheritance and an Illinois court order turned the fortune over to the Gormleys.

Mrs. Ramona Gormley obtained a Nevada court order voiding her husband's divorce, and the litigation led up to a perjury trial in Las Vegas at which Gormley was acquitted.

Gormley has had several other brushes with the law.

NOW IT'S O'BRIEN WHO IS EAGER TO TRY THAT WEDDING--IN COURT

The bride was willing and the bridegroom wasn't when Quin O'Brien and Marguerite Eustice were married. But it's just the other way around for the court hearing scheduled for next Saturday at which the bride and bridegroom are supposed to tell the story of the wedding. The bridegroom's willing—anxious, even—and the bride isn't.

Served with a subpoena to the hearing, she fainted yesterday and then telephoned her attorney, Alfar M. Eberhardt: "I won't appear to prove that old marriage valid. I won't. I won't."

Eberhardt gave notice that he would dismiss Mrs. O'Brien's plea for temporary alimony and ask that the preliminary hearing on her suit for separate maintenance, also to have been heard Saturday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay, be vacated. O'Brien's attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., replied that he would demand a complete hearing immediately. O'Brien, assistant corporation counsel, says the marriage is void because he was forced into it.

MODEL SUES I. C. OVER ATTEMPTED RAPE AT STATION

Miss Mildred Huff, 3901 Lake Park avenue, a model, filed suit for $200,000 damages yesterday in the Superior court against the Illinois Central railroad for injuries incurred when a colored man attempted to rape her on the 39th street suburban platform Nov. 30, 1935.

Miss Huff, who is 28 years old, charged that the man attacked her while the platform was deserted, tore her clothing and pounded her head against the wooden flooring.

The bill, filed by Attorney William W. McCallum, alleges the platform was unlighted and unprotected although the railroad knew that other assaults, robberies, and attempted crimes had occurred at nearby stations.

ORDERS 19 POLICEMEN TO TRAP WEST SIDE'S FIRE SETTING ROBBER

Nineteen policemen were assigned last night to the special duty of trapping the west side pyromaniac who in the last week has robbed and set fire to five apartments within an area of a few blocks. Capt. John Ryan of the Fillmore street station ordered his men to surround immediately any building in the district where a fire is reported.

The latest fire was set in the home of David Jacobson at 311 South Springfield avenue on Monday night. Mrs. Emma Owens, 4004 West End avenue, who saw the maniac running from her apartment last Thursday after igniting a pile of newspapers, was able to give the police a description of him.

She said he was about 26 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighed 180 pounds and had a mustache. He was wearing a gray overcoat and hat.

WOMAN MAYOR WINS IN FLORIDA OUSTER BATTLE

Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Daytona Beach's housewife mayor, Irene E. Armstrong, won another victory today in the New Year's day effort to oust her from office.

The Florida Supreme court invalidated the attempt by former Gov. Dave Sholtz to remove her and other city officials.

Mrs. Armstrong, a quiet, home loving individual whose principal interest before taking office was her flower garden, astonished the city by filling her office with armed guards and defying the governor and the National Guard.

She made the city hall a fort into which officials appointed to succeed her and her associates could not enter.

Gov. Fred P. Cone rescinded Sholtz's order shortly after taking office. The court upheld Cone, saying it was immaterial that there had been a change in the governorship between the time the removal order was issued and the time it was revoked.

WHAT PASSENGERS THINK OF THE NEW CARS

Much better than buses. Just about tops in any kind of transportation. Congratulations on your step forward with the march of time.—E. W. Friberg.

It is the greatest development in local transportation to date.—D. D. Franken.

Unsurpassed for comfort.—J. C. Kerr.

You have changed street car travel from an ordeal to a New Deal and transformed an industry into an art.—Benjamin A. Polzin.

Like riding in a fine automobile.—P. J. Grimes.

Far ahead of buses of any kind.—H. J. Wilbur.

They make you feel as though you are riding a train instead of a street car.—Mrs. J. Coburn.

A remarkable improvement. Thank you.—Walter Jankus.

Madison street transportation is on dress parade.

The last of the 83 new streamlined street cars has arrived. Between the loop and the west city limits there is a constant flow of service provided by these modern rail vehicles.

The enthusiastic reception of the new cars has exceeded all expectations. Several thousand passengers have taken the trouble to write in and say that for comfort, efficiency, and quietness the new streamliners provide better service than any car or bus on which they ever have ridden.

Their quick get-away, the almost total absence of noise, the comfortable seats, modern lighting, heating and ventilation, and their smooth but rapid braking, have proved beyond question the advantages of modern rail operation where large numbers of people must be carried in a short space of time.

Madison street was chosen for a demonstration of the new models because it runs from the city limits to the central business district and is typical from a business and residential standpoint.

The popularity of the 1937 model streamlined cars is already established and it is the hope of the management that conditions will permit the installation of many more of them on other lines in the near future.

Our Old Friend the Chain Letter Is at It Again

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The chain gangs are at it again, this time not with dimes but with dish cloths.

Brooklyn is the seat of the new chain activity, and it is strictly for the ladies. No men are wanted unless they happen to have a yen for tea towels.

The system is the same as it was two years ago when every one was writing every one else urging them to send dimes to perfect strangers and not to "break the chain." The only difference is that the recipients are asked to send towels instead of coins.

It works in threes. Recipients of a towel letter are asked to send a tea towel to the person whose name heads a list of three names. The three recipients of a towel letter carry on the chain to nine, and finally the chain goes to twenty-seven; so that the original sender of three letters gets twenty-seven tea towels, if all goes well.

The good ladies of Brooklyn report that the idea is working great, and that dish cloths are arriving in abundance.

Unlike the dime chain letters, which often gave nasty warnings of disaster to any one who might contemplate breaking the chain, the tea towel chain is conducted in a spirit of neighborly comaraderie.

There is also more money in it for the postoffice department, as it certainly costs more to send twenty-seven tea towels than it cost to send twenty-seven dimes.

The ladies argue also that it is a business stimulant to merchants who sell this type of goods.

'Short Cuts' Give This Menu Special Glory

Quickly Prepared Meal Is Help in a Hurry.

BY MARY MEADE.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Three score and ten years aren't enough. Three score and twenty wouldn't be enough. That's why we need short cuts.

If modern man were content to spend his life doing his work, eating and sleeping, short cuts wouldn't be necessary. There would be time enough and to spare. But he isn't satisfied at that. He is thirsty for a million and one pursuits other than those of his routine money-getting and body-feeding. So time must be whittled at all four corners to squeeze into one lifetime as many experiences as possible.

Even in cooking, which is so much fun, we want shortcuts which allow us more hours for reading, knitting or theater-going. Tonight's shortcut business woman's dinner is a real time-saver. Nothing on the menu requires fuss or bother, nor a long period of cooking. Here is the menu. It's meatless, and even fishless, but it's filling and delicious just the same.

BUSINESS WOMAN'S MENU.
Antipasto Appetizer [canned]
Eggs in Tomato Nests
with Cheese Sauce on Toast
Corn on the Cob [canned]
Bread and Butter Pickles
Gingerbread Cup Cakes
with Applesauce Topping
Coffee

And this is a reminder of the groceries you will need to order or to pick up on the way home from work, if your shelves haven't been stocked with them. The amounts here are for four persons.

MARKET LIST.

1 tin antipasto [2 if small]
4 eggs, if not on hand
4 rather large tomatoes
½ pound American cheese [plenty]
1 can corn on the cob [4 ears to a can]
1 jar bread and butter pickles
1 package gingerbread mix
1 can applesauce

It might be smart to purchase several packages or tins of most of these items in order to have on hand the beginnings of another quick meal.

The antipasto, an Italian appetizer, consists, usually, of an assortment of highly seasoned vegetables and anchovies. They are cut in small pieces or strips and are ready for serving in small individual portions at the beginning of the meal. These hors d'oeuvres are a real appetite-whetter.

The eggs in tomato nests with cheese sauce are attractive to look upon and more delicious than you'd ever suspect. This is the method of preparation.

EGGS IN TOMATO NESTS WITH CHEESE SAUCE.
[Four servings.]

Cut off the tops of four rather large tomatoes and scoop out the pulp. Break an egg into each cavity. Place the egg filled tomatoes on a baking sheet, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and place in a moderate oven [350 degrees] to bake only until the egg is firm. Remove from oven and place on buttered toast triangles. Pour over each serving a generous amount of cheese sauce made by adding 1 cup of grated cheese to an ordinary white sauce, which contains two cups of milk. A fourth cup butter and a fourth cup flour with a half teaspoon of salt are the correct proportions of other ingredients for this amount of white sauce.

Gingerbread made with a prepared mix takes almost no time. When it is baked in small muffin tins, the baking time is shortened, too. The gingerbread is best served hot with a generous topping of applesauce, which may be heated or left just as it comes from the can. For this purpose the strained applesauce is best. This is a delicious quick-to-prepare dessert.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE FORCING TAKE-OUT.
[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

A take-out of partner's opening suit bid of one, with exactly one trick more than is necessary in another suit, is forcing to game. Thereafter neither partner can allow the bidding to die until game [or a satisfactory penalty double] is reached.

Since a nonjump suit take-out which is forcing for one round is available, the forcing take-out should be made only with hands powerful enough to give virtual certainty of game and fair hope of a slam. Such hands may be recognized as follows:

1. Hands with three and a half honor tricks and a strong rebiddable suit.
2. Hands containing three and a half honor tricks with a biddable suit and such strong support for partner's suit that a double raise could have been made.
3. Hands containing four and a half or more honor tricks with any biddable [even a four card] suit.

The jump forcing take-out may be at the range of two or of three, depending upon whether responder's suit is higher or lower in rank than opener's suit.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| *1 club | 4 diamonds | 4 hearts | Pass |
| 5 clubs | Pass | Pass | Pass |

*North-South were not using the two-way three-bid.

West opened the diamond king and, before playing any card from dummy, declarer went into a huddle. Dummy's only quick entry was being removed before a heart trick could be established and, therefore, declarer faced the prospect of losing two diamonds and one heart. Obviously a diamond loser could be salvaged by a ruff in the dummy, but [and this "but" reached mammoth proportions] this depended on dummy's ten of clubs standing up against an overruff by East. Of one thing declarer was certain, and that was that West's four bid had been based on no less than six diamonds. East, in that case, would have no more than two, with the probability favoring one. With this diamond shortness it was likely that East was longer in clubs than was West, and this in turn strongly suggested that the missing jack of clubs would be in the East rather than in the West hand.

Having decided that the ruffing plan was unpropitious, declarer fell back on the only alternative, that of playing for an error. He won the first trick with dummy's diamond ace and rattled off eight trump tricks. A glance at the West hand will disclose the discarding difficulties into which West ran. Reducing to four cards, it was the most natural thing in the world for him to hold the king, five of spades and the ace of hearts, which brought him down to one diamond. How could he tell that the declarer had started out with three diamonds and that he had not tried for a ruff in the dummy through fear of an overruff? Now, of course, all declarer had to do was to lead a diamond and, when he regained the lead with the spade ace, cash his third diamond for the fulfilling trick.

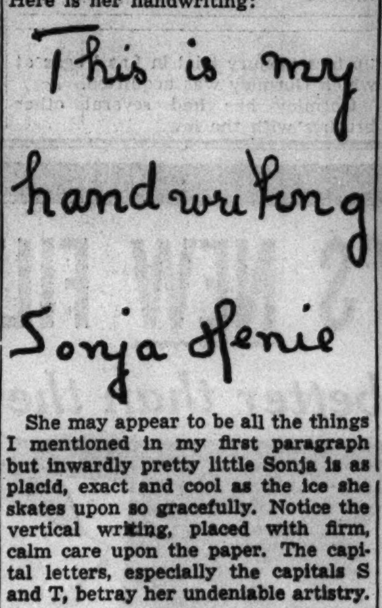
Calm Revealed in Handwriting of Sonja Henie

Artistry Also Shown in the Capital Letters.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.
[Copyright: 1937: by Muriel Stafford]

Vivacious Sonja Henie! Gay, dashing, glamorous Sonja who looks like a spring breeze and whose skates mark flawless time. It seemed strange to me that such a nonchalant appearing young person could hold the ice skating Olympic award tenaciously for ten consecutive years, so I went over to see her and to inspect her handwriting. The answer was there. Here is her handwriting:



She may appear to be all the things I mentioned in my first paragraph but inwardly pretty little Sonja is as placid, exact and cool as the ice she skates upon so gracefully. Notice the vertical writing, placed with firm, calm care upon the paper. The capital letters, especially the capitals S and T, betray her undeniable artistry.

The exactness of the letter formations, including the small letter r which is made with extraordinary care, shows the preciseness with which Sonja approaches her skating and probably everything else. She's fussy, too, and the way that top stroke of the capital T flies above the stem reveals a temper that is swift and sudden yet cold, because her emotions never really control her.

Will of the strong, implacable type; persistence that never wavers; a beautiful sense of rhythm and perfect balance are all portrayed in these few words that were written for me most informally at the Stadium last week while the beautiful Sonja debated whether or not to commit herself to writing.

That reminds me of an unusual letter formation found in this writing. Notice how m's, n's, and h grow smaller towards the bottom of the letter. They seem to close in or tighten. This is a sure sign of discretion and caution. Such writers never do anything without plenty of consideration. They take no chances.

Jews to Open Observance of Feast of Purim Tonight

Purim, the Jewish feast which recalls a frustrated attempt to persecute that people by Haman, prime minister of King Ahasuerus of Persia, will be celebrated beginning at sundown tonight. The Old Testament book of Esther is read in synagogues at Purim services. Esther successfully intervened for her people and Haman was executed. More than 100 Orthodox synagogues will use the feast as center of a campaign for $50,000 for 25 religious schools of the city. Max Shulman, president of the midwest Zionist region, is the chairman of the campaign.

'Best' Stories Editor Praises Midwest Pens

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Middle western writers were praised yesterday as doing "absolutely the most important writing in America" and were cautioned against going to New York to seek "culture" by the outstanding expert on the short story, Edward J. O'Brien, of Oxford, England. Mr. O'Brien, who is known chiefly for his annual collections of "best" short stories of the year, is at the Midland club, 172 West Adams street. He will lecture before the Friends of American Writers at the Chicago Athletic association today.

"The trouble with many midwestern writers is that they think they must get away from the rude and uncultured persons around them," he said. "So they read Proust and Joyce and rush to the streamlined and platinum surfaced life in New York, which is not creative. They are so busy getting the hayseed out of their hair that they get fernseed in it."

The present trend in American short stories concerns working men and women, but they need not be in factories only. Mr. O'Brien advised young writers to write only "about people you know," however. As for the "proletarian" writers, the worst fault of many, he said, is that "they are so busy preaching they are not content to suggest, but must ram the sermon down the throat, defeating themselves." He added, "If you're just writing sermons you preach only to the converted."

Sherwood Anderson and Ernest Hemingway contributed more to the short story than any Americans.

Other Chicago writers [Hemingway came from Oak Park] he thought "important" included Albert Halper, Louis Adamic, who once lived here, and I. V. Morris, now in France, the son of Ira Nelson Morris. Edita Morris, his Swedish wife, also writes.

In a quietly modulated voice, with a humorous glinting of blue eyes, he deftly dealt barbs and bouquets alike as he rambled through names. He was very sorry, but he hadn't read "Gone with the Wind," and didn't intend to.

James Farrell, another Chicagoan, gone to New York, Mr. O'Brien at first would not talk about, then described as "an earnest, dull fellow, who has wonderful material handed him on a platter and treats it with no sense of significance."

If You Must, Sing, but Take Leisurely Bath

Lolling in the Tub Irons Out Tangled Nerves.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Probably singing in the tub has served to allow baths and bathing to enter into parlor conversation. You still may think of subjects more befitting the guest hour, but then many subjects discussed in parlors today wouldn't bear our etiquet editor's approval, 'tis feared.

However, folks, and nice 'uns, do talk about how they love to read in the tub. How they like to lie there and soak. How they like to have a cup of tea while they soak preparatory to an evening out, or as a sedative for harried business nerves. Personally, we feel that there's good propaganda in the discussions. For instance, there came from one such discussion the secret of a certain woman's envied vitality.

Her bath revelation is that she keeps a bowl of coarse salt alongside the tub and gives herself a good sturdy body massage with it after she soaks in the tub and just before she turns on the shower. She does this daily. She claims she never could "take" the real cold water, which she knows to be a great circulation stimulant, so she compromised on the salt rub and tepid water from the shower.

There is great virtue in the salt rub and there's a certain psychological influence to it that urges one on to the shower habit. It's easier to get the salt off under the shower than having to slip back down into the tub again. And, with salt in your hand, you are likely to give yourself a good rubbing, which results in the grand tingling sensation that means the blood is on the run and for your good.

Nervous patients often are advised to massage with a few handfuls of salt. And there is no question that the salt rub leaves the skin in a sweetened condition that lasts for hours. Some "hardies" use the salt with a brush for the massaging, but your skin may not take to this form of punishment easily. Some let the brush [a good stiff one] do the massaging.

Our point in introducing the subject today is that bathing is becoming more than a matter of hopping in and out of the tub in two leaps for washing purposes only. If you're nervous, or are tired out, try the tub cure. Just loaf in the water for longer than you've been used to doing. Sing, if the family will stand for it! A good sweating will remove poisons from the system. An epsom salts bath now and then is excellent, although we are not among those who advocate its frequent use as a reducing medium.

Shelled by the Wind.

A few years ago I had a friend on a farm. He had a corn crib that had a good many knot holes in it. A terrifying windstorm came up while he was in the fields. He got down on the grass and held on so he wouldn't be blown away. When the storm was over he discovered that the corn cobs had been blown through the knot holes and the corn, all shelled, was still in the crib.—M. P., Techny, Ill.

Orchestra Joins Audience in Demonstration.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra and its audience joined forces yesterday for an exciting tribute to a great artist and a well liked fellow citizen. Claire Dux [in private life Mrs. Charles H. Swift] was soloist of the afternoon, and the demonstration followed her performance of a group of Strauss songs.

Claire Dux.

After applause, cheers, and the tapping of innumerable bows had failed to express to the full the enthusiasm of audience and orchestra, the musicians rose to their feet and the whole house followed suit.

The Strauss came almost at the end of the program. Earlier in the afternoon Claire Dux had sung "Dove Sono" from "The Marriage of Figaro" and demonstrated again how perfectly her luminous voice fits the Mozart style.

In the performance of this or any other composer, her charm of manner enters the picture also. There is an attractive impression of high sincerity about her delivery of every phrase.

But the reasons for this artist's greatness as a Mozart singer lie deeper than mere voice quality or manner. She has an innate sympathy for the type of beauty which Mozart imprisoned in his scores and she is able to express it in so convincing a manner that you are almost prepared to swear that this and nothing else is what the composer had in mind when he bent himself to the task of embodying his conception in such symbols as notes and tempo marks.

The Strauss songs were "Freundliche Vision," "Standchen," and "Morgen." So compelling was the singer's fervor that she herself was visibly moved by the last.

Mr. Stock also confined his program choices to Mozart and Strauss. A doubtful performance of the "Jupiter" symphony [tonally rough, at times, and without the Mozart quality of chisseled perfection] was balanced by a sonorous, expertly played, "Thus Spake Zarathustra."

Rudolph Reuter, resident pianist, played a Goodman theater recital last night for the benefit of the Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler fund.

There were richly conceived and competently executed performances of Brahms and Chopin [the latter's F Minor nocturne was a model of what the rubato should be]. Also a Bach chorale played in a fittingly fervent manner. The Beethoven Opus 53 sonata was marred by extreme freedom of tempo [the style was almost rhapsodic in the first movement] and by a number of harsh sforzandi and unbeautiful tonal effects.

A New Ensemble for Spring Wear

Gunmetal gray silk printed in small, crisp, white designs, fashions a short sleeved simple dress. A high neckline is accented with small bows.. The skirt has inverted pleats. Dove gray soft wool is used for a loose knee length coat, with a printed silk tie scarf of the same silk as the dress. Dull black accessories complete the ensemble. From a Chicago shop.

Children Get Chance to Be Dressy Again

BY RHEA SEEGER.

After a winter of nondescript outfits for youngsters, especially in dark street clothes, we sat through a fashion showing of new spring clothes gratefully aware that some understanding soul has taken the younger set out of play suits. It was good to see sleek streamlines again, trim legs and snappy clothes. We enjoyed the parade of fitted street coats made with much imagination. We applauded the crisp, smart, and different hats and good looking accessories. Children are dressed again.

Winter outfits of shapeless wool things must have annoyed others as much as it has disturbed fashion snoopers, for the spring stuff will make your youngsters the most appealing of little pictures. Big brimmed straw hats are back and they have wide streamers down to the end of the coat. Pastel colored wool coats in salmon pink and powder blue are in to make the tiniest tot decoratively high fashion. Beige coats and matching hats are designed and made for 3 year olds up to the teens.

Little brother can wear a small visored cap or copy his big brother with a hat. Sweaters and dizzy striped and patterned socks stage a big riot with dark colored suits. Topcoats for the schoolboy are amazingly swanky copies of what dad wears. Even the twins are outfitted in suits, shirts, socks, sweaters, and hats that match. And that trick is managed without the usual painful obviousness that has marked the double get-together idea heretofore.

Tub frocks for little girls have reached a new high. Bright colored bolero jackets go with full skirted plain colored dresses. Bright red dresses shine under navy blue wool coats and hats, and both tailored as well as frilled clothes are featured. Navy blue is going stronger than ever.

Gold buttoned sailor coats are still favorites for the youngsters as well as the buying parents. See these early fashions while they are so beguilingly complete. They're just as much fun as any of the grown-up showings.

Fashion photograph . . . from the rather giddy little hat of black fabric to the shiny patent lether bag and black gloves, this spring outfit rates high fashion. The clever pleated dress with a high unusual neckline is of gunmetal gray silk spattered with a fresh little white pattern in print. Over the dress a dove gray wool coat that uses a long tie scarf of the printed silk to accent the pointed collarline. Complete costume from a Chicago shop.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Time was when workworn hands were a sign of a certain nobility. Not nowadays. The hand that rocks the cradle, shampoos the dishes, or even launders the sheets is expected to be as lily white as the hand of the woman who neither toils nor spins. This is an exacting beauty conscious age.

And maybe not so exacting at that. The "beauty tools" are so effective and so numerous. If it's snow white, satin skinned hands you're interested in, consider a fairly new cream and its assistant pair of white cotton gloves to be worn waking or sleeping while the hands are having their beauty soaking of cream.

The cream pleases us personally because it's good and greasy. We get more and more wary of the quick-drying kind; there's a comfortable assurance about a greasy cream even though it is a bit on the messy side.

This cream started out in life as a nail cream; it's simply elegant as a tamer of the unruly cuticle. It bleaches the nail tip, too, and its soundly chosen oils are a tonic for the brittle nails that are such a modern problem.

Now it develops that these same oils are good guardians of hand beauty as well. The cream softens and bleaches slightly. On chapped hands its effect is magic.

The loose, but not too loose, cotton gloves are a help. They're washable, of course, and can be worn comfortably during the day at all household chores that don't involve the use of water. If you're the kind made wildly jittery by going to bed with gloves on you should wear them during the day. If you can wear them at night, too, so much the better.

Junior Leagues Expect 400 at Meeting Here

Chicago, Evanston Groups Will Be Hosts.

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGO will be host to about 400 young women of the country from May 17 to 21 when the Association of Junior Leagues of America holds its annual conference here. All of the guests will be domiciled in the homes of the Chicago and Evanston Junior leaguers, for those two branches of the national association will be hosts to their league sisters from California and New York and all the other states of the Union.

The Chicago hostesses will not find their May guests much bother, however, for besides furnishing them with beds and breakfasts and transportation the Chicago and Evanston leaguers will not be called upon to extend any other hospitality. The visitors will be kept busy morning, noon and night attending meetings or parties, and sightseeing, for many of the guests will be visiting Chicago for the first time and their hostesses want them to see as much of the city and suburbs as possible. Miss Marjorie Kimball of the Chicago league and Mrs. Alfred H. Taylor of the Evanston one are co-chairmen of the conference committee, and working with them to make a success of Chicago's first national Junior league meeting are numerous ones of the Chicago league's 500 members and as many of Evanston's 225 members.

Mrs. Carroll W. Alton, president of the Evanston league, and Mr. Alton have been in Palm Beach for two weeks but they will return next Sunday.

Mrs. Arthur W. Rogers, vice-president of the north shore league, and her husband are leaving on March 7 to visit her father, Lucius C. Fuller, in Palm Beach, but they will be back by Easter.

Noon Temperature of 90 Reported at Sun Valley.

The Chicagoans vacationing at Sun Valley in Idaho send back word of noon temperatures of ninety degrees, although frequent light snowstorms continue to add to the more than 30 inches of snow now covering the mountains and valleys. The open air swimming pool, which has been in use ever since Sun Valley opened just before New Year's, is more popular than ever.

The Huntington B. Henrys and their daughter, Miss Annie May, are there, and so are Miss Betty Keith and Miss Jeanette Havens, but the Henrys and Miss Keith are expected in Chicago the end of this week.

Early next month the Stephen Y. Hords, Miss Elizabeth Byron Smith and her sister, Mrs. Morrison Waud, and Mrs. John R. Hurley will join the Chicago colony at the new ski resort. The Laurance Armours plan to go there in April.

"What do you care?" wisecracked Miss Gillmore. "You are not like Lord Nelson, as I recall."

WEDNESDAY Notes from the Tuesday Cuff: It was Arthur Meeker Jr. who found the perfect phrase to describe Claire Dux singing Mozart divinely yesterday afternoon with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. She wore black chiffon, the skirt of her gown scattered with daisies, a fillet of black velvet about her golden head. "She is a message from Mozart," he said. . . . She is singing the soprano solo in Mahler's Fourth Symphony tomorrow night and Friday afternoon with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The text, from "Des Knaben Wunderhorn," a collection of old German songs, is descriptive of the joys of heaven as they might appear to the simple, believing mind, and is not unlike "The Green Pastures." Instead of custard and fried fish, asparagus and venison are extolled. "De Lawd" is not mentioned, but some of his chief of staf are. Mahler apparently was apprehensive lest this poem not be taken in the right spirit, for he cautions, "Without any parodying whatever." With Claire Dux singing it, he need not have worried. . . . JANE BRUCE, organizer for the Chicago Repertory group, was lecturing before the drama class of a private school for girls on the work of the group. She told of the growth of the organization from rehersals in a dingy loft by candlelight to its present eminence with a building of its own. Group members were so interested that they had given up other employment at far greater remuneration to work for the group at only $10 and $15 a week, she said. When she concluded her talk she asked if there were any questions, hoping to have opportunity to explain further the method of acting followed by the Repertory group. A beautifully dressed girl raised her hand.

"Yes?" said Miss Bruce hopefully.

"Can you please tell me," she asked, "how does any one live on $10 or $15 a week?"

Gaumont-British Is Reported Ready to Abandon Production

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—England's oldest and largest film producer, the Gaumont-British Picture Corporation, Ltd., was reported tonight on the verge of abandoning production at its London plant.

The move was stated to have been urged strongly today at a meeting of the board of directors, with Isidore Ostrer, president of the corporation, leading the group.

Ostrer recently threatened that unless the British government took steps to gain for British films a larger share of the American market he would close down the plant.

Good Morning!

It is superbly staged and directed. The plot concerns the adventures of a young captain of the czar's guards who, during a Tartar uprising, is sent to the ruler's brother on the battle front with an important dispatch regarding army maneuvers.

Spies, aware of his mission, communicate with the enemy and he is followed from the start.

He aids a lady in distress [Elizabeth Allan], falls into the toils of a beautiful spy [Margot Grahame], who later repents of what she's done to him and makes reparation, is captured and supposedly blinded. . . .

Events lead up to a dynamic and unexpected finale.

Anton Walbrook as Capt. Strogoff is a fine looking, fiery fellow with sanity, ingenuity, and humor. The leading ladies are glamorous and perfectly cast. Akim Tamiroff is a villain as is a villain, and yet doesn't lay it on too thick. Good cast throughout.

While "Michael Strogoff" is primarily a man's picture, there are plenty of women who will go for it in a big way. I did.

SYNOPSIS.

Adrian Somervell and Diana Lake become engaged when the young scientist learns he is heir to the fortune of his late stepmother, Rose Somervell, owner of the theater, who was Diana's godmother. Until shortly before her death Adrian and she had been estranged. Adrian had lunched with her shortly before her death, with Nicholas Blundell, wealthy bachelor solicitor, who lived in the London flat below Rose. Blundell's secretary, Elsie Dilworth, was madly in love with Adrian, who'd repulsed her. She'd called during the luncheon on business. Blundell is Diana's godfather. She'd always disliked him. An autopsy reveals that Rose was poisoned. Then Diana's actress mother, Margaret Fairlamb, is murdered. Robbery is thought to be the motive. Adrian is arrested. Remnants of the poison, which killed Rose, are found in his pocket. Blundell persuades Diana to move to Rose's flat. He obtains a lawyer for Adrian. Diana sees Elsie Dilworth, who has left Blundell's employ, return and search the premises. Diana hires a private agent, Mortimer Breams. Watching Elsie's lodgings, he sees an East Indian trying to break into the girl's room. Inspector Headcorn, assigned to the investigation of Diana's mother's murder, believes there is a link between the two murders. He discovers a secret stairs between Diana's flat and Blundell's. The East Indian is found dead, apparently a suicide. Diana receives a package of papers from Elsie which she states contains clews to the murder. Then Elsie commits suicide. Lord Limpsfield and Sir Norbury Penge, who Blundell stated were at his home the night Margaret Fairlamb was murdered, are questioned and confirm Blundell's alibi.

INSTALMENT XXXIX.
A SUSPECT CLEARED.

"In the very beginning," said Baynes, slowly, "before I said anything at all, Sir Norbury seemed acutely attentive. When I asked my question about what he had been doing on the stated date he stared very hard at me. He's got good control of his features, but I noticed he started to fiddle with his tie—which, incidentally, is about as perfect a creation as you'll see in a walk down Piccadilly. One hand was doing this while the other laid hold of his diary. Then I saw him change. He went on staring, first at the entry, then at me, but in a different way—all at sea, wondering what the hell I was after. Relieved, I thought—though I may have been wrong."

Headcorn nodded. "Anything more?" he prompted.

"Yes, decidedly. When I declined to put him wise to my object those coalblack eyes of his smoldered. Suspicion, resentment, all mixed up together. He turned curt, with more than a touch of arrogance. I'll lay a fiver he pushes straight off to Blundell to get the explanation. You're prepared for that?"

"O, quite! But you're sure he didn't already know?"

"He knew nothing. His mind was a total blank. If he ruffled up, I'd say it was because he doesn't mean to have his precious reputation smirched by having any one even remotely connected with himself running foul of the law. He's a young man who takes himself seriously."

"Apart from all this, how did he strike you? Live wire, straightforward chap?"

"Both. Good looking and knows it, maybe a spot self-conscious, but plenty of magnetism, too."

"Any one ring him up while you were with him?"

"Not a soul—and I strung my session out as long as possible, in anticipation of a call. Here are the times—12:03 to 12:08."

He had fully expected that the moment his back was turned the newspaper proprietor would have got in touch with Sir Norbury. Did the nonperformance of this act mean that both men anticipated these inquiries and had arranged in advance not to communicate?

"Is it true that Mrs. Somervell was a fairly constant smoker?"

"Nothing of the sort," was the inspector's prompt veto. "I'll swear Baynes and I sprang a couple of complete surprises, which makes it all the stranger for Limpsfield, believing I was on my way to Penge, not to discuss the matter before I got to him. I'd have done so. So would most men. Why the devil didn't he?"

He was more deeply puzzled when, a day later, the men he had stationed at certain telephone exchanges reported an entire absence of calls between the peer and the knight, while those instructed to trail Lord Limpsfield and Sir Norbury declared their respective quarries had not come in contact.

He began to play with the idea that both were being overcautious and to conclude that their twin apprehension must spring from a common source. Still, as that source had manifestly no connection with Blundell, he was forced to shelve it as unrelated to his own particular problem. He had got his answer. Two witnesses, whose names alone carried weight, had independently proved Blundell incapable of being Margaret Fairlamb's murderer—and this they had done not only by their statement but by their involuntary emotions. Of the second crime, then, Blundell stood completely exonerated. If the two murders did hang together it followed automatically that Blundell was cleared of the first murder as well.

Some time had elapsed before Headcorn again called on Diana. He found her looking pinched and white, her gray eyes heavy and encircled, her usually smooth hair clinging in moist rings to her forehead. He noticed, too, how disordered everything was—furniture pulled about, pictures awry, rugs displaced. Over all hung a bluish haze of cigaret smoke.

Diana stared at him in a dazed fashion, brushed her hair back as though she were removing invisible cobwebs, and whispered: "So it's you. . . . What—what have you to tell me this time?"

He put his answer as briefly as possible. It seemed a full minute before her mind grasped its significance. She turned still whiter, clutched at an overthrown chair, and gazed past him into space.

"So he was in his library the whole of that evening?" she muttered. "No doubt of that, I suppose?"

"Lord Limpsfield and Sir Norbury Penge both vouch for it—as well as his servants. I'm afraid there's no chance of upsetting testimony like this."

A curious expression flared in her eyes, died down immediately. He saw her trying, with the fortitude which from the first had commanded his admiration, to readjust herself to this latest, most devastating blow. Days ago he had guessed that she bore her godfather no love, only conscientious gratitude for favors she dared not forgo; that she had sacrificed her independence for one object—Somervell.

Tactfully he righted the chair, at the webbing of which her fingers were blindly picking.

"At it again?" he inquired in a pitying tone. "Here, let me help you to put the place to rights. You won't find anything. All you're doing is to wear yourself out."

"I know. Still, Elsie was searching for something. Maybe," she continued, looking vaguely around, "it was removed before I came here. No, that's stupid, I suppose." She reddened a little with embarrassment. "I'll have to get that notion quite out of my head," she said apologetically. "It was a horrible one—in the circumstances."

Less horrible, though, than the idea which, very soon now, was bound to force itself on her mind. No need to tell her now, through Hull, he had learned that the prisoner, on his own statement, had walked about the city streets for two hours on the night of Margaret Fairlamb's murder, meeting no one he knew, making no encounters which could remove a doubt certain, at this period, to arise. The trail was close upon them—a matter of days. That she was thinking of it now was all-apparent from the fixed look she bestowed on a silver framed calendar she had just restored to its place. With sympathy he watched her hand move mechanically toward a box of cigarets. He struck a match for her, and as he did so noticed an ash tray overflowing with charred stumps.

"By the way," he said musingly, "is it true that Mrs. Somervell was a fairly constant smoker?"

"I believe so. I found some of her cigarets here when I came. They were especial Virginians, quite mild."

Her thoughts strayed. In short, jerky sentences she told him about her session that morning with Sir Kingsley Baxter.

"I know what a marvelous man he is, but why did he pay so little attention to what I wanted to tell him? Almost I'd have said he refused to be interested. Are all big barristers like that?"

Headcorn explained that they were apt, in these cases, to leave all details to their juniors.

"Sir Kingsley's business is to plead—and he's a wizard at the job. You're in the greatest luck to have him on your side."

'Little Digs' Reveal a Sour Temperament

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

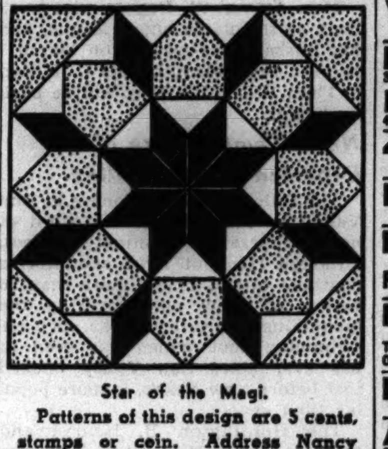
A certain person was under discussion as a most attractive looking young matron and likeable some of the time. Not all of the time, because she has that alienating habit of slipping in a "little dig" every now and then.

You know that "little digger" species as well as any one else. There's one, no doubt, in your own circle. The sort who agrees up to a certain point BUT—. The BUT is followed with the dig.

The "certain person" referred to above is a jealous one, as the "diggers" usually are. Only part of their mind will open up to another's good points. The BUT must be reserved for some petty trait that a bigger person forgets in the face of so many excellent traits.

Some one has said that many a wife has dug her own marital grave with a series of little digs. In the wife it usually is called nagging. But the digs are there just the same, the nasty little barbed shafts that eventually wear down the victim and alienate every bit of affection. The victim, after all, isn't the real victim. It is the one whose tongue can't be curbed in those moments of jealous or bilious passion who suffers in the long run.

Quilt Pattern Is Variation of the Eight Point Star



Star of the Magi.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Star of the Magi" is not an authentic reproduction of the old and original quilt block named "The Star of the Magi," but it is a beautiful and unusual quilt pattern, nevertheless. It is, upon close scrutiny, a variation of the simple eight pointed star. The entire pattern is pieced and the blocks are set together to form an all-over design. Green print, white, and scarlet material form a most interesting color arrangement, and it is especially attractive for an every day coverlet for a young man or a boy's room.

Junior Leagues Expect 400 at Meeting Here

Chicago, Evanston Groups Will Be Hosts.

home yesterday after several weeks at El Mirador, their home in Cold Springs road, Montecito, Santa Barbara, Cal.

Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, has improved greatly in health and is so busy with plans for occupying her new house in Lake Forest and her new apartment in Lake View avenue that she does not intend taking a trip any time soon.

Meekers to Cruise on Copley Yacht.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker both will convalesce from recent illnesses on board Ira Copley's yacht in southern waters. They left last week to join their friends in Havana, and from there will proceed with them through the Panama canal to California.

The Meekers' lovely home in Santa Barbara is rented this winter, so they do not plan to tarry long in California, and probably will return to Chicago in six weeks or two months.

The Ambrose C. Cramers plan a trip when Mr. Cramer's son, Ambrose C. Cramer III., a sophomore at Yale, can join them for his spring vacation the middle of March.

Miss Elise Clow and Miss Nancy Ryerson are arriving at home tomorrow from a three weeks' western trip. They spent some time at Palm Springs and then came home by way of Phoenix, where they stayed at the Jokake Inn for several days. Miss Clow is the Kent Clows' daughter and Miss Ryerson's parents are the junior Edward L. Ryersons, who are planning a European trip for a bit later in the season.

Prince Vurlos Make Stop Here.

Prince and Princess Vurlo of Cap Martin, France, recognized many of their friends among the paintings by Van Dongen that are hanging at the Arts club now when they had tea there Monday with Mrs. Robert Jeffries of Highland Park. Prince and Princess Vurlo were on their way to California.

Princess Vurlo's daughter, Mrs. Sara Tanner Pratt, who has been staying with Mrs. Jeffries, is leaving today for Boston where she will be married on Saturday to Hamilton Ward Bingham. Mr. Bingham and his bride will leave immediately on a five months' world cruise with plans to see her mother and stepfather in California.

Frank Post Nellises Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Post Nellis became the parents of a daughter, their first child, Sunday night at the Evanston hospital. The baby has been named Nadine for her father's sister, Mrs. Howard C. Richardson Jr. The infant is the grandchild of Mrs. Gertrude Post Nellis.

Among the several young men who recently have left Chicago for business reasons is Carl von Ammon, who has been transferred to Cleveland. He will be missed by the Service club this fall, for his work in the last revue was greatly appreciated.

The Ballard Moores, Mr. and Mrs. Press Hodgkins, the Edward Fargos, the young John V. Farwells, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Van Alyea and the Ross Langdons are among those who will have guests tonight at the first Palm Beach party at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Members and guests will meet at the pool, around which 20 foot palm trees will lend a tropical atmosphere. Around 6 and at 7:30 a buffet supper will be served there.

Real Interest in Children Is Constructive

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We were advising you yesterday to give your spoiled child a big dose of wholesome neglect. That means, briefly, to ignore his or her undesirable behavior and also to stop eternally scrutinizing him.

That doesn't mean, however, real neglect. It doesn't mean less attention, only less of the wrong kind of attention—less interest shown in the negative or destructive sort of behavior.

On the other hand, increase your interest in the things your small child does that are worth while. Oddly enough the child who is spoiled rarely has enough of the right sort of interest. He or she may be brought out to recite poetry, or sing songs, or dance for spectators, or have comments made about his big brown eyes or her lovely curls. "Cute" ways may be raved about or cunning sayings repeated.

There may be a surfeit of the wrong kind of attention, but rarely is this spoiled child praised for small duties well done and for thoughtful little services, and rarely is a whole hearted interest shown in his or her play or other activities that are the important business of a child's life. And rarely is the spoiled child provided with the right toys for creative play.

What the spoiled child needs, to run parallel with the wholesome neglect we recommend, is to have a steady and real interest taken in him. He needs a mother who is willing to leave her housework to sit down beside him on the floor and hear what those strange crayon lines or blobs of color mean, what that arrangement of blocks represents, and etc. He needs a mother who will answer his questions thoughtfully, not either be amused at them or perhaps annoyed at their frequency. He needs the kind of mother who is not interested only in doing things for him, but who is interested in his efforts to do things or make things for people of whom he is fond.

A fully written leaflet, "Gifts Children of All Ages Can Make," is sent on receipt of a large, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope with your request.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

Jumper Frock Is Practical

JUNIOR GIRL'S JUMPER DRESS.

If you're under twenty, or if your appearance indicates that you are, no matter what the calendar has to say on the subject, by all means wear this dress! In another year or two you may not be able to get away with it! It's a precious jumper model, not the least of its charms being its practicality. It's a grand frock for school and business wear, since it allows a person to have a wide variety of inexpensive blouses, each of which, teamed up with the jumper skirt, lends the illusion of a brand new frock every time it is worn.

The original of this pretty dress is created in sheer gray woolen in a medium tone. The blouse is navy and white dotted linen. Other colors which will complement gray well are yellow, green, red, black, and combinations of prints. The jumper may be made in any dark shade, of course, and the blouses selected to harmonize. Since so little material is required for any single blouse, and because wash fabrics are so delightfully inexpensive, you should go into a huddle with the sewing machine right now and dash off several blouses to go with the skirt.

Puffed sleeves are an attractive note in contrast to the trimly tailored lines of the skirt top. The collar is the traditional shirtwaist kind, and both sleeves and collar are trimmed with that magical, economical and pretty stuff, rickrack braid.

Style No. 2856 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅛ yards of braid for the blouse. The jumper skirt requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

One explanation for the popularity of big shows featuring glamorous guest stars is that sponsors' wives enjoy meeting celebrities. Whether that is true or not, many a sponsor finds himself climbing aboard an extra fare train—with his family [and auto in the express coach] bound for Hollywood. Soon he is meeting the idols of Hollywood on their home premises. Other stars lure them [at $5,000 a piece] to Chicago and New York studios.

Thomas Atterbury McGinley, Pittsburgh steel magnate, has a new slant on this business. Starting Friday he is to sponsor a musical program featuring guest stars from the music room of his estate at Sewickley Heights, Pittsburgh suburb. So far as we know it is the first instance of a sponsor airing his program from his own home. Mary Pickford went on the air for a good many weeks from Pickfair, her home, but as the star instead of the sponsor. Charles M. Schwab formerly aired programs from his home, but only on a sustaining basis.

First guest in the Sewickley series will be Alexander Gray, baritone. Lois Miller will provide an organ accompaniment on the family Wurlitzer which Mr. McGinley often plays himself. Other guests already lined up are Jane Pickens, a star of the "Follies" showing here now; Rachel Carlay, Carol Deis, Bernice Claire, Senator Fishface, Prof. Figgsbottle, and others. First broadcast is scheduled for 6:45 p. m. Friday over WMAQ. Program is entitled "The House That Jacks Built." Mr. McGinley's company makes giant lifting jacks.

Arch Oboler, author of the macabre "Lights Out" [11:30 tonight on WMAQ] and Eleanor Helfand, University of Chicago co-ed, yesterday admitted they have been married since last week-end. They plan to leave Chicago Friday by motor for a tour of New England. Oboler expects to visit a few haunted houses. After their wedding tour they will live in New York.

William Miller, tenor of Henry Weber's musical revues on W-G-N and soloist of the NBC Contented hour, is hitting the high notes with extra fervor these days. It's a boy, six pounds nine ounces. He has been named Bruce. Only one guess is necessary as to what milk formula is being used to start the future tenor out right.

Jack Benny and his sponsor yesterday confirmed the exclusive report in this column that Benny has been reëngaged for three years in the interest of "six delicious flavors." Mary Livingston was also signed for the same period. The new agreement becomes effective next fall. Starting in June Benny will take a summer vacation.

Bob Crosby, brother of Bing, and his orchestra are to open an engagement at the Congress Casino and over NBC on Friday. Kay Weber is to assist Crosby with the singing.

HOUSE REPORTS NEW VERSION OF NEUTRALITY BILL

Expect Action to Delay Adjournment.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The huge legislative burden facing the 75th congress was augmented today when the house foreign affairs committee reported a neutrality bill in substantially different form than a senate measure having the same objective—keeping the United States out of a foreign war.

The variance between the two bills means that there will be delay in reaching an agreement between the two houses on the final shape of the bill. That means the lengthening of a session which already promises to approach a record.

June Adjournment Unlikely.

Any prospect of an adjournment of the congress by June has been removed, leaders now agree. Speaker Bankhead indicated today his belief that the session will extend into the late summer and the members gave thanks for the fact that a new air conditioning system has been installed at a cost of several millions not only in the legislative halls but in the great office buildings which house the 500 odd statesmen who create our laws.

Inspection of the principal bills and resolutions pending before congress reveals the appalling magnitude of the task before the congress. President Roosevelt is responsible for many of the lawmaking jobs which the people's representatives must sweat over before they will be permitted by the chief executive to go back home.

More Power for President.

The house neutrality bill differs from the senate bill in certain discretionary powers granted the President, and is supposed to represent more completely Mr. Roosevelt's own ideas of what such a measure should contain, inasmuch as the house is at present considered to be more subservient to the executive's wishes.

The "cash and carry" principle—that warring nations must purchase goods in this country for cash and transport it away at their own risk—is embodied in the bill, but instead of the mandatory provisions in the senate version the President is empowered to make certain limitations and exceptions.

The bill permits the President to proclaim it unlawful for any American vessel to carry shipments to belligerent nations.

SPURN SAM'S IDEA TO TAKE JOY FROM CAPITOL ORATORY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Many members of congress agreed today that Representative Sam Hobbs [D., Ala.] was asking altogether too much of them. What Hobbs proposed was a drastic restriction upon the joy of seeing one's own oratory in free, official print.

Declaring there's too much buncombe in the bulky Congressional Record, he suggested it be closed to all extraneous matter, including speeches never made on the floor of either house.

Experts estimated the speech printing privilege he wants to take away cost the government $173,000 last year.

Hobbs didn't stop with proposing to trim the Congressional Record down to something like pocket size. He said congress should stop printing copies of speeches for mailing to constituents.

PREACHER FREED IN THANKSGIVING NIGHT FLOGGING

Whiteville, N. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The state of North Carolina failed today in an effort to connect the Rev. Vance Simmons and his cousin B. Garfield Simmons, with the Thanksgiving night flogging of two Brunswick county farmers.

Recorder Joe Brown acquitted both defendants after hearing Will Inman and Jesse Cox, the victims, testify they could not identify members of the hooded and robed band that lashed them. A long list of witnesses had contradicted prosecution evidence.

HOUR AND WAGE BILLS STUDIED BY ROOSEVELT

Some Time Before Plan Will Go to Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today said the administration's legislation to fix maximum hours, minimum wages and outlaw child labor still was in a study stage.

Not for some time, he said, will proposals be ready for presentation to congress. The President has been discussing his labor program with government officials, business leaders and labor representatives.

Relief Message in Month.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed that he will send his special message on relief needs for the fiscal year, beginning next July 1, to congress late in March. He declined to make any estimate as to the size of the appropriation he will seek.

The President said he hopes to have the needs roughly estimated by the time he leaves for Warm Springs, Ga., about the second week in March. He will work on the message for ten or twelve days in the infantile paralysis resort he founded and have it ready for congress on his return to Washington, he said.

Denies O. K. on Bullitt Speech.

Mr. Roosevelt denied reports from abroad that the speech delivered in Paris last night by American Ambassador William C. Bullitt had been submitted to the White House for approval. He said he never had heard of the speech and did not know its subject matter.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had received a report on the study of European coöperatives which he launched last summer. The report is to be released shortly.

WASHINGTON AWARD GIVEN F. G. COTTRELL, CHEMIST, INVENTOR

The Washington award, conferred annually by the country's five leading engineering societies on some American engineer whose work has contributed to human progress, was given last night to Dr. Frederick G. Cottrell of Washington, D. C., chemist and inventor. The award was made at a dinner of the Western Society of Engineers in the Drake hotel. It was first made to Herbert Hoover in 1919.

Dr. Cottrell has assigned some of his most valuable patents to the Research Corporation of New York and the Research Associates, Inc., of Washington.

Wins His Divorce Because Wife Kicked Him from Bed

Charges that his wife, Beatrice, slapped his face and once kicked him out of bed when she came home at 3 a. m. won a divorce yesterday for Frank Baumgartner, 30 years old, an ambulance driver, of 216 Madison street, Waukegan. The decree was granted by Judge Ralph J. Dady in the Circuit court of Lake county. Mrs. Baumgartner did not contest the suit.

Bridge on Chicago-Florida Route Will Be Open Today

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The Hazleton bridge on highway 41 will be opened to trafic tomorrow, Glenn H. Allen, district highway engineer, said today. The grade approaching the bridge, washed out by the recent flood of White river, has been repaired. The route on which the bridge is situated will now be open all the way from Chicago to Florida.

$200,000 FIRE IN MONTGOMERY WARD FACTORY

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Fire swept the Hummer Manufacturing company plants tonight, causing damage estimated at $200,000. The machinery, building, and assembly plant for gasoline engines were gutted, throwing 500 men out of employment until they can be repaired. The company is a division of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Nebraska 'Mercy Death' Bill Dies in Committee

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 23.—(AP)—By unanimous decision, the miscellaneous subjects committee of the Nebraska legislature today killed a bill to legalize mercy deaths. The committee voted without argument or debate.

ALBERTA ORDERS MORATORIUM ON PRIVATE DEBTS

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A 60 day moratorium on private debts was announced tonight by the Alberta social credit government. It applied to debts contracted before Jan. 1, 1936, with an extensive list of exemptions.

3 Policemen Suspended After One Has a Smashup

Commissioner James P. Allman yesterday suspended Sergt. Edward Hayes and Policeman William Kleinz of the Englewood station and Policeman George W. Jones of the accident prevention bureau for two days. Last Oct. 20 Kleinz's auto was involved in a collision with the car of Henry Dobrocky, 3821 West 64th street, at 71st and Halsted streets. The two other suspended policemen refused to let Dobrocky sign a complaint against Kleinz. Instead Dobrocky was locked upon a charge of reckless driving. He was discharged in court the next day.

BRUINS, 5; AMERICANS, 2

Boston, Mass., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The New York Americans' hopes of gaining a playoff berth received another jolt tonight when they were defeated, 5 to 2, by the Boston Bruins before ten thousand at the Boston Garden.

Joe Jerwa started a disturbance in the second period that delayed the game for 30 minutes. He was trying to hook check in the Boston zone when Bill Cowley's stick landed on his ear. The enraged Jerwa struck Cowley over the head with his stick and protested so strenuously when Referee Bill Stewart gave him a major penalty that he drew an additional 10 minutes' sentence for misconduct. Numerous other arguments broke out as an aftermath of the Jerwa-Cowley incident.

Cowley suffered an inch and a half gash on his skull, but resumed action after it was stitched together. The high stick exchange caused hard feelings and Jack Portland and Happy Emms aggravated matters by engaging in a fist fight, which drew major penalties. Lineups:

POWELL SIGNS $9,000 CONTRACT WITH YANKEES

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The New York Yankees broke the "big five" holdout trust today by signing Outfielder Jake Powell to a $9,000 contract.

Powell was offered $7,500 at first and asked $14,000. He was signed to a $5,000 Washington contract last year. Because of his good work after being traded in midseason to the Yankees he was given a $1,000 bonus.

SUTHERLAND, PITT COACH, DENIES HE WILL RESIGN

Admits Argument with Athletic Director.

"There are a lot of persons," he said, "who seem to know more about the situation than I do. I'd like to tell them not to be too sure I'm going to quit."

Reports were spread in Pittsburgh today that Sutherland would leave the university as the result of differences with W. Don Harrison, athletic director.

Dr. Sutherland here on what he called a good will tour, conceded that the reports were based on a "slight misunderstanding" with Harrison. He asserted, however, that he expected the difficulty to be ironed out at a conference with university officials after his return to Pittsburgh Thursday.

"The trouble started" Sutherland explained, "after the Rose Bowl game when [New Year's day] I gave the players some spending money.

"It was only a slight misunderstanding and not very important now as far as I can see."

BY FRENCH LANE.

At the end of the second furious round of battling in the tenth annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium last night, fighters from Green Bay, Wis., Chicago, Detroit, and Davenport, Ia., had fought their way to the top in the standings and the energeteic survivors immediately launched preparations for the final session of this spectacular three day boxing carnival tonight.

Tonight is the last chance for these young men to qualify for the finals at the Stadium on March 5, where Chicago's intercity team will be named, 1937 champions crowned, and diamond studded Golden Gloves awarded. In addition to the quarter-finals of the Tournament of Champions, championship bouts in Chicago's novice tournament will be held tonight.

Green Bay Surprises.

The boys from Green Bay have made the most remarkable showing thus far. They have won twelve scraps and lost only one. The Detroit representatives were right at the Green Bay lads' heels. They had accounted for ten victories in twelve bouts.

A hard punching team from Davenport won ten fights while losing three. Battlers from Chicago's four sectional districts scored the most victories. They rolled up thirteen victories in the two sessions, but they were beaten in ten others. The Catholic Youth Organization had won twelve and lost twelve when the man at the big organ played taps just before midnight.

| | W. | L. | | W. | L. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Green Bay | 12 | 1 | Fort Wayne | 5 | 6 |
| Detroit | 10 | 2 | Evansville | 5 | 6 |

After tonight's fights the original field of 21,000 boxers who started fighting for the Golden Gloves two months ago will have been narrowed down to 32 of the finest.

There will be fighting in every weight division tonight, starting at 7 o'clock. Eight title fights are scheduled in the novice division.

Knockouts Come Fast.

The rousing drama which has become a fixture in Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions these last ten years was presented to a gathering of 12,675.

Knockouts, and they were thrillers, became as common as an old shoe. Thirty per cent of the 117 battles were decided by sleep producing wallops.

Chicago Takes Lead.

Outstanding lads from Chicago who carried the "Go Chicago" spirit into the battle and helped put the home town at the top of the standings included Cornelius Young, middleweight from the C. Y. O.; Louis Angelucci, from the south side, and Nate Bolden, from the C. Y. O.

Angelucci, eliminated by Danny Farrar in the American Olympic Golden Gloves finals last year, qualified for tonight's quarter-finals by whipping Leonard Moulin, colored battler from Springfield.

Angelucci made the trip here for the Olympic trials as a United States army sergeant, station in Hawaii. He won easily in three rounds. He is

EXPECT FIELD OF SIXTEEN TO RUN IN SANTA ANITA

Rosemont Is Favorite in $100,000 Stake.

Owners have until Friday morning to decide whether to send their chargers out in quest of the largest turf prize in the United States.

Taking this number as a possible list, the handicap field should be easier to handle, and by all racing formulas, less difficult to figure than yesterday's crowded field of twenty-one in the Santa Anita Derby, or the twenty that went to the post in the inaugural Santa Anita handicap two years ago.

Rosemont Is Favorite.

Both of those events, with the Foxcatcher farm's Fairy Hill an unexpected winner yesterday and Azucar, a long shot victor in the 1935 handicap, were tough days on the form pickers.

The coming handicap finds Rosemont, third in the handicap last year, the future book favorite and the public choice by virtue of his victory last week in the San Antonio over a select field of handicap eligibles.

Rosemont shouldered 122 pounds—two less than he will be called upon to carry this Saturday—with apparent ease in trimming a field that included Special Agent, Seabiscuit, Indian Broom, Red Rain, Mr. Bones, and other notables of the turf.

Fast Field to Run.

The San Antonio was a mile and one-eighth race. With Maj. Austin C. Taylor's Special Agent running third, A. A. Baroni's Star Shadow, loomed as a handicap threat in finishing second, pressing Rosemont at the finish.

Star Shadow will have one of the best money riders in the country aboard Saturday in Georgie Woolf, who rode Azucar to win the Santa Anita in 1935.

TINTAGEL WINS 1ST VICTORY.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Marshall Field's Tintagel, winner of the 1935 Belmont Futurity, came through with his first victory of the winter racing season today in accounting for the six furlong Tampico handicap at Hialeah Park. The 4 year old son of Sir Gallahad III. was timed in 1:10, one-fifth of a second off the track record.

Tintagel won by six lengths. Dusty Dawn earned the place by a length from Mucho Gusto. Four lengths farther back came Goldey F.

A BRITON CLAIMS PRIOR RIGHTS TO BAER'S SERVICES

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Alfred Cecil Critchley, London sports promoter, is in town to put some pressure on the state athletic commission and Max Baer tomorrow.

The Britisher, whose greyhound tracks last year netted $1,500,000, with the totalisators registering $150,000,000, will match his contract with Baer for a fight in London on May 6 against Madison Square Garden's contract calling for the ex-champion to launch his comeback against Bob Pastor in the Garden on March 19.

"My agreement with Ancil Hoffman [Baer's manager] was that Baer is not to engage in any fights before May 6, when he will meet the winner of the Ben Foord-Tommy Farr British empire championship fight on March 15," said Critchley. "In fact I've assured him two fights and he'll get $20,000 for each bout plus limited expenses." The second bout will be against the German, Walter Neusel.

YOUNG'S DRIVE TO NEW SCORING RECORD CHECKED

But Purdue Star Retains Big Ten Lead.

The rush of Jewell Young, Purdue forward, toward a new Big Ten individual scoring record was temporarily checked by Minnesota and Michigan guards over the week-end, but the slim Purdue star still retained a lead of 36 points over his closest rival, figures released yesterday showed.

Young was held to three field goals and a free throw, seven points, by Minnesota Saturday and one field goal and three free throws, five points, by Michigan Monday. His total for ten games now is 141 points. To better the record of 167 points which Joe Reiff of Northwestern set in 1932-'33, Young must score 27 points against the Boilermakers' remaining two foes—Indiana and Wisconsin.

Combes Holds Second Place.

Harry Combes, veteran Illinois forward, chipped nine points off Young's lead by totaling 21 points in two games to boost his season's mark to 105 in ten games, 10 points more than Mike McMichael, Northwestern forward who moved from fifth to third place with 25 points in two starts.

Johnny Townsend of Michigan remained in fourth place with 86 points in nine games while Kenny Gunning, Indiana forward, skidded from third to fifth when he made only four points in the 1935-'36 co-champions' only game of the week.

Scoring Pace Reduced.

Purdue, although held to 16 points by Michigan's stout defense Monday, the lowest total a Boilermaker team has scored in some time, nevertheless continued to set the team scoring pace with 399 points in ten games—an average of slightly less than 40 points per game. Minnesota, with 252 scored against it in nine games, clung to best defensive honors, although Michigan was right behind the Gophers. The leaders:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 23.—Dear Wake: Being more of a reader than a writer I hope I will not offend any person in my opinions.

First, I hope the proposed Braddock-Louis match is a flop should it take place, and trust it will be forerunner of the largest boxing slump the United States ever experienced. If we in the United States of America are going to stand by and let a racial boycott enter American sports we do not deserve the freedom that our forefathers provided with their bloodshed. . . .

My thought is that the press over the United States should hold a sports election to determine whether Schmeling should or should not be the man to meet Braddock in the latter's next title contest. I think he earned this right without any question by beating Louis. I am a Scotchman, not a German. Fair Play.

Max Schmeling is entitled to a bout with Jim Braddock. To deprive him of this chance certainly will be a blow to sportsmanship and boxing. Helper Davis' letter in this column recently stated the situation completely. Melvin Grussing.

Why all this mawkish sentiment about Max Schmeling, not even a resident of this country? Schmeling was a lucky champion when champion. He won the title on an alleged foul which the referee, one of two judges, and most of the pressmen present did not see.

From time immemorial custom dictates that champions have something to say about their opponents. Braddock prefers Joe Louis because the bout will draw a greater crowd.

We need not fear that champions will choose set-ups as rivals. Public sentiment soon would end drawing power if that kind of cowardice ever existed. Pro-Braddock.

Permanency.

Please tell me, if you can or dare,
Why that which decks milady's hair,
And often needs expert repair,
Is called a "permanent" wave.

How would it sound if man should say,
When viewing his chin, o'ergrown with hay,
"Wahl, I'll be switched ef 'tain't the day Fer 'nuther permanint shave?"
G. W. R.

The Good Side.

Along in the late '80s or early '90s John L. Sullivan had a go down in Roby, Ind., with some dub he knocked out in the first round, and then came back to Chicago with his crowd. They came in on the Lake Shore road and walked up Clark street to John L.'s hotel.

At the post office corner of Clark and Adams an old beggar woman sat on a soap box holding out a little tin dipper to passersby. Sullivan stopped, went down into his jeans, and spilled a handful of $5 gold pieces into her dipper. The old woman sighted them and fell off her box. Sullivan helped her up. She planted them and hobbled down Clark toward the slums. I saw this myself.

AND THE OTHER SIDE.

Once John L. and his party were on the Northern Pacific going west. A "brakey" came through the train and Sullivan began to kid him and the brakey gave him some sass. Sullivan jumped up to hand him one and found himself looking into an old .45 as the brakey said, "Sit back there in your seat, you big stiff, or I'll put a button hole through you already stitched. You're out in the Yellowstone now where all men look alike and if you slap any waiter girls out here you'll go back to Boston in a wooden overcoat."

Sullivan sat down as the brakey kept him covered, backing out of the car. But the brakey didn't go into the car again. F. L. Whitcomb.

Hyde Park at Parker.
Fenger at Englewood.

With George Harrison, forward, scoring 16 points on six field goals and four free throws, the Amundsen juniors whipped Roosevelt, 32 to 28, yesterday to hand the Roosevelt quintet the first defeat is has suffered in two years on its own floor. The triumph gave Amundsen third place in the north section with a record of seven victories and two defeats.

Harrison's scoring activities against Roosevelt boosted his total for nine games to 169, a new league record. The Amundsen star averaged almost 19 points per game.

Lane, Von Steuben Win.

The Lane and Von Steuben juniors yesterday finished their north section schedules undefeated, the former beating Steinmetz, 27 to 16, and Von Steuben routing Waller, 37 to 18. It was the ninth straight victory for each.

Since both qualified for the championship playoff, they will probably toss a coin to see which is to be officially credited with the section title. In their only meeting, Lane and Von Steuben played a tie.

Manley Beats Harrison.

In the opening playoff game of the three way tie in the central section, Manley defeated Harrison, 25 to 15, to gain first place in the section and qualify for the title series. Harrison will meet Farragut in the other game, the winner to qualify for the championship playoffs.

Tournament of Champions Ends Tonight

representing the 124th Field Artillery armory.

John Hawthorne, champion from the C. Y. O., who had many followers, was disqualified when he accidentally hit Vernon Tansil, Nashville, Tenn., low in a light heavyweight bout. Hawthorne was ahead on points when the low blow landed.

Hartnek Is Impressive.

Among the outstanding heavyweights was Paul Hartnek of the Omaha World-Herald team, who was the defending Golden Gloves champion.

The Creighton university football player had been outpointed by Carl Vinciquerra, a football teammate, in the Omaha finals. Vinciquerra, a trifle shy in his grades, could not make the trip to Chicago. Hartnek was substituted for him. He responded with his greatest Golden Gloves showing.

His first victim was Jimmy Clanton, giant colored battler from the Bowman Athletic club of Chicago. Hartnek could have finished him, but was so far out in front that he took it easy in the last round. His margin of victory still was a wide one.

Cuts Down Big Boy.

Later on Hartnek met Herman Smith, 222 pounder from the Quincy Herald-Whig team. Big Herman was the gamest fellow a Stadium crowd ever gazed upon. He also could fight, but he was no match for the slashing, hard punching Hartnek. Hartnek had Herman all but out when the final bell sounded.

Bob Dennis, Detroit heavyweight, also made a fine showing when he knocked out Bill Lewis, pride and joy of George Trafton's gymnasium.

Until he ran into the Detroit buzz saw Lewis had appeared to be the best heavyweight in Chicago's amateur ranks. He didn't look at all good when Mr. Trafton, the big gymnasium man, loaded him into a cart and wheeled him back to the Randolph street muscle factory last night. Dennis had put him out with a mighty right in the second round.

They Fall Fast.

Frank Nelson, middleweight from the Davenport, Ia., Times team, was another lad to catch on with the gallery gods. He knocked out Leslie Cochran of Kenosha, Wis., in the first round. His first punch did the business. Later on he whipped Leroy Brown, clown of the Cleveland Plaindealer team, in three rounds.

Ivan Green another Davenport fellow made an instantaneous hit with the boys in the top gallery. He knocked out Joe Gilles of Wisconsin Rapids, in one round and later on in the evening he whipped Clarence Underwood, the collegian from Huntington, W. Va., in 3 rounds.

From Bloomington, Ill., came another mighty heavyweight. He was Al Boschert, laborer, who had knocked out a half dozen college athletes before he won his title at Bloomington. A short left and right to the chin made it possible for him to knock out Warren Pumphrey of Joliet, in the third round.

So it went all night long. There was a thrill a second.

AQUATIC SHOW TO BE HELD AT LAKE SHORE A. C.

Swimming and diving stars of the Lake Shore Athletic club team will make their first home exhibition appearance of the 1937 indoor season tonight as a feature of the opening "Palm Beach Night" series to be held in the club swimming pool each Wednesday for several weeks.

Among the Lake Shore aquatic stars who will participate are Al Greene, member of the 1936 Olympic team; Marion Mansfield, national A. A. U. lowboard diving champion, and Arlite Smith, one of the country's youngest and most promising springboard stars. The Lake Shore water ballet will also perform.

The Lake Shore pool has been transformed into a replica of the tropics for the event.

Elkhart Quintet Wins Northern Indiana Title

Louis to Give Trophy for Sportsmanship

Coaches Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, Clark Shaughnessy, Chicago, and George Halas, Chicago Bears. Paul Thompson, Blackhawk forward, and his teammate, Marty Burke, cheered the fighters in the name of hocky.

Waldorf was accompanied by Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern line coach, and Ted Payseur, golf coach.

J. Arthur Haley, business manager of athletics at Notre Dame, was also present. So were Athletic Directors Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern, and Wendell Wilson, Illinois.

Welterweight, middleweights, light heavyweights, and heavyweights passed before the corps of physicians and clerks from noon until 2 p. m. When the deadline was passed it was announced that of the 192 cheduled to fight last night only one—Walter Schramm, Gary heavyweight—was among the missing. Mickey Patrick, professional light heavyweight boxer, who is coach of the team from Gary, said Schramm didn't show up because of illness.

Not one of last night's group was rejected by the doctors and only Owen Davis, welterweight representing the Evansville Courier Journal came in overweight. He made three trips to the steamroom, adjacent to the dressing rooms in the Stadium basement, before reducing to the required 147 pounds.

The heaviest candidate in the Tournament of Champions was Roy Turner, stocky Vincennes Sun Commercial standard bearer. Turner tipped the beams at 250 pounds. He was knocked out by Alex Kettles of South Bend, Ind., in his second fight. The smallest heavyweight was Gilus Lowe, Lafayette Journal Courier. Gilus, who is employed as a helper on his father's farm at Ambia, Ind., weighed in at 184 pounds. Lowe won his first bout.

Other boxers who scaled more than 200 pounds include Babe Ritchie, Fort Worth Star Telegram, 225; and Herman Smith, Quincy Herald Whig, 222.

LYN LIKES IT

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Lyn Lary, shortstop traded by the St. Louis Browns to the Cleveland Indians, signed his new contract today. Lary had expressed dissatisfaction with the terms originally offered him. He said the contract he signed called for a raise over the original figure, but the amount was not made public.

Mrs. Jarrett Signs to Swim for $30,000

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Eleanor Holm Jarrett, who acquired fame by rocking the Olympic boat last summer, added the fortune today by signing a $30,000 contract to appear in the Great Lakes exposition show in Cleveland this summer.

Eleanor Holm Jarrett.

This move ended the weary wrangle over her amateur standing. Mrs. Jarrett, dropped from the Olympic team for breaking training rules, was subsequently barred from amateur European competition by the Amateur Athletic union. This suspension was vaguely maintained when she returned to this country.

"I'd have given up this offer in a minute if the A. A. U. had voluntarily reinstated me," Mrs. Jarrett said, "but I know they won't. If I'd apply for reinstatement, it would just mean slinging that Olympic mud all over again. I don't want to do that. Life's too short.

"I've had all kinds of offers, thanks to Avery Brundage and the other A. A. U. officials, and I've turned them all down, but I read in the papers the other day that even the metropolitan district committeemen are against me, so I decided to cash in."

BEG YOUR PARDON

The name of Harvey C. Markley, 5227 Hutchinson street, was misspelled in an item on Monday that told of his qualifying as an expert in the junior division of the National Rifle association.

DOCTOR BREAKS WORLD MARK IN OUTBOARD RACE

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Dr. R. H. Herman of Cincinnati broke the world record for class 225 hydroplanes today in the Palm Beach Yacht club's races, which were held over a choppy course.

Dr. Herman shot the Imp III., owned by E. B. Weeks of Des Moines, over the five mile route at an average speed of 58.747 miles an hour to better the record of 57.877 miles an hour Philip Geis of Greenwich, Conn., established with La Cucaracha at Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 22, 1936.

Another sweep was made by Forest Johnson of Miami in John Charles Thomas' class E runabout Myne Too. He won all three heats ahead of Mrs. Jack Rutherford of Palm Beach in Imp, which set two records last season. Marshall Eldredge of East Weymouth, Mass., dean of outboard pilots, drove the blue speedsters he builds himself home ahead in the class B and C races, took second in class F, and fourth in class A. The latter event went to Gar Wood Jr., 18 year old son of the speedboat racer, and only amateur driver competing.

Hawks Battle Great Detroit Six Tomorrow

The last scheduled game of the season between the Blackhawks and the world champion Detroit Red Wings, which will be played tomorrow night at the Stadium, has started hocky fans speculating on the Wings' chances of retaining the Stanley cup, a feat that has been performed by only one other National Hocky league club in modern times.

It's Another Story.

Jack Adams, Detroit manager, will have in his opening lineup tomorrow night a sextet that has been selected by many hocky experts as the most proficient in all departments of the game.

Last season the Detroit team eliminated the Montreal Maroons, who were in possession of the Stanley cup, from further cup competition in three straight games and Normie Smith, by allowing only one goal in the three, entered hocky's hall of fame as one of the greatest money keepers of all time. At present he is leading for the league's annual goal tenders' award, the Vezina trophy.

Goodfellow Is Leader.

Ebbie Goodfellow is leading all defense players in points, just as he did last season, and the forward line of Aurie, Barry, and Lewis are running 1, 2, 3 in the American section's scoring list, with the first two leading all others in both sections.

The Wings and the Hawks have battled seven times this season. The champions have won 4 and the Hawks 2. The other was a tie.

COLLEGE WRESTLING.

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Bond market equilibrium was upset today as buyers withdrew bids in nearly all sections of the market because of reiterated warnings a speculative collapse might come in the wake of the current scramble for base metals for armament purposes.

Signs of another wave of labor troubles in various industrial quarters and announcement that representatives of the 16 "nonoperating" railway brotherhoods would ask for a 20 per cent wage increase also tended to discourage buying interest.

Some Sharp Losses Shown.

Prices of some speculative issues were forced down from 5 to 11 points. Medium priced rails gave up fractions to around 2 points and some of the low yield issues retreated as much as a point. Transactions totaled $13,361,000, par value, aganist $17,484,000 Friday.

U. S. governments moved lower except for one or two treasuries which improved 1-32ds to 2-32ds point. Losses ranged from 1-32ds to 9-32ds.

Several Issues Decline.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Armour & Co.

Investors' Guide: Please give me what information you can on the financial standing of Armour & Co.—R. D.

Answer: Armour & Co. is the second largest meat packing organization in the world. In addition to operations in the United States, it has extensive interests in South America which are operated through Armour & Co. of Delaware, wholly owned subsidiary which also has operations in the United States. Plants in Brazil and Argentina ship to Europe and Great Britain.

In addition to meat packing, business includes distribution of butter, cheese, eggs, and poultry. By-products are used in the making of fertilizer, lether, glycerine, soaps, glue, ammonia, and sandpaper.

Because operations of packers depend heavily on volume, profits have suffered from curtailment of live stock supplies on farms in recent years. Rising meat prices ordinarily do not affect small profit per dollar of sales.

Net income in the year ended Oct. 31, 1936, rose moderately to $10,184,000, or 74 cents per common share, from $9,349,000, or 53 cents a share, the preceding year. Sales of $748,935,000 were 9.7 per cent more than in the 1935 year and were the best since the $900,000,000 in 1930. Tonnage handled was 10.8 per cent larger than in 1935.

Net income was $10,560,000 in 1934 and $8,850,000 in 1933.

A program of expansion of plant facilities in various parts of the country, with accompanying decentralization of operations, has been pursued in the last two years. Company officials expect this to increase efficiency.

Capitalization consists of 4,065,940 shares of $5 par common, 38,733 shares of 7 per cent preferred, and 532,970 shares of $6 dividend prior preferred stock. In addition there are 570,799 shares of 7 per cent preferred of Armour of Delaware which is guaranteed by the Illinois [parent] company.

Dividend arrears on the preferred stock not exchanged for prior preferred and common under the plan of recapitalization adopted in 1934 were paid Jan. 15, 1937, and directors declared a dividend of 15 cents a share on the common, payable March 15 to stockholders of record Feb. 25. It is the first common dividend since 1926

The common still should be considered speculative, however. The preferred stocks are medium grade, except the Delaware preferred, which deserves a fairly good rating.

Everyday Economics

In response to requests from readers for simple explanations of financial terms and brief analyses of factors affecting business and finance, THE TRIBUNE presents "Everyday Economics." Read it daily in these columns and write to "Editor, Everyday Economics," telling him what you would like to see discussed here.

Why a Bullish Tax?

"Why does every one regard the recently enacted federal tax on surplus earnings of corporations a bullish influence on stocks?" an inquirer asks. "It seems to me that it would have the opposite effect."

"Doesn't the payment by a corporation of additional dividends to escape the tax reduce the value of the assets owned by the stockholders? Also is it not true that the directors in paying out dividends to escape the tax penalty may be doing so against their own opinions as to what would be best for the company in the long run?

"Wouldn't the money in the long run serve the interests of the stockholders best, in many cases, if the directors were permitted to retain it in the business to expand and remodel plants and equipment or extend operations?"

Many business men have asked themselves this same question. It would seem logical to believe that a tax which forces the management of a corporation to do something which is contrary to its desired course of action would be considered a depressing influence. Also, the distribution of a dividend reduces the value of the corporation's assets by exactly the amount of the dividend.

Logic, however, has little to do with public reaction to a development affecting the stock market. The manner in which stocks bounded upward in 1928 and 1929 on the news of declaration of stock dividends is evidence of this fact.

The answer seems to be that when money is being passed around more freely people feel better and when they feel better they appraise the value of a stock with a more optimistic eye. To most stockholders a dividend is a dividend no matter what it may do to the welfare of the corporation itself. The dividend payment, being a simple transfer of funds, is understood. The corporation, being complex, is not. And whether any development in business is "bullish" or not depends entirely on whether most people think it is.

ONE DISSENTER UPSETS CHICAGO CORP. MEETING

Glore Assailed for 'Notoriety.'

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Thomas B. Whittlesey, an insurance broker at 175 West Jackson boulevard, kept the annual stockholders' meeting of the Chicago corporation in a turmoil yesterday by directing a running fire of criticism at the management of the company, the largest investment trust in the middle west.

Charles F. Glore. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Whittlesey, who objected to the reëlection of Charles F. Glore, president of the corporation, as a director, on the ground that Glore has been getting "too much newspaper notoriety," commented that the corporation has not profited as much as it should because it has been selling shares of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company on a rising market. He also objected to the inclusion of what he called "lemons" in the corporation's portfolio.

Directors Reëlected.

Glore took the comments of Whittlesey and other stockholders who had objections, with good nature. At the conclusion of Whittlesey's outburst, stockholders unanimously reëlected Glore and the other directors of the board—the only business scheduled for the meeting.

"I object to the election of Glore as a director," Whittlesey said. "He has been getting a lot of notoriety in the newspapers. I think he hasn't been dignified enough for the position. We kicked the Reynolds out and we ought to kick any others out we don't want. I don't see why we should whitewash the directors."

Decorated Eye Recalled.

Whittlesey did not explain his remarks on "notoriety in the newspapers" but it was thought he referred to a story last January about a punch in the eye which Glore received from David O. Selznick, movie magnate, at the fashionable winter resort at Sun Valley, Idaho. A tailors' association recently named Glore along with President Roosevelt as being one of the "sixteen best dressed men."

Glore answered repeated requests from stockholders as to the possibility of dividends being paid on the common stock by saying that if the corporation makes as much this year as it did last on the sale of securities it would face the prospect of paying out a large amount in federal surtaxes on undistributed earnings and in this event it would prefer to pay a dividend to common stock holders. He estimated that on a basis of last year's profit such a payment would amount to about $1 a share.

Preferred Dividend Covered.

Glore said that the company's income from dividends and interest on securities held is just about enough to pay the dividends on the preferred.

Answering criticism that the company had lost money by selling shares of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Glore said that it had ridden the Continental Illinois stock down to $19 a share and officers deemed it advisable to sell part of the holdings as the price of the stock advanced. He said the company now owns about 27,000 shares of Continental stock, the largest single stock interest in the bank with the exception of the block of preferred held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

A woman stockholder demanded that Glore tell the salaries being paid leading officers. When he started to give the salaries in a lump sum she was applauded loudly when she objected.

Officers' Salaries Disclosed.

Glore then announced the following annual salaries: His own, $20,000; Richard Wagner, vice president, $18,000; Gardiner Symonds, vice president, $12,000; Frank H. Hinrichs, secretary-treasurer, $7,312, and Richard K. Cartlidge, assistant secretary treasurer, $5,416.

Glore disclosed after the meeting that a block of 471,455 shares of Chicago corporation stock which is held by the Blue Ridge corporation, eastern investment trust, may be offered for sale to the public by a group headed by Paul H. Davis & Co., F. A. Brewer & Co., Alfred L. Baker & Co., and Kalman & Co. Chicago corporation owns a minority interest in Blue Ridge.

'L' Lines Have Big Loss, Due to Transfers

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] incurred a larger deficit in 1936 than in the preceding year, although it carried more passengers and collected more revenue, stockholders were informed yesterday at the annual meeting.

B. J. Fallon, president, said the increased expense of carrying passengers who transferred from the street car and bus lines was responsible for the larger operating deficit. The "L," he said, has not received revenue sufficient to offset the added expense.

How the fares collected from transfer passengers will be divided has been a matter of dispute between the various local transportation systems.

Division of Fares Pending.

The controversy is now pending before the Illinois commerce commission. The universal transfer privilege was instituted late in 1935 at the commission's order.

Fallon said the "L" received an average fare of only 4.3 cents from the 35,590,649 transfer passengers carried in 1936. This was not enough to pay the cost of carrying the passengers, he said. Each additional cent of fare which the commission may allot to the "L" will mean an additional $360,000 in revenue on the total passengers carried last year.

Total passengers carried on the "L" last year were 149,876,484, including transfers, an increase of 18,455,896, or 14 per cent, over 1935. Total revenues, including nonoperating income, were $13,196,557, against $12,979,691 in 1935.

Reports Larger Deficit.

After operating expenses the company had a deficit of $4,708 before any provision for retirement or interest on funded debt. In 1935 there was a balance of $349,482 available for these charges. After interest and retirement charges the net loss for 1936 was $3,240,175, compared with the 1935 net loss of $2,910,527.

Fallon told the stockholders he believed that the company's properties are not overvalued, but that they have not produced to their full earning capacity. The properties are carried on the books at 101 million dollars. Funded debt is 65 millions and stock outstanding aggregates 26 millions.

Fallon expressed the opinion that a merger of the Chicago local traction systems will be worked out "some time." Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson tomorrow will conduct a hearing on the appointment of permanent trustees under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act. The company brought reorganization proceedings under the act a month ago.

Mr. Quinn "Has a Plan."

Color and sound were added to the meeting by Patrick J. Quinn, an ex-policeman, who told the stockholders that if he were running the company he would "add at least $50,000 a year to the revenues." He then hastened to say that he could not be drafted for the job. Nobody had mentioned Quinn for the job but he was just playing safe.

Quinn has another plan which he hopes stockholders will follow. He urged that they join in a "sitdown strike" in the courtroom of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson before whom the 77-B reorganization of the company is pending. By this means Quinn believes the stockholders will be assured of getting a slice of securities in the reorganized company.

Incidentally, Quinn's plan for increasing the revenues of the company calls for a reduction in the number of light bulbs used in the "L" stations. The only reason the company is so extravagant in its use of light, he said, is because the Commonwealth Edison company holds 60 per cent of its common stock.

MEMBER BANKS' BUSINESS LOANS CONTINUE CLIMB

Commercial loans of member banks of the federal reserve system increased 13 million dollars in the week ended Feb. 17, continuing the upward trend that has been in progress for several weeks, weekly statistics of the federal reserve board disclosed yesterday. Commercial loans outstanding at the end of the week were 849 million over the total a year ago.

Bank holdings of government securities continued the decline that has long been under way. There was a decrease for the week ended Feb. 17 to 14 millions in direct obligations of the federal government and a de-17 of 14 millions in direct obligations fully guaranteed by the federal government.

Comparisons of assets and liabilities follow, in thousands of dollars:

PUBLIC SERVICE, EDISON PROFITS RISE IN JANUARY

25 Million Planned for Expansion.

James Simpson, chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company and Public Service company of Northern Illinois, yesterday reported increased January earnings for both concerns at their annual meetings here. He also announced that Edison will spend $20,000,000 for new facilities in 1937, compared with previous estimates of $12,800,000.

At the Edison meeting Simpson said the company earned $1,802,391 or $1.12 a common share in January, compared with $1,078,214 or 67 cents a share in the same month of 1936. Operating revenues totaled $7,752,901, against $7,509,307.

Big Customers Buy More.

He said income from residential customers declined because of rate reductions but that continued heavy demand from large light and power customers boosted the total income, which was further increased by dividends of $234,000 from stock holdings in Public Service and Illinois Northern Utilities company. Nullification of the Illinois utilities sales tax reduced total provisions for state and local taxes in January by $152,000, he added.

Public Service had net income of $550,893 in January, equal to 71 cents a share on common stock, against $409,680 or 52 cents a share in January, 1936. Of the increase, $43,000 or 7 cents a share was due to the fact that nothing was set aside in January for the 3 per cent Illinois utility sales tax, declared unconstitutional last Feb. 12. Gross earnings were $3,680,533, against $3,481,901.

Big Expansion Planned.

Concerning the 20 million dollars to be spent by Edison, Simpson said that 16 millions would be used on the expansion of plant and system to serve new and additional business, and that about 4 millions would be supplied to the Chicago District Electric Generating corporation, a subsidiary, for expanding the generating facilities in its State Line station. Most of the output of this station is taken by Edison, and the new generating equipment is expected to increase the capacity by nearly 8 per cent.

Public Service plans to spend $4,500,000 in 1937 for extensions and additions against $3,846,376 in 1936.

"We have every reason to expect a continuing need for new capital to keep abreast of demands for electric service and the development in the art of generating and distributing electricity," Simpson said.

Seek Lower Cost Financing.

"The anticipation of this need was one of the primary purposes of the recently announced plan to merge the financial structures of Edison Public Service, Illinois Northern, and Western United Gas and Electric company. Successful consummation should enable the company to finance future expansions of plant and system at a lower cost."

At the meeting of Public Service stockholders, unanimous approval was given for issuance of a new series of $80,000,000 in bonds to refund higher rate mortgage debt at an opportune time, according to terms to be set by directors. This refunding may be carried out whether or not 31 millions of mortgage debt is retired, as contemplated if the exchange plan for Edison stock goes through, Simpson said.

Stockholders of both companies reëlected present directors.

POWER COMPANY WINS POINT IN FIGHT WITH PWA

Rock Hill, S. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Federal Judge J. Lyles Glenn today upheld the right of the Duke Power company to attempt to show at an injunction hearing here that the proposed Buzzard Roost power project is a government attempt to do indirectly what it cannot do directly—force electricity rate reductions.

He overruled objections by counsel for Greenwood county and the Public Works administration, which plans a $2,852,000 hydroelectric plant to be built through a PWA loan and grant and operated by the county.

Gas Dividend Hinging on Rates, Taxes

Directors of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company must give serious weight to increased rates and proposed new taxes before they can determine a dividend policy, George A. Ranney, chairman, said at the annual meeting yesterday. He hinted that favorable action may be taken before the end of the year. No dividends have been paid on the capital stock since $1 a share was distributed in 1933.

George A. Ranney.

"I firmly believe in the justice of our claim for an increase in rates," Ranney said, pointing out that the company's claim for higher rates is now pending before the Illinois Supreme court and the state commerce commission.

Assails Boost in Taxes.

He assailed the present and proposed taxes placed upon the company, saying:

"Our total tax provision for 1936 [amounting to $3,623,459] exceeds the gross revenue for January, the largest month's revenue of the year. Expressed in another way, our taxes amount to nearly $10,000 for every day in the year, including Sunday, the day of rest."

He said that 1937 taxes under the social security act will exceed last year's by approximately $147,000, and that the company also will have to pay federal income taxes, both normal and surtax. Social security taxes will eventually cost the company $500,000 a year, Ranney said.

Expects New Utility Measure.

There is no doubt but that a new public utility tax bill will be introduced in the state legislature, replacing the act declared unconstitutional on Feb. 12, and that the company will have to pay the utilities sales tax again very soon, he asserted.

Directors were reëlected.

WALGREEN FILES TWO LARGE STOCK ISSUES WITH SEC

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Walgreen company of Chicago filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission today covering 100,000 shares of $100 par value 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock, with common stock purchase warrants attached. It covered also 100,000 shares of no par value common stock to be reserved for issuance upon exercise of the warrants.

The statement said about $4,614,581 of the net proceeds would be used to redeem at $113 a share the company's 6½ per cent cumulative preferred stock. The balance will be applied to working capital.

Estimate 25 Million Profit from Long Distance Phones

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The "long lines" department of the American Telephone and Telegraph company should earn a net revenue in 1937 of $25,186,000, Magnus Anderson, an accountant for the federal communications commission, testified today during a hearing in the investigation of the affairs of the utility. Anderson said he had taken into consideration a cut of $12,000,000 for the year in the long line rates which went into effect Jan. 15.

BOOST ASSESSMENTS ON CAPITAL STOCKS OF DOWNTOWN BANKS

County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday that the 1936 capital stock assessment against the five largest downtown banks will amount to $16,443,500, an increase of $1,943,500 over 1935, because of improved economic conditions. The assessment is derived by applying the 37 per cent equalizing factor to 60 per cent of the full value.

The assessment against all forty-five city banks is not yet completed, but will probably total more than the $17,400,195 stock assessment of 1935, Clark said. Outside the city limits the stock assessment on the thiry-two county banks for 1936 is $326,400, against $341,200 for 1935.

| | 1936. | 1935. |

COURT TO PROBE UTILITIES POWER CONTROL BATTLE

A third investigation into the affairs of the Utilities Power and Light corporation was announced yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly. He said that he would appoint an independent investigator next Friday to make the inquiry. Separate investigations of the company are now being made by United States District Attorney Igoe and the Securities and Exchange commission.

Reorganization proceedings for the company under section 77 B of the bankruptcy act are pending before Judge Holly. The court's decision to conduct its own inquiry is the outgrowth of charges and counter charges by the various contending groups in the reorganization.

The fight was precipitated last year when Floyd B. Odlum, New York capitalist, forced Harley L. Clarke, founder of the company, to resign as president, although he still is a director.

"This has become a private quarrel between Mr. Clarke and Mr. Odlum," Judge Holly said. "Certain charges have been made that merit an independent investigation for the interest of all concerned, including the stockholders and creditors of the company."

PROFITS, ASSETS OF LUMBERMENS MUTUAL HIGHER

Lumbermens Mutual Casualty company, Chicago, showed sharp gains in earnings and assets, according to the annual statement issued yesterday by James S. Kemper, president.

Earnings reached a new high at $5,248,372, a gain of $1,244,934 over the $4,003,438 for the preceding year. Assets increased $4,018,905 to $26,630,204. After returning $3,362,835 to policyholders in cash dividends, the largest payment since organization, the company's net surplus showed a gain of $512,333, totaling $3,594,766.

At the close of the year the company held cash and United States government bonds of $13,546,702, or approximately 51 per cent of total admitted assets.

STOCKS PLUNGE ON BRITISH HINT TO CHECK BOOM

New Labor Trouble Also Is Feared.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—Bearish interests trained their heavy artillery on the stock market today and their accurate shots riddled the list with losses running from 1 to 4 points. Closing prices were just a shade above the worst of the day.

Not even early strength in the metals could change the direction of the market as traders disposed of steels, motors, oils, and rails in lively fashion. Total transactions amounted to about 2,868,000 shares.

Although basic metal shares were up fractions to 3 points at one time, only a scattered few were able to show any advantage at the close. Practically every section of the market lost ground. Out of the total of 967 issues that appeared on the tape, 730 finished lower, 107 advanced, and 130 showed no change.

British Moves Depress Market.

Great Britain's hint that she may take measures to halt the boom in metal prices and advices that the British treasury had requested insurance and investment trust companies not to make further investments in the United States were viewed by observers as bearish developments. In addition, traders appeared to be watching the labor situation anxiously, especially as concerns Chrysler and the steel industry.

Initial weakness in Chrysler, based on reports that the corporation was next in line for a drive by labor for higher wages, saw the stock dip more than 4 points. Selling orders were piled so high at the opening that the specialist had to call in a little help and it was not until 30 minutes after the opening that the first quotation appeared. General Motors lost a point in sympathy.

Steel Goup Is Target.

Although an operating rate of 82½ per cent was forecast for this week, steel issues were a vulnerable target for the bears. Losses in U. S. Steel and Bethlehem amounted to more than 3 points in each instance, while sizable deficits were posted by Midland, Youngstown, Crucible, Republic, Gulf States, and Ludlum.

Volume was heaviest in low priced metal shares like American Zinc, Mother Lode, and Callahan Zinc. Copper issues also were turned over heavily, but most early advances were converted into losses.

Setbacks in silver issues ran to more than two points.

Rails Sag on Wage Move.

Indications that railway employés will seek higher wages was blamed in part for the recession of the carrier section, where losses ran to 5 points.

Boeing established a new top in aviation, but Douglas tumbled 4½ points. Oils and rubbers dropped and the mail orders followed the trend, along with building shares, farm implements, and equipments.

VIEW ROOSEVELT BEHIND BRITISH CURB ON STOCKS

LONDON, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The informal advice which the British government is said to have given insurance and investment companies to curtail their American investments is linked by some observers to the recent visit to the White House of Walter Runciman, president of the British Board of Trade.

The treasury's step, it is said, may be in response to a hint from President Roosevelt, who has instructed the reserve board and the Securities and Exchange commission to study means of checking the influx of "hot money" from abroad.

The British government, however, has had a similar policy for many months. It has endeavored to curtail investments in the United States to avoid pressure on the pound in the exchange market and to keep capital for home development.

There is believed to be nothing in the government attitude which should encourage British investors to sell out their present American investments.

Officials Cool to Armor Mill Plan for Navy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—Brain truster proposals that the navy department reopen the wartime armor plant at South Charleston, W. Va., to enable the navy to proceed with its building program, were coolly received by the navy high command today.

Navy officials recalled that during the war the government spent $22,375,278 on the Charleston plant and never got a piece of armor plate to show for it. Further expenditure of $4,000,000, it was said, would be necessary to put the plant in condition to turn out armor plate.

Wait Termed Too Long.

Naval ordnance experts estimated it would take three years to recondition the plant so that it could turn out armor. If the navy has to wait upon the plant for its armor, a high officer said, it might just as well abandon its program to build up to the maximum allowances of the expired limitation treaties.

The steel shortage in the navy has been brought about by the Walsh-Healy act which provides that contractors who obtain federal contracts in excess of $10,000 must meet the wage and hour provisions of the defunct NRA. Because of these provisions steel companies refused to bid on a contract calling for 25,000,000 pounds of steel for ships to be built in navy yards.

The steel companies refused to come within a 40 hour week and pay workers overtime for 4 of the 44 hours their employés normally work. As a result only 7 million pounds were offered in response to navy bids. The scarcity of steel is threatening to tie up navy shipbuilding within a few weeks.

Put Up to Labor Bureau.

The task of getting the steel was turned over to the labor department by the navy because the problem involved labor relations. One of the first suggestions of the department's brain trusters was that the navy reopen the wartime armory or hold the threat of reopening the plant over the heads of the steel industry.

The emptiness of the threat was shown today in navy records. The plant turned out a few guns and shells after it was completed, but never turned out a piece of armor plate. It was closed Feb. 8, 1922, and has cost about $83,000 a year since that date in upkeep charges, for a marine guard, watchmen, and a detail of officers.

Some of the tools and machinery have been sold for scrap. The government has been offered several thousands of dollars for portions of the plant acreage for subdivision purposes.

Expects Bids in 48 Hours.

Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, said today that while navy steel was "still a problem," she expected "within 48 hours" one or two bids from steel companies for battleship plate which would forestall and probably avert congressional action. Although she would not discuss it, she said she understood that the next move, otherwise, would have been to consider asking congress to remove the tarif on steel.

NONOPERATING RAIL MEN TO ASK 20% WAGE BOOST

Delegates to a joint meeting of sixteen nonoperating railroad unions at the Morrison hotel yesterday agreed to ask for an increase in wages of twenty cents an hour for the 800,000 members of the organization. This approximates 20 per cent. Their action followed that of the "big five" operating brotherhoods which at a recent meeting here voted to ask the roads for a flat 20 per cent boost.

The combined membership of the twenty-one operating and nonoperating unions is about 1,100,000 and it is estimated that if the requests were granted it would add about $360,000,000 annually to the railroad pay roll.

George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, who presided at yesterday's meeting, said that railroad labor and management are approaching an accord on pensions as the result of a series of conferences.

He denied reports that the unions had offered to give up their demand for a six hour day in return for acceptance of the pension plan.

Other demands agreed upon at the meeting yesterday include a guarantee of full time employment for all regularly assigned forces and a guarantee of two-thirds full time for all stand-by employés.

REPUBLICANS OPEN ATTACK ON TRADE TREATIES

Term President's Power Illegal.

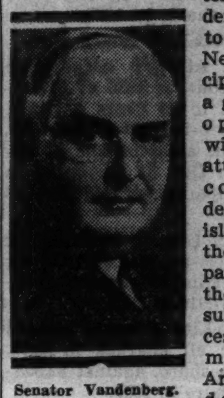
Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Senate debate on the bill to extend the President's authority to proclaim the New Deal's reciprocal trade agreements opened today with a Republican attack on the "unconstitutional" delegation of legislative power to the executive department and on the economic results of tarif concessions already made. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], leading the attack, cited following results to illustrate the kind of "reciprocity" obtained by some of tthe trade agreements now in force.



Senator Vandenberg.

"Our exports to Canada went up 17 per cent, but our imports from Canada rose 30 per cent. Our exports to Cuba climbed 11 per cent, but our imports from Cuba went up 19 per cent. Exports to the Netherlands rose 17 per cent, but imports from the Netherlands advanced 22 per cent. Our exports to Sweden improved 9 per cent, but our imports from Sweden went up 21 per cent.

Finds "Victory" Puzzling.

"How many times you can repeat that sort of economic victory and still be solvent is beyond my comprehension."

Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, defended the program as "the best way to build up trade" because it is "almost impossible" to get "a fair and equitable tarif bill" through congress.

The senate failed to reach a vote on the proposal to extend the program three years after June 12, but leaders predicted action tomorrow. The house already has passed it.

Senator Vandenberg assailed, as one of the unconstitutional aspects of the reciprocal trade policy, a provision in the Brazilian agreement by which the American government agreed not to impose any additional excise taxes on Brazilian imports.

Says Congress' Hands Are Tied.

"This section absolutely ties the hands of congress against assessing any new national or federal internal taxes against foreign imports from Brazil," he said.

Vandenberg was supported by Senator Borah [R., Idaho] in his contention that the agreements were treaties subject to senate ratification.

"It has always been my view," he said, "that they are treaties, and the senate cannot waive its constitutional duty to ratify them."

Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], who denounced the reciprocal trade program in the name of various agricultural associations, offered an amendment requiring senate ratification of each agreement and abolishing the "most favored nation" provision.

He said under the "most favored nation" policy concessions had been extended to 70 nations but that only 15 of them had made similar concessions to the United States. Capper charged the Canadian agreement, lowering duty on heavy cattle under a quota restriction, had adversely affected the American market.

COURT APPROVES HOTEL SHERMAN REORGANIZATION

A plan for the reorganization of the Hotel Sherman company under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act was confirmed yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The original plan submitted to the court provided for a management contract between the new corporation and Ernest Byfield and Frank Bering, co-managers of the property.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCE ON EUROPEAN DEMAND

American cotton markets showed a strong undertone yesterday in sympathy with Liverpool, and on the delivery of 12,900 bales of spot cotton on March contracts in New York which were taken by a leading spot house. Trading was much larger than recently, with closing trades showing net gains of .05 to .31 cents a pound in leading markets, the latter on March at New York.

Spot cotton closed .10 to .30 cents higher with New Orleans and New York at 13.10 cents and Galveston and Houston at 12.70 cents a pound. Prices follow:

LARD PRICES CLOSE LOWER IN SYMPATHY WITH GRAIN

Lard showed stubborn resistance to pressure early, advancing on scattered buying based on the uncertain political situation in Europe. It weakened later in sympathy with the grain markets and closed with net losses of 2½ to 5 cents. Short covering helped to check the decline.

Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 2½ cents lower to 5 cents higher. Cash lard was quoted at $12.02½; loose, $11.32½; leaf, $11, and clear bellies at $16 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

GRAINS SLUMP; NEAR SEASON'S LOWEST LEVELS

Tired Holders Liquidate to Reduce Losses.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

| | Yesterday. | Saturday. | Wk.ago. | Mo.ago. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat | 1.30½ | 1.32⅝ | 1.35¼ | 1.28⅞ |
| Corn | 1.05⅝ | 1.06½ | 1.09⅛ | 1.09⅝ |
| Oats | .46⅛ | .48⅛ | .50¼ | .50⅞ |
| Soy beans | 1.54 | 1.56¼ | 1.56¾ | 1.58 |

Grain prices declined sharply yesterday as the result of a general selling movement which disclosed a lack of aggressive support. Closing trades were well toward the lowest levels of the session, with wheat, oats, rye, and soy beans showing losses of 2 cents or more, while corn was about a cent a bushel lower.

All grains were in new low ground since early in February and September oats were at a new low for the season, selling at 39⅝ cents at the extreme.

Drouth Broken in Southwest.

A breaking of the drouth in the southwestern part of the winter wheat belt late last week and the failure of flour business to expand, combined with the extremely conservative attitude recently adoped by European buyers, have undermined the confidence of holders of futures.

There was no export business of consequence in cash wheat yesterday. Winnipeg reported that the Canadian wheat board sold the May wheat future, with the close as much as 2⅛ cents a bushel lower than Saturday, while Liverpool was off 1¼ to 1½ cents.

Bullish Statistics Ignored.

Bullish statistics fell flat as a market influence in wheat. The domestic visible supply decreased 1,961,000 bushels and now aggregates 41,511,000 bushels, compared with 57,662,000 bushels last year, and is the smallest at this season in over ten years.

Coarse grains, rye, and soy beans were largely affected by the action of wheat.

NEW YORK CURB TRANSACTIONS

Tuesday, February 23, 1937.

COPPER FOR USE HERE BOOSTED TO 15 CENTS A POUND

Advanced Despite Drop in London Market.

In an effort to catch up with the advancing foreign market, leading United States producers of copper yesterday advanced the price of the metal to 15 cents a pound. The price is a cent a pound above that quoted generally last Saturday and is the fourth advance since Jan. 1,

The price advance yesterday came simultaneously with a decline in the London copper market, which has been the focal point of the speculation in the metal for the last several weeks. The London market closed at 16 cents, a cent a pound below Monday. Weakness in the British market was attributed to fears that the British government is preparing to take some action to check speculation in the metal. The government is anxious to prevent the rise in prices from imperiling its huge rearmament program.

Copper Futures Advance.

Copper futures in the New York market continued to advance yesterday. Copper for delivery next May sold as high as 15¼ cents but lost part of its gain to close at 14.68 cents as compared with last Saturday's price of 14.60 cents. Sales in the export market were made late in the day at 15¾ cents a pound.

Prices of metals other than copper were again strong yesterday, although no changes were announced by lead and zinc producers.

Other Commodities Rise.

EGGS RISE ON LIGHT RECEIPTS AND SMALLER OUTPUT; BUTTER MIXED

Horizontal Union Man Goes Vertical

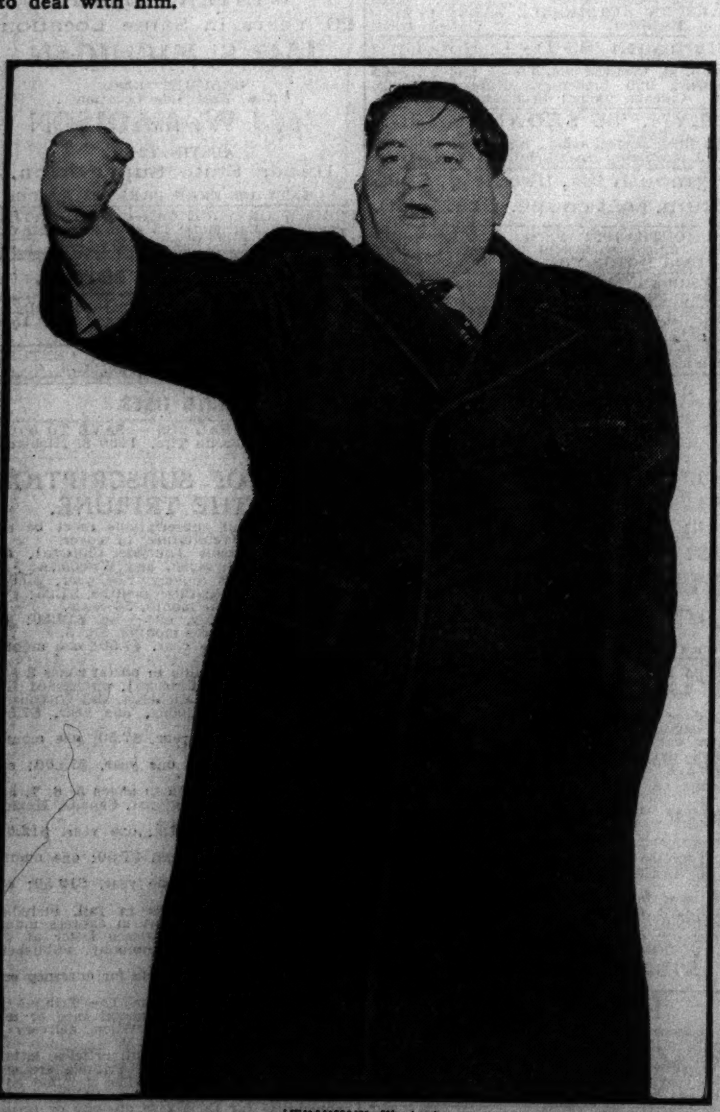
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Meyer Adelman was once an official in the Cooks and Pastry Cooks union (horizontal or trade union), but he became friendly with John L. Lewis' C. I. O. (vertical union) and was made an organizer.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. Adelman is the big union man in the Fansteel sitdown strike, no longer horizontal in his labor affiliations, but still wide in the shoulders. His bulk looms as an obstacle to peace, for Fansteel refuses to deal with him.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. Adelman stands to speak thus to his friends, the sitters, and on these occasions he rears his 300 pounds (some allege 330) to his full 6 feet, no longer the one time chef, but a strikers' barricade.
